Sixteen-year-old Melissa DeHaan of Terra Linda takes an unscheduled plunge in Civic Center Lagoon. It was HOT yesterday and Miss DeHaan's intention was to give her mount, Gypsy, a cooling stroll through the water, but Gypsy reared and that was that.

The thermometer hit 93 in San Rafael and the high in Marin was 101 in nearby Marinwood. Other temperatures were 91 in Larkspur, 90 in Petaluma and 96 in San Anselmo. Sausalito and Point Reyes Station registered 84. The weatherman says fair and cooler tomorrow.

Ferry Hearing On Tonight At Toll Plaza

Tonight's public hearing on the environmental impact report on a permanent Sausalito ferry terminal will be held at 8 o'clock at the Golden Gate Bridge District's toll plaza offices despite a last-minute legal maneuver by the city to shift it to Central School.

City attorneys — acting more than a month after the district set tonight's hearing — late yesterday got a court order requiring the district either to cancel the hearing and hold it another time in Sausalito, or proceed with tonight's session on condition that a second be held in the city at some future date, or hold tonight's meeting and show in court that a Sausalito hearing is not needed.

David Miller, the district's attorney, said the necessity of holding a second one in Sausalito will be argued in Marin Superior Court at 9 a.m. on Sept. 5.

In any event, Miller noted, state law does not require that any public hearing at all be held. He also cited a provision in the law that permits such hearings, if held, to be conducted "where public hearings are regularly conducted by the agency."

The city's special counsel in its protest against the terminal, Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., argued that since only 50 persons can fit into the bridge board's hearing room, tonight's session would be "a sham." Other persons accommodated in the hallway and an adjacent room would be excluded from participating in the hearing, he said in his petition.

The order was issued by Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson. District attorneys were not given notice of the move yesterday, but Miller said today that the court has no authority in the matter since the hearing was entirely optional.

The city has filed a separate suit to halt the terminal unless the district gives the city control over the ferry system.

The environmental report concedes the terminal will cause increased vehicular and tourist traffic, noise and air pollution, but says these adverse effects will be more than offset regionally because the expanded ferry system will lower air pollution by encouraging people to use the ferry instead of driving.

GNP Records Drop For Second Quarter

Inflation Rate Higher Than Was Anticipated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gross National Product dropped by 0.8 per cent during the second quarter of the year, the Commerce Department said today. It was the second straight quarterly decline — the theoretical definition of a recession.

The 0.8 per cent figure was a slight improvement over the preliminary figures for April to June issued by the department last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop in the GNP.

On the other hand, the department said inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or noninflated growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists have insisted that the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

With the exception of the 12.3 per cent rate of price increases in the first quarter, the April-June inflation rate was the biggest three-month rise since the first quarter of 1951.

Commerce Secretary Fredrick B. Dent said the modest softening was "an improvement" over the first quarter but "nevertheless validates the essentiality of President Ford's battle to cut the inflation rate."

Both the growth and inflation figures were part of the department's quarterly report on GNP, which measures the total value of goods and services produced in this country in a given period. It is the most comprehensive report on the health of the economy.

The revised report put the overall second quarter increase at $28.5 billion, pushing GNP to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,387.3 billion ($1.4 trillion).

A separate Commerce report showed profits of U.S. corporations before taxes rose $11.7 billion in the second quarter to a $150.4 billion annual rate. This was off from the $16 billion first quarter rise.

The profit picture in both quarters has been distorted by inflation. Virtually all of the profit gains have been due to increases in inventory profits, which are the gains generated by the rise in inventories between the time of purchase and eventual resale.

The GNP report came a day after the Labor Department reported the consumer price index for July went up 0.8 per cent, bringing the overall increase to almost 12 per cent during the last year. The Labor Department's inflation index, now running at a seasonally adjusted rate of about 11.7 per cent, is based on the narrower measurement of retail price changes.

Water Agency Is Charged With Using Scare Tactics

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma Water Agency was accused yesterday of attempting to "create a water crisis in order to frighten people into voting for the Warm Springs Dam."

Iva Warner of Santa Rosa, president of Sonoma County Tomorrow and co-chairman of the antidam Warm Springs Task Force, said county officials have deliberately delayed construction of the Cotati-Russian River Intertie aqueduct, a pipeline to bring water into Southern Sonoma and Northern Marin.

"The Cotati Intertie would have overcome the bottleneck in the existing pipeline and brought the unused half of Coyote Dam's water to Southern Sonoma this year if the board of supervisors and the water agency had begun the aqueduct in 1972," she said.

By delaying the aqueduct, Mrs. Warner said, the water agency has allowed costs to rise from about $15 million in 1972 to $30 million now.

"It is neither lack of funds nor 'environmentalists' who are to blame," she said.

"The water agency has surplus funds that it has been investing week after week rather than taking care of the system. And it could have issued revenue bonds or asked the voters for general obligation bonds to raise the additional money needed."

Sonoma supervisors were informed earlier this week that the aqueduct's cost had skyrocketed during delays caused by Petaluma's request for additional water. County officials blamed Marin County environmentalists for adding to the delay by opposing their county's participation in the project.

House Writes End To Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House released today the historical final report of the judiciary committee on impeachment, changing some language but still maintaining that former President Nixon lied, violated laws and subverted the Constitution.

Conclusions supporting each of the three articles of impeachment voted against Nixon were included in a draft of the report circulated to the 38 committee members last week.

They already were strongly worded, but the final report of 525 pages expanded on them, providing greater detail and more support for the actions taken.

"President Nixon's course of conduct following the Watergate break-in, as described in Article One, caused action not only by his subordinates, but by the agencies of the United States, including the Department of Justice, the FBI and the CIA," the report concluded at the end of its justification for the first article.

"It required perjury, destruction of evidence, obstruction of justice, all crimes. But, most important, it required deliberate, contrived and continuing deception of the American people."

It acknowledged receipt of the three transcripts of taped conversations released by Nixon on Aug. 5. That release proving Nixon's involvement in the cover-up of the Watergate break-in as early as six days after the June 17, 1972 burglary, led to unanimous committee support for the first article. A week earlier the Committee had decided on that article, approving it 27-11.

The tape release also led to overwhelming House and Senate demands for Nixon's resignation or removal from office. He resigned four days later, ending the impeachment process. The House voted, 412-3 on Tuesday to receive the panel's final report and to commend it for its 10 months of work.

The first 278 pages of the report contain the conclusions and the panel's evidence gathered and compiled under the direction of Special Counsel John M. Doar. The rest includes "supplemental, additional, separate, dissenting, minority, individual and concurring views" by most of the panel members.

One was a report written by chief GOP Counsel Sam Garrison for the 10 committee Republicans who voted against each of the proposed articles during the committee's late July debate, but who changed their minds on Article One after Nixon's Aug. 5 revelation.

Garrison's report was only slightly altered in the final version.

Perhaps some persons would continue to say that Nixon was hounded out, Garrison's statement said. "We feel constrained to point out, however, that it was Richard Nixon who impeded the FBI's investigation of the Watergate affair by wrongfully attempting to implicate the Central Intelligence Agency.

"It was Richard Nixon who created and preserved the evidence of that transgression and who, knowing that it had been supoenaed by this committee and the special prosecutor, concealed its terrible import, even from his own counsel until he could do so no longer."

Another Council Hopeful Applies

Robert Davis of 8224 El Rancho Drive today became the seventh person to apply for one of the two Cotati City Council seats vacated Aug. 7 by councilmen who resigned after being arrested on suspicion of stealing marijuana from the city police department.

No background information on Davis is available, as City Mgr. Robert A. Switzer has ordered none be released.

The council is to name new members at its Sept. 3 meeting.

Ford Declares Monday Women's Equality Day

"It's been my observation that women over the years, especially in politics have to do things twice as well in order to get credit," Ford said. "We've got to change that."

Ford began his day — his 14th in office — with his first medical examination since being sworn in as President. The White House clinic and his personal physician said "everything is fine."

"It looks like a chorus line," one of the legislators quipped.

Ford stood in the center of the line with one arm around Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., and the other arm around Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y. Ford's wife, Betty, was also in attendance.

Ford asked the congresswomen how many states need to pass the Equal Rights Amendment before it is ratified. Several of them said at once, "We're five short."

Following the ceremony, Rep. Abzug, who introduced the House version of the proclamation, urged Ford "to use his influence to achieve final adoption of the Equal Rights Ammendment and to appoint a significant number of women to decision making posts."

Prototype Airplane Makes First Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Northrop Corporation's second prototype of the world's newest jet fighter, the YF17, has made its first flight test from this Southern California desert base.

Petaluma Hospital Board Member Levels Secret Meeting Charge

Brand T. Johnson, a member of the Hillcrest Hospital Board of Directors in Petaluma, has accused the board with staging a secret meeting without his knowledge.

In a letter to board president Dr. Frederick Groverman, Johnson asked that the meeting be discussed at the board's regular session at 8 p.m. today at the hospital cafeteria.

Johnson told the Independent-Journal that the unannounced meeting held July 30 at the hospital, involving two board members and officials from Sonoma County and Southern Sonoma cities, violated the spirit of the Ralph M. Brown Act, a California law which prohibits unannounced secret meetings of public officials.

He charged that only two board members — chairman Groverman and Dr. Francis M. Crinella, attended the meeting, thus technically avoiding a Brown Act violation since a quorum of the five-man board was not present.

Johnson said he was not informed that the meeting would take place, and he added that he has not since been informed of what occurred during the session.

Groverman confirmed that only two board members were present.

"If we'd had more than that there would have been a violation of the Brown Act," he admitted. Groverman acknowledged that Johnson had not been invited, but refused to

Man Escapes Death In Fall At Seashore

A 25-year-old Berkeley man escaped death yesterday when a team of park rangers rescued him after he fell down a sheer cliff in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The victim, William Dickinson, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was under treatment for a broken right arm and fractured lumbar vertebrae.

Ranger John Aho said it took rangers and hikers who volunteered assistance more than two hours to carry Dickinson from a beach to a waiting ambulance at the top of the cliff at the end of Bear Valley Trail.

A man hiking with Dickinson went for help after the accident at about 2 p.m. Rangers were summoned by a park volunteer, who was exercising a horse in the rugged park, Aho said.

They found that Dickinson had fallen about 45 feet as he was attempting to climb down a cliff in the Sea Tunnel area. Aho said the hiker had left the marked trail and was about halfway down the cliff when he lost his footing.

Dickinson fell onto sand, Aho said, which probably saved his life, but by the time rangers reached the injured man, people on the beach had moved him to avoid an incoming tide.

Tax Rate In Larkspur Will Remain The Same

Larkspur residents will have the same tax rate in 1974-75 that they had in 1973-74, the Larkspur City Council decided last night. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 3.)

Councilmen set the rate per $100 assessed valuation at $1.98 including sanitation service for most of Larkspur, and at $1.48 for the Greenbrae section of the city which is served by the Ross Valley Sanitary District, whose rate is $1.

Property tax revenues will help finance a $2 million budget which councilmen approved last month. The budget is slightly higher than last year's but councilmen said a 9.94 per cent increase in the city's assessed valuation will bring in enough more money to take care of that.

Even though the tax rate is unchanged, most property owners will seen an increase in their tax bill because of the increase in valuation. Only in a few parts of the city which were not reassessed by the county assessor will tax bills remain the same.

The $1.98 rate covers $1.36 for operating expenses, 50 cents for sanitary purposes and 12 cents to pay the cost of the city employees retirement system.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Simon Backs Big Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today joined Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns in pushing for a $10 billion cut in the federal budget.

Simon

Testifying before the new Senate Budget Committee Wednesday, Burns argued for the slash as a psychological signal to business and unions that the government is intent on reducing inflation.

Simon, who was interviewed on the CBS Morning News, said a $10 billion cut favored by the new administration is possible.

Burns said the immediate effect of a $10 billion cut in the $305 billion budget would be to spur the stock market, bring down short-term interest rates and thus release forces in the economy "that would make for more jobs, not fewer."

But Walter Heller, former economic adviser to President Kennedy, heatedly disagreed, saying a $10 billion cut would lead to a $30 billion drop in the national economy.

TB Tests Ordered

WHITE PLAINS (UPI) — Hundreds of infants were exposed to tuberculosis at a Yonkers, N.Y., hospital over a seven-month period and health officials now say they should all be given TB skin tests.

But Westchester County health officials said yesterday it is unlikely any of them will contract the disease.

Health Commissioner Jack Goldman said about 1,300 babies born at St. John's Riverside Hospital in Yonkers between Dec. 17, 1973, and July 22, 1974, came in contact with a nurse who didn't know she had tuberculosis.

Hospital Shelled

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners shelled a military hospital today in a district town 30 miles northwest of Saigon, field officers said today.

Eight rounds of 60mm mortar fire hit the Trang Bang district hospital near dawn, wounding four patients, officers said.

In Cambodia, rebel gunners fired four rockets at a government air force ammunition depot six miles southwest of Phnom Penh this morning, killing one civilian employee.

Israeli Protest

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli officers said today an Egyptian missile attack against a patrolling warplane threatened to undermine the six-month-old agreement separating opposing armies in the Sinai Desert.

"We have an agreement," a military source in Tel Aviv said. "If they fire, we could do the same thing. But we didn't. This is the most serious violation since the agreement. It's serious business."

Israel complained to the United Nations yesterday that Egyptian troops on the east bank of the Suez Canal fired a Soviet-built Strela missile at a patrolling Israeli warplane.

Shift In Policy?

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union is prepared to make concessions on Jewish emigration from Russia to Israel in return for American most-favored national trade treatment, Communist diplomats said today.

The sources said this is a very delicate problem for Moscow and the Kremlin does not want publicity for its plans to ease up on emigration.

Nevertheless, the combination of trade considerations, world pressures and domestic troubles appear to have combined to make the Russian regime more amenable to softening its policy.

An American compromise formula, now under consideration in Moscow, was understood to point to the expected settlement.

This formula reportedly calls for a Soviet undertaking that Russian Jews wanting to emigrate to Israel will not be penalized. Many have lost their jobs after applying for emigration visas and have been harassed in various ways.

Hearings Set

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Civil suits seeking more than $11 million in damages by the parents of 12 Kent State University students killed or wounded by National Guardsmen will be heard in U.S. District Court beginning April 7.

The defendants include former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and the one-time top officials of both Kent State University and the Ohio National Guard.

U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young of Toledo agreed to combine all 12 suits into one trial to be held in Cleveland.

In addition to the civil suits, eight guardsmen were indicted on criminal charges by a federal grand jury last March.

Mystery Rock

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A large chunk of metal which may have come from outer space struck a city street yesterday and bounced into a house, doing slight damage.

Police Sgt. Dale Johnson said the piece of metal fell on a street at 5:55 p.m., went about 60 feet in the air, hit some grass and took a second hop into the side of a house where it broke off some siding.

The home was the residence of the William Murray family. No one was hurt and little damage done, Johnson said.

A Strike Ultimatum

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Striking San Mateo city firemen have been given an ultimatum to return to work by Monday or be fired.

The threat was a city council vote yesterday, followed by authorization for Mayor John C. Lilly to hire fire house replacements.

The councilmen directed Lilly to send individual telegrams to the 114 firemen informing them of the ultimatum.

Security Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless President Ford designates his Vail, Colo., condominium as his permant home, his skiing vacations there could be extremely expensive because of a bill working its way through Congress.

The bill, authored by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., would limit major permanent security improvements to only one presidential home away from the White House.

It also would bar any permanent installations costing more than $5,000 at any other privately owned property.

FACES HECKLER — Nelson A. Rockefeller last night made his first speech since nomination for vice president Tuesday and encountered his first protestor. A heckler (silhouetted right) stood at the $100-a-plate dinner Rockefeller was addressing and berated him for his wealth. The nominee replied to the angry audience, "Let him stay, this is a free country." (UPI Telephoto)

Rockefeller Squelches Hecklers In First Speech As Nominee

NEWPORT R.I. (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking from the pink party tent of "The Great Gatsby," last night fended off hecklers critical of his wealth at his first Republican party function since being picked for vice president.

"Let him stay. This is a country of free traditions, of freedom of speech," Rockefeller implored when an angry guest at the $100-a-plate GOP function bodily carried one of the protestors from the tent.

The man, Joseph McDonough, 22, Boston, a member of the U.S. Labor Party, returned, started to interrupt, and was told by Rockefeller, "You'll have your chance."

The fundraiser, a summer event in this posh resort area, was held on the estate of of John and Eileen Slocum not far from Rosecliff Mansion where the "The Great Gatsby" was filmed. The tent was used in the movie for lavish party scenes.

"We came here to speak about how Rockefeller is establishing a fascist economy in the United States," said Steven Desmond, McDonough's companion, after Rockefeller's speech. He too was escorted out by guests when he began distributing mimiographed position statements of the U. S. Labor Party.

During Rockefeller's 15-minute speech, faint strains of "Taps" floated across the huge lawn. They came from a group protesting Rockefeller's 1972 veto of a bill which would have repealed New York's liberal abortion law.

About 40 members of a Right to Life Committee carried signs reading "Rockefeller brings abortion to the White House" and "Everyone should have a birthday."

In his 15-minute speech, Rockefeller said President Ford offered the nation "openness, dedication and integrity." He said Ford "personified the feeling of all America."

The event was originally billed as an evening with Vice President Ford, but Rockefeller was substituted after Ford became president.

Bomber Led A Strange Double Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Muharem Kurbegovic, the alleged "alphabet bomber" accused of setting off a deadly blast at the Los Angeles airport, may have been motivated by resentment over police refusal to allow him to open a taxi dance hall.

Neighbors and former coworkers have painted a portrait of Kurbegovic's strange double life, which included masquerading as a mute for two years on his job as a mechanical engineer.

Authorities expected to bring at least three murder charges against Kurbegovic — perhaps late today — for the blast at Los Angeles International Airport Aug. 6 that killed two skycaps and a passenger from New Zealand, wounded 35 others and did extensive damage.

Investigators said Kurbegovic trapped himself by giving away vital clues to his identity in the taped messages he left at various points to communicate his demands.

He was arrested in the men's room of a hamburger stand Tuesday night by plainclothes officers who had him under surveillance, reportedly after he taped another cassette for later pickup, again using the identity of "Isaac Rasin, military commander of the Aliens of America."

Bombs and explosives were found in his apartment, police said.

Kurbegovic's landlady, Lillian Gerbosi, described him as friendly and responsive to questions, until recent weeks, if somewhat of a recluse.

But at the RPM Industries plant where Kurbegovic worked until he was laid off in a staff cutback just last Friday, his boss, Stephen Smith, was astonished to learn that Kurbegovic could speak.

For two years, Kurbegovic never said a word, communicating through "hundreds of furiously scribbled notes," Smith said, including lengthy conversations on politics, religion and social philosophies.

"The secret is the ability to read character — so you don't approach anyone who might offer you work."

Rockefeller Record Will Be Examined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate committee that will hold confirmation hearings for Nelson A. Rockefeller, has asked four government agencies to begin investigating the nominee's record.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., head of the Rules Committee, yesterday asked the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office to begin compiling information on the former New York governor.

A similar request is expected soon from Cannon's opposite number in the House, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., head of the Judiciary Committee. Rockefeller met Tuesday with Cannon and Rodino, before returning to his vacation home at Seal Harbor, Maine.

A White House spokesman has said both the FBI and the IRS, as well as the office of Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, made quick checks on Rockefeller while Ford was making his decision.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., ranking GOP member of the Judiciary Committee, urged quick action, saying the confirmation process should take no more than eight weeks.

Drug Squad Is Backed, But With Reservations

The concept of a countywide narcotics squad was endorsed last night by the Larkspur City Council. But councilmen balked at supporting a proposal which would put the squad under the operational control of the City of San Rafael. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 1.)

"Perhaps San Rafael could in some way coordinate this through (county) supervisors," suggested Councilman William G. Fleckles. "That would be someone we all vote for."

As proposed, the squad would be headed by San Rafael Deputy Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly and Mayor Joan L. Sestak wondered to whom Kelly would be responsible.

The matter came before the council because the San Rafael City Council has asked all other city councils in Marin to take a stand for or against the squad. The squad is to be federally-funded but has been stalled before county supervisors. Final county opposition would kill the project.

The Larkspur City Council also:

PROTEST — Received a letter from Themeos Drossos of 15 Olive Avenue, protesting resurfacing of Madrone Avenue and saying the street should be left rutted as a deterrent to speeders. Councilmen directed staff to study traffic on the avenue but said they would go ahead with the resurfacing as planned.

SIGNS — Adopted an ordinance extending to Feb. 3, 1975, the deadline for removing illegal signs within the city.

FORTUNE TELLING — Adopted an ordinance which strikes down an existing city regulation prohibiting fortune telling. In the future, fortune tellers must apply for a city business license.

ORDINANCES — Introduced ordinances which would provide for a retirement program for police and firemen; require that drivers crub their vehicles' wheels on all grades greater than 3 per cent; and provide for exemptions for developers in planned development districts who would otherwise have to wait to submit development plans at the same time as all other landowners in the district.

FERRY — Viewed slides and heard a report from Golden Gate Bridge District officials on the Larkspur Ferry Terminal. The plans were unchanged from those discussed by the bridge district in recent months. Councilmen were told that the five bids submitted for the project will again be reviewed by district directors tomorrow at 10 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

SLIDE — Agreed to purchase rubber pipe, estimated to cost $30,000, to replace storm drain pipe broken in a slide on private property last winter below Via La Paz in Greenbrae. Councilmen also agreed to summon area landowners before the council to discuss measures they are taking to correct the slide.

APPLICATIONS — Agreed that applications for a vacancy on the city's board of design should be submitted by Sept. 13.

EMPLOYEE — Were told that former maintenance man Robert Friele, who was fired last month, has protested his dismissal and will receive a hearing before the council Sept. 4.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

HOLD YOUR CAMERA STEADY

Did you ever wonder why you didn't get the picture you saw in the view-finder of your eye-level camera? . . . If you did not, perhaps it's because you were not looking squarely through the finder, so the camera lens did not see the same area as you did.

Most people hold the camera too far out from their face or on their nose. It should be held on the cheek bone, so close that you can feel your eyelashes touch the camera body at the camera "peep hole". If you use this method you will be able to see the front side of the view-finder frame completely. Try this when you take your next snap shots and also do this . . . Hold the camera steady . . . pivot your body to frame the picture you want . . . do not swing the camera on your face to fit the scene. Press the shutter slowly like squeezing the trigger on a gun. For those who wear glasses, remove them, let your eyes settle a moment or so and you will be able to see first rate through the finder. If you cannot see well enough without your glasses, you may leave them on. If you turn the camera bottom side up, placing the camera on your forehead squarely. Don't try this last method with your movie camera, however, it would be disasterous.

For further help on this, please drop into our photo shop. And while you are in our shop, why not get your flash checked andlet us polish your lens . . . it will help you get brighter and sharper pictures.

Pension Reform Bill Is Sent To President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed and sent to the President today a pension reform bill designed to prevent abuses which have cheated thousands of workers out of their expected retirement incomes.

The bill establishes new standards for private pension plans covering more than 30 million workers, and provides for a new government insurance agency to pay pensions up to $750 a month if a company defaults on its obligations.

The new Pension Benefit Guarantee Corp. would be financed through premium payments from employers. Employers additionally would be liable for up to 30 per cent of their assets if they terminated a pension plan without sufficient funds to pay all pension obligations.

Companies also would be required to put enough money into their pension funds to meet all obligations, and new rules with stiff criminal penalties would be established to prevent fraud or conflict of interest in the management of pension funds.

The bill would assure a worker that once he becomes vested in a pension — that is, when he has worked long enough to be guaranteed pension payments at retirement age, based on years of service — he will receive a pension even if he is fired, quits before retirement age or his company moves out of town or goes out of business.

Minimum vesting standards are established so that once an employee has worked five to 10 years — depending on which standard his company uses — he is guaranteed at least a partial pension payment at retirement age. After 15 years of enrollment in a pension plan, a worker would be guaranteed a full pension, based on his salary or years of service at the time he leaves the company.

Ford Signs Housing Funds Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today signed a $11.2 billion housing and community development bill designed to give local governments more control over how federal aid money is spent.

It was the 17th bill Ford signed since he became President less than two weeks ago.

The three-year bill consolidates eight federal programs, including Model Cities and urban renewal, into one block grant. It will reduce the parade of city and county officials who now must come to Washington seeking specific grants for every program from laying a sewer to rebuilding the central city.

So long as the programs meet general federal goals, such as elimination of slums and housing for the poor, the local officials now will receive one lump sum of money to be used as they and their voters wish.

Mill Valley Adds 5 Cents To Tax Rate

Deciding at the last minute to add a nickel to the city's tax rate to help finance a new public safety building, the Mill Valley City Council last night adopted a 1974-75 tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation.

Mayor Robert E. Burton said the nickel will add about $31,000 to the city's revenue. Bids on the East Mill Valley public safety building have come in about $300,000 over estimates and Burton said the city reserves will finance the rest.

A decision on awarding a contract for the building is expected early next month.

"It seems evident at this point that the choice we will make is to go ahead with the public safety building," Burton said.

The tax rate is lower than the $2.883 levied last year but most property owners will still see an increase in their tax bills because the city's valuation has risen by 15.33 per cent.

The tax rate will finance a $3.25 million budget previously approved by the council.

Burton said it was his idea to add the nickel to the tax rate and he received unanimous support from other councilmen present. Councilman Ivan S. Poutiatine was absent.

Of the $2.75 rate, $2.403 will go toward general operating expenses and $34.7 cents will be used for bonds.

Burton said councilmen also unanimously decided to renew the city's sewer service charge for another year. It costs the owner of a single-family home $3.40 per month.

He said the charge is needed to finance continued sewer repair to correct infiltration of water into the system.

Burton said about 80 persons attended the meeting and many spoke against continuing the service charge.

"Bascially they were saying 'We can't afford it,' but nobody had any reasonable alternatives," Burton said.

MEETING

He claimed that the only purpose of the meeting was to inform local officials of the hospital's current bed shortage, aggravated two months ago by the closing of Petaluma General Hospital.

"We explained basic facts — the purpose of the hospital district, its boundaries, its history and the problems we're facing today," Groverman said.

Groverman would not explain why the board thought it necessary to keep a meeting for that purpose a secret from the public.

Those present at the session, which was not announced to the public, included Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam and councilmen Fred V. Mattei and Robert E. Daly; Petaluma planning director Frank B. Gray; Sonoma supervisor Philip L. Joerger and county planner George Kovach; Cotati councilman Allen C. Stansbury and a member of the Rohnert Park city staff.

Ralph Burgess, mother of the late Mrs. Davies, and John (right) and Mrs. John L. Davies, mother of the ambassador. Slain Ambassador Arrives Home

By FRANK FARRARA

The body of Rodger P. Davies, the U.S. Ambassador killed in Cyprus, was returned yesterday to his native state without pomp.

A blue and white Air Force jet carrying his body landed at Hamilton Air Force Base shortly before 3 p.m. after a five-hour flight from Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

In contrast to the earlier ceremonies in Maryland, the Hamilton arrival was a sad family reunion, as private as could be under the circumstances.

As the plane taxied to a halt in front of the base tower and the "Welcome to Hamilton Air Force Base" sign, the whine of the engines shattered the quiet.

Family and friends emerged from waiting limousines, while a cluster of onlookers watched from the shade beneath the tower and the press remained a short distance away.

Six air force officers, acting as pallbearers, marched to the plane and carried the flag-draped, wooden casket to a waiting hearse, flanked by a wreath of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The Davies children, Anna Davies, 20, and John Davies, 15, then stepped from the plane accompanied by Rev. John Rivers, a Washington priest and friend of their father.

They walked into a cluster of relatives and friends and the embraces of many.

In the gathering were Davies' mother, Kitty Davies of Placerville, and his mother-in-law, Meg Burgess of Berkeley, mother of Davies' late wife, Sally Burgess Davies.

Standing at the rim of the circle offering condolences when the opportunity arose was Dr. A. K. Simonidis, consul for Cyprus in San Francisco.

The chrysanthemums and another wreath taken from the plane were placed in the hearse, and the family reunion continued while the baggage was unloaded.

Reminders of happier days, a tennis racquet and guitar, were among the baggage, and wooden boxes containing 500 pounds of Davies' personal belongings were stacked on the concrete apron.

At the request of the family there was no interview and no ceremony "because of the strain," according to an Air Force spokesman.

Retired Ambassador Harrison Symmes, Leamon R. Hunt, deputy assistant secretary of state, acting as escort officer and Ambassador Davies' brother, John Arthur Davies, were among the 15 passengers, family and friends, who arrived on the plane.

Couple Pays $24,000 For Classy Dog

SYDNEY (UPI) — A couple has paid $24,000 for a dog, and said when it arrived yesterday it is worth every penny.

The canine aristocrat is the first of its breed to be imported into Australia in 44 years.

Ingo was bought by the Colics a year ago in Germany, spent 12 months in quarantine in England and now must spend a further three months quarantine in Sydney under Australian regulations before it moves in with its new owners in their home in suburban Mona Vale.

The Colics, breeders of German Shepherds, said the price did not bother them.

"When we saw Ingo he was everything we had been looking for and we did not quibble at the price," said Marga Colic yesterday after the dog arrived on a jetliner from London.

Turks Are Freeing Greek Civilians

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Turkey said today its troops on Cyprus have begun freeing Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners and Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said he will meet shortly with Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash in a possible first move toward a peace settlement.

Clerides said he hoped to meet Denktash within 36 hours. However, the Cyprus government later announced Clerides will fly to Athens Friday for urgent talks with the Greek government. This made it unlikely Clerides and Denktash could meet before Saturday.

"It would be better for the meeting to be held after Mr. Clerides returns from Athens," a Turkish Cypriot spokesman said.

Water rationing was introduced in Nicosia during the day. The pumps furnishing most of the capital's water are behind Turkish lines and the Turks have barred Greek Cypriot technicians who fled during recent fighting to return to maintain them.

A U.N. spokesman in the east coast port of Famagusta, captured by the Turkish army a week ago, said livestock abandoned by fleeing Greek Cypriots were drinking water from the sea.

Swedish U.N. troops continued to man eight observation posts in Famagusta despite a Turkish request that they leave.

A U.N. spokesman said the Turkish soldiers in Famagusta were holding up food supplies to the 550-man Swedish peacekeeping contingent. Blue-bereted Swedish soldiers trundled food supplies on handcarts to their posts in the old walled city because Turkish soldiers refused to allow their vehicles into the area.

Turkish military authorities announced in Ankara that Turkish troops have turned over about 40 Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners to the United Nations peacekeeping force.

The announcement said the prisoners were brought to the Ledra Palace Hotel on the so-called Green Line dividing the Greek and Turkish Cypriot sectors of Nicosia. It said more prisoners might be returned later today and Friday.

Freeing of Cyprus war prisoners began nearly two weeks ago but stopped, with only a score or so released, after the Turkish offensive opened up Aug. 14.

In New York, the Turkish mission to the United Nations announced that Turkish roving Ambassador Nuri Eren has brought messages from his government for President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Its contents were not disclosed.

Clerides told newsmen the first meeting would be restricted to humanitarian problems but expressed hope that it would serve as the foundation for more extensive talks leading to peace.

"It is the beginning of something which can develop into a big step," said the leader of the island's majority Greek Cypriots.

Denktash had threatened earlier to declare the northern third of Cyprus an independent Turkish Cypriot republic unless Greece agrees to resume talks with Turkey for setting up self-governing enclaves on the island.

Wife Can Sue If Sexual Damage Done To Husband

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A wife can sue for damages if her husband's injuries deprive her of "conjugal fellowship and sexual relations," according to the California Supreme Court.

The high court yesterday thus brought California into line with several other states which allow such lawsuits.

Previously, a California spouse could sue for loss of "society and comfort" only if the mate had been killed, as in fatal car or plane crashes.

The judges by a 6-1 decision overturned two earlier Supreme Court rulings when they held that Mary Rodriguez, 23, could sue Bethlehem Steel Corp. for deprivation of her husband's intimate company.

Rodriguez' wife joined his $2 million personal injury suit against Bethlehem Steel — still pending—on the grounds that she can no longer have sexual relations with him.

The lower courts ruled against her separate $500,000 complaint, which was split off from her husband's part of the suit. The courts had based their rulings on 1958 and 1960 state Supreme Court decisions prohibiting such actions.

In the high court's decision yesterday, Justice Stanley Mosk noted that "because he (Rodriguez) has lost all capacity for sexual intercourse, that aspect of married life is wholly denied to her."

"For the same reason," Mosk wrote, "she is forever denied the opportunity to have children by him—she is, for all practical purposes, sterilized."

PREPARATIONS — The six-acre site of the Marin County Fairgrounds at the Civic Center seems almost a deserted village as last minute preparations are made for the fair, which opens next Thursday. Little paddle boats will be available, on the right are canopied commercial display stalls and in the background is a new building housing food concessionaires, who will peddle a wide variety of snacks and ethnic foods.

Best Marin Fair Ever Predicted

As bright canvas was tacked into place, adding even more color to the setting marked by a bright blue lagoon, deep green grass and multicolored petunias, everything seemed almost ready yesterday for Marin County's annual fair.

The fair, being held again this year on the six-acre grounds at the Marin Civic Center, will be bigger and better than ever, fair organizers promise. It will open next Thursday and run through Sept. 2, Labor Day.

Entertainment for all types of tastes will be featured — all of it free — and will include mimes Shields and Yarnell, a Sufi Choir, an old-fashioned fiddle contest, ballet, rock bands, marching bands and even a hypnotist.

New this year, according to fair Manager Marcelle B. McCoy, will be children's activities, including a "hay pitch" on the Civic Center Lagoon island.

Also new this year is the "Flower Pavilion," which will house horticultural exhibits ranging from prize begonia blossoms to lovingly grown kohlrabi.

Nearby, 48 artisans will demonstrate their crafts and sell their wares, including batiked eggs, leaded glass, appliqued kites, mobiles as well as ceramics, macrame, etchings, leatherwork, toys, candles and weaving.

Winning art entries will be on display as will photography, and the fourth annual fair film competition finalists will be shown continuously in the auditorium.

Another new feature this year will be the fireworks display over the lagoon on Aug. 31, following a performance of the variety show, "Youth-of-America-on-Stage," in the auditorium.

For the fair's younger enthusiasts, the biggest attraction this year well may be the new ride, "Sky Wheel," which Mrs. McCoy described as a "double Ferris wheel."

Other carnival rides and a petting zoo also will be featured.

For plant lovers, there will be an exhibit of some 200 bonzai plants in the auditorium, and outdoor garden displays by commercial nurserymen.

Throughout the fair's four-day run, foods of various ethnic backgrounds will be sold at a new food concession building and can be munched as one wanders about or enjoyed leisurely at outdoor tables while listening to entertainment.

Such American fare as hot-dogs, hamburgers and Sno-cones will be available as well as tacos, teriyaki, streudel, pastrami and sangria. The New Age Sufi School will offer such tempting-sounding dishes as ambrosia salad in melon.

On the lagoon, there will be boats for rent and canoe safety demonstrations, and if the weather permits, a hang-glider expert periodically will glide and soar from a nearby hill.

Hours of the fair each of the four days will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $1.75 for adults, $1 for young people 12 to 18 years, and no admission for children under 12.

A complete calendar of events and times will be run next Wednesday in the Independent-Journal.

Marin Artists Receive Grants

Artists Robert S. Fried of Fairfax and Richard Shaw of Stinson Beach have been awarded $3,000 fellowship grants by the National Endowment for the Arts.

They are among 21 Bay Area artists and 226 artists nationwide to receive grants totaling $920,000 this year from the foundation.

Cleanup Of Dumping Ground Is Promised

A spreading dump in a scenic meadow near Fairfax will be cleared of debris "as soon as possible," a representative of a corporation owning the land said today.

Jim Finch, a representative of Continental Mortgage Investors which owns the dumping area and 99 surrounding acres just north of White Hill School, pledged prompt action to remove the debris and prevent further dumping.

"I didn't know anything about it," Finch said when told tons of refuse surreptitiously discarded by Marin County residents is transforming the valley canyon into a festering dump. "Obviously, we'll have to post the area and remove the debris as soon as possible."

Finch also said representatives of the Boston-based, multimillion-dollar financial corporation will look into local ordinances to determine legal liability in the matter.

He hinted that the company may elect to prosecute those responsible for dumping in the area. The canyon is laced with heaps of yard trimmings, rusting appliances, construction rubble and bags of household garbage, including envelopes bearing the names of residents from Mill Valley, San Rafael and San Anselmo.

HIGH BLOOMING CACTUS PLANT

Henry Cerutti eyes the blooms on his 20-foot-tall cactus plant, realizing that if he wanted to pick the blooms, it would take a step-ladder. This is the third year that the cactus has bloomed at his home at 202 C Street, San Rafael. Cerutti got the plant in 1933 when someone threw it away. He planted it and the cactus started growing tall and lush. It has bloomed only during the past three years. The while blooms come out in the morning and are wilted by the heat of the day. The plant has 45 to 50 blooms, only a few opening each day.

Nearly 50 Programs Scheduled

Film series, other lectures, trips and tours round out the complete schedule.

Program and ticket information on all events in the series can be obtained from the college box office Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 p.m.

Sausalito Council Drops Plan For Indian Site Dig

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Bowing to pleas from a contingent of American Indians that their ancestors' graves not be desecrated, the Sausalito City Council last night abandoned plans to excavate an Indian burial ground in the city.

Councilman Robin Sweeny received unanimous support from her colleagues to "most respectfully retreat from our previous position and leave the earth undisturbed."

The action followed emotional presentations by James D. King of Napa, who as Chief Big Bear represents the nearly 70,000-member Crow Band of Indians; Faye Dell Hendricks, the American Indian representative to the Marin County Human Rights Commission; John Finch, director of the American Indian Workshop in San Francisco, and Edward Castillo, a Cahuilla Indian from Southern California.

Also in the audience were about 12 other Indians, including county housing authority commissioner Leatrice Mikkelsen.

Castillo explained for councilman the spiritual importance of maintaining what he described as the "sacred cycle," a basic Indian belief that man must return his body to the earth after death in repayment for the things he has taken from the earth during life.

"It is immoral to desecrate the graves of our people, even for scientific purposes," he said. "There is enough material available already to keep researchers busy for the next 300 years."

"We don't go out and dig up white people so we can study their bones," added Finch, who carried a peace pipe and whose long hair was bound by a headband and adorned with a feather. "Our spiritual ways are strong and we demand a hearing for our spiritual grievances. We respect your ways, I ask that my ways be respected."

Admitting that the city's handling of the matter may have been carried out in "a clumsy manner," Mayor Evert H. Heynneman said he did not believe that any members of the council acted out of disrespect.

An empty lot at Caledonia and Pine streets had been the object of controversy since mid-June when two off-duty firemen dug up two Miwok Indian skeletons and other artifacts.

Over the protests of several archeologists, including the director of archeological research at San Francisco State University who asked that the burial ground be preserved, councilmen on July 16 voted to pay a university graduate student $2,500 to carry out a scientific dig at the site.

At that time, a majority of the council said it wanted the excavation to avoid delaying plans by the owners of the property to pave the area for a parking lot and to avoid the continuing risk that the lot might be vandalized by artifact hunters.

Last night, Mrs. Sweeny pointed out the probability that there is Indian lore buried from the bayshore up into the Sausalito hills. She promised that in the event of any future discoveries of burial sites, local American Indians would be consulted before any action is taken by the city.

The Sausalito City Council also:

NOISE — Scheduled a meeting for 4 p.m. tomorrow between city officials and representatives from Zack's restaurant to discuss complaints from Belvedere residents that they are being disturbed by amplified music from the waterfront nightspot.

SCHOONMAKER — Continued consideration of an appeal by Zeke Grader and Linda Bonnett of planning commission acceptance of the environmental impact report for the proposed Schoonmaker development. After hearing arguments that theimpact statement does not include enough information on 17 points, including noise, air pollution and traffic, councilmen set next Tuesday to hear rebuttals by developers.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers.

David's Surprise In White House Is Still Unfound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower, son-in-law of former President Nixon, told White House butlers before the Nixon's left the White House that he had left them a surprise gift if they can find it — two tickets to the first Washington Redskins football game this season.

Eisenhower also said he left a message behind which he hid and expects someone to discover in time.

So far neither the tickets nor the message have been found.

When his grandfather, Dwight D. Eisenhower, moved out of the White House, David then a young boy hid several notes behind pictures on the White House walls.

In McArthur style they read. "I shall return."

45 Lifeguards, Facing Firing Over Long Locks

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Parks and Recreation Department plans to fire 45 lifeguards and other employees at a beach and state park in Orange County for wearing their hair too long, according to a state employees group.

The California State Employees Association yesterday said the department has notified about 30 lifeguards and 15 maintenance men at Huntington State Beach and nearby Bolsa Chica State Park that they would be dismissed immediately if they did not comply with the agency's hair length standards.

But CSEA also said its employee representative, Dennis Hardaker, yesterday convinced department officials to reconsider the standards' validity and delay the firings until Monday when their final decisions on the standards will be made.

Boat Crash Kills Two Young Women

KINGSBURG (UPI) — Two young women were killed yesterday when two speedboats towing water skiers crashed headon at a bend in the Kings River.

Miss Hack was driving one speedboat. Miss Kelly was her passenger. Neither of the skiers was hurt. But two other occupants of the boats suffered minor injuries.

Airman Who Asked Nixon Court Martial Is Suing

DENVER (UPI) — Retired Air Force Sergeant Grant A. Schulke, sent to a military psychiatric ward after urging President Nixon be courtmartialed, is suing Nixon and the military.

Schulke's U.S. District Court suit also names Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Army Secretary Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas and former Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. George Brown.

Schulke first called for Nixon's court-martial on Aug. 7, 1973. He said Nixon had abused his power as military commander-in-chief.

He retired in February after 23 years with the Air Force.

Schulke, 45, was ordered to undergo psychiatric treatment at the Fitzsimons Army Medical Center after he wrote a letter to Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, asking for advice on how to court martial the president.

CAUGHT IN A MASSIVE WEB

When 13-year-old Stephanie Rennie of Costa Mesa arrived home this week from a vacation, she had a surprise in her backyard — a homemade spider web. The web was spun for her by two friends and it took them four hours and $11 worth of yarn for the new twist on the old papering the yard trick.

Annexation Would Mean Higher Taxes

Homeowners of the Country Club and Knocknaboul Way areas face somewhat higher property taxes if they vote to annex to the City of SVAN Rafael, the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission found last night.

Commissioners voted 5-to-0 to approve impartial analyses of both annexation proposals that are on the Nov. 5 election ballot. The reports were prepared by commission staff.

The 280-acre Country Club area is on the ballot as a result of court rulings, after owners of more than half the area's assessed valuation blocked an annexation try earlier this year.

Pro-annexation residents seek city fire and police protection from San Rafael. Annexation will mean a net tax rate increase of about 52 cents per $100 assessed valuation, for Country Club homes; the report says.

Knocknaboul Way residents can expect a net tax rate hike of 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the staff found.

Much of the tax hike for Country Club residents will result from required upgrading of water mains and fire hydrants, which will require a local assessment district levying 31.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation for 30 years. This would be in addition to the city's general tax rate of 92 cents, for a total rate of $1.235. The annexed residents no longer would pay the county structural fire tax rate of 47 cents nor the library tax rate of 24.5 cents, according to the report.

Actual tax bill increase next year for an $80,000 Country Club home would be about $104, the staff estimated.

Residents of the unincorporated Knocknaboul Island, which was surrounded by city annexation last year, would have a net tax rate increase of only 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. They would no longer pay the county fire and library taxes, and would have a city base tax rate of 88 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

This would mean a tax bill hike of about $20.63 on a $50,000 home next year, the staff said.

The Marin Local Agency Formation Commission also:

TERRA LINDA — Postponed to Oct. 16 action of the proposed annexation of 2.2 acres of the 33-acre Freitas property to the Las Gallinas Sanitary District. It is inside San Rafael city limits. City officials and the developer are disagreeing over subdivision plans.

Auto Association Asks Law Repeal

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California State Automobile Association has announced support of legislation to repeal the law requiring installation of smog devices on 1966-70 autos.

Neal Garrison, vice president of the association, said the devices increase gasoline consumption and have potential adverse effects on auto engines.

Garrison said the association supports Senate Bill 2471 that passed the Senate last week and is now before the Assembly. The bill would require installation of smog device on 1966-70 autos only when ownerships are transferred and would apply only to residents of Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco.

Guerrillas Fire On Police Station

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas firing antitank guns and submachine guns attacked a suburban police station today but were driven off, police reported.

One policeman was seriously wounded and one wounded guerrillas was carried away by his companions when they fled, a police source said.

'Florida Fox' Finally Gives Up

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — John William Clouser, "The Florida Fox" who eluded police for 10 years and once was on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list, kept his promise yesterday and surrendered to authorities on charges ranging from kidnaping to intent to murder.

Accompanied by his New York attorney James Siff, Clouser presented himself at 1:40 p.m. to two agents of the Florida Department of Criminal Law Enforcement (EDCLE) in front of the agency's building.

While Clouser chewed nervously on a wad of gum, one of the officers told the stocky fugitive: "Mr. Clouser, we have three capiases writs (warrents) for your arrest."

"I'm not guilty to all charges," Clouser replied.

He was then ushered into the FDCLE building for photographing and fingerprinting.

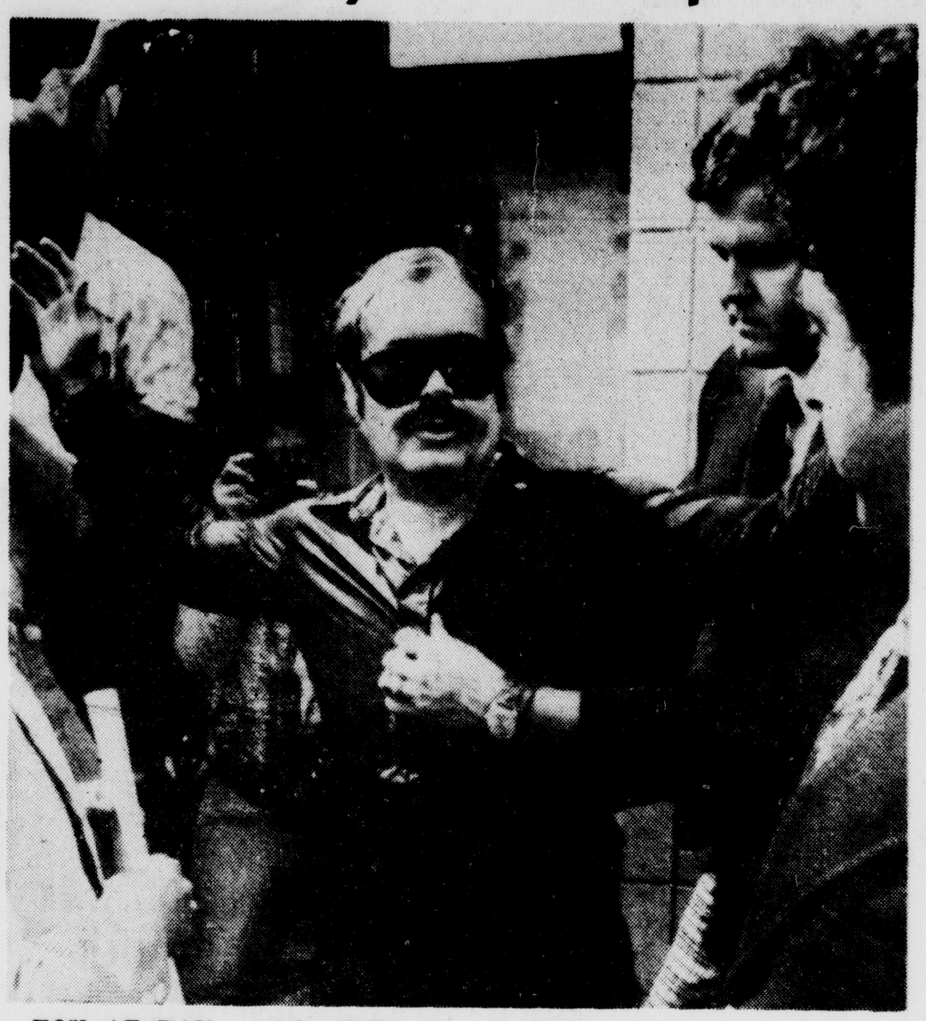
Warrants outstanding against Clouser charge him with conspiracy, robbery, kidnaping and aggravated assault, breaking and entering to commit a felony, grand larceny, conspiracy, robbery, assault with intent to commit murder, and escape.

One of his stipulations for surrendering was that he be permitted to hold a news conference. Authorities said he could conduct the conference later.

Siff advised Florida officials earlier in the day that Clouser would surrender between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Clouser, a blond, had reddish colored hair and moustache at the time of his surrender. He was dressed in a wine-colored silk shirt and slacks.

The 42-year-old Clouser, variously described as a "ladies man" a "mama's boy," and as "deadly" as the late John Dillinger, has stayed one jump ahead of the law since he escaped from the state mental hospital at Chattahoochee in 1964.



FOX AT BAY — John William Clouser, who dubbed himself the "Florida Fox" surrendered to police in Tallahassee, Fla., yesterday, after eluding capture for 10 years. Clouser, whose list of alleged crimes includes kidnaping, attempted murder, grand larceny among others was on the FBI Ten Most Wanted list longer than anyone, eight years. (UPI Telephoto)

Clouser, who gave himself the name of "The Florida Fox" was a police detective in Orlando for five years before he was forced to resign because of alleged underworld connections.

He had said previously he was afraid to surrender in Orange County for fear his former fellow officers would shoot him on sight.

Boone said Clouser would be taken to Chattahoochee to be held pending his transfer to Orlando for prosecution.

Clouser escaped from the Chattahoochee hospital, where he was sent after a judge reversed an earlier verdict and ordered a new trial for him on charges of kidnaping, robgery and assault.

Ford Praises Congress For Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford paid a courtesy call on Congress yesterday "to officially inaugurate Pennsylvania Avenue as a two-way street."

Ford stopped first at the Senate, where he spoke about five minutes, then left to walk through familiar Capitol corridors to the House of Representatives, his working place for a quarter of a century.

In making a visit to Congress a short time after his inauguration as President, Ford was maintaining a tradition of recent presidents. All have come calling in the first days of their administrations.

Ford said Congress in the first 12 days of his term had demonstrated its willingness to compromise with him and work with him.

He said Congress had gone "more than half way" in passing a bill to create a Cost of Living Council to monitor increases in wages and prices.

Escorted into the chamber by about 20 senators, Ford was warmly applauded several times.

"I wanted to stop by today . . . to officially inaugurate Pennsylvania Avenue as a two-way street." The avenue runs between the White House and the Capitol.

Strife A Cure For Speechless Man

He was numbed by a bomb explosion in World War I but spoke up suddenly when his relatives wanted to divide property at his expense.

Ford Signs Major Education Bill Containing New Curbs On Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford yesterday signed a $25.4 billion education bill containing new curbs on school busing and safeguards on the privacy of pupil records.

Ford, signing the measure in a ceremony at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said it represented a new spirit of cooperation and compromise between Congress and the White House which he hopes will prevail during his administration

But he said that while the busing provision is "an ordered and reasoned approach" to the problem, ". . . I regret that it lacks an effective provision for automatically reevaluating existing court busing orders."

The bill extends basic federal aid to education programs for another four years. In addition to the busing curbs, it has language to protect pupil records from misuse by law enforcement officials, credit bureaus or other outside parties.

The law provides that a student may not be bused beyond the next nearest school district unless a court determines otherwise. "In general," Ford said on that score, "I am opposed to the forced busing of school children because it does not led to better education and it infringes upon traditional freedoms in America."

But of the absence of language dealing with existing court orders, he said:

"This omission means that a different standard will be applied to those districts which are already being held to carry out extensive busing plans and those districts which will now work out desegration plans under the more rational standards set forth in this bill.

"Double standards are unfair, and this one is no exception.

"I believe that all school districts, North and South, East and West, should be able to adopt reasonable plans and just plans for desegration which will not result in children being bused from their neighborhoods."

Regarding the main thrust of the bill, Ford told an audience of congressmen and other officials:

"As the first major legislation to become law during my administration, this bill symbolizes one of my greatest hopes for the future — the hope that a new spirit of cooperation and compromise will prevail between the legislative and executive branches.

"Enactment of this bill was possible only because the two branches settled their policy differences in that spirit. If it continues, I am confident that we can make equally effective progress on other pressing issues."

Slayer Of Girl Says He's Sorry

DETROIT (UPI) — Rudolph Acosta says he's sorry and afraid — sorry a 12-year-old girl died in a hail of bullets intended for a hired assassin and afraid outraged citizens may try to lynch him.

Acosta, 24, surrendered to authorities in Detroit yesterday on a murder charge demanded by angry citizens of nearby Highland Park, where the shooting occurred.

Edith Perchman was shot 15 times when she stepped onto the porch of the Acosta home Sunday in the pre-dawn darkness to deliver a newspaper. Her father was seriously injured in an auto crash as he raced his wounded daughter away from the scene.

Acosta told police he had been informed a man — roughly the same stature as the girl — had been hired to kill him. Police said Acosta was reputed to be involved in narcotics dealings and was told a "hit man" had been sent to kill him in a narcotics dispute.

"I don't know how to say how sorry I am for what has happened," Acosta told Wayne County Circuit Court Judge David L. Gonden, who set bail at $100,000 and sent him to jail.

After the killing, authorities arrested Acosta, charged him with manslaughter and released him on $2,500 bond.

But police yielded to citizens' complaints, filed a second-degree murder charge and went looking for Acosta but couldn't find him. They got word through an attorney that he would give himself up.

Anticipating the surrender at the court building in Highland Park, about 30 officers in bullet-proof vests and a crowd of angry citizens waited there yesterday, but Acosta didn't show. Instead he walked into the Detroit court building a few miles away, saying he feared a "lynch mob."

After he was arraigned and taken to jail, Acosta's pregnant wife stood outside the courtroom shaking her head.

SORRY SLAYER — Rudolph Acosta, 24, who said he's sorry he shot a 12-year-old newspaper delivery girl Sunday in an apparent case of mistaken identity, was led from a preliminary hearing by police after surrendering yesterday in Detroit. (UPI Telephoto)

Actor Named To Arts Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Movie actor Brock Peters of Los Angeles was appointed to a three-year term on the California Arts Commission yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Also reappointed to the board for three-year terms were Mrs. Martha Mosher of Portola Valley, Mrs. Jean Smith of San Marino, Thomas C. Howe of San Francisco and Mrs. Nancy Ebsen, wife of actor Buddy Ebsen, of Agoura. The reappointees are Republicans.

Peters, a Democrat, is a black actor, singer, producer and writer. He succeeds director Mervyn Leroy of Beverly Hills, who requested he not be reappointed.

Three fine cars

Isn't the possibility of saving up to $1000* worth checking out all of them?

All three of these luxurious and comfortable cars are pretty much the same size, inside and out. The major difference is in what you get for the money.

Take the 4-cylinder Volvo 144, for instance. It comes with reclining bucket seats, carpeting, electric rear window defogger, tinted glass, whitewall radial tires, an electric clock and a fold-down center armrest in the back seat.

So does the Mark II by Toyota. But the Mark II also has a 6-cylinder engine. Plus power steering as standard equipment, beginning with last January's production. Yet the Mark II is priced around $600* less than the Volvo 144.

Now take the Audi 100 LS 4-door Sedan. If you added the price of the things that come standard on the Toyota Mark II but not the Audi, then the Audi would probably be priced around $1000* more than the Toyota Mark II.

So, if you're looking for luxury and comfort in a small car, doesn't it make sense to check out all three?

TOYOTA

*Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices. POE prices do not include destination charges, state and local taxes, optional equipment or special equipment required by state laws. Toyota Mark II 4-door POE price – $4264. Audi 100 LS 4-door West Coast POE price – $5210. Optional equipment, suggested retail prices: Power steering $175., tinted glass $85. Volvo 144 4-door Sedan West Coast POE price – $4940 (standard fuel injection and power disc brakes on all 4-wheels, double factory undercoating . . . not available on Mark II)

Taxpayers Group Sets Sights High

Representatives of 24 Marin County homeowner groups last night refined plans for a new taxpayer organization that aims to boast 1,000 members by year's end.

The group will be incorporated as the Property Taxpayers of Marin, according to county Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere. He is temporary co-chairman of the fledgling tax watchdog group, along with Rex Silvernale.

The new group has two goals, according to Roumiguiere: To hold the line on local government spending and to reduce the percentage of public agency budgets funded by property taxes.

"Marin County property owners shelled out $87.5 million in property taxes to support city, county, school and local district governments during 1973-74," Roumiguiere said.

Property taxes soar, he said, "because those lobbying for the tax dollar are more efficient . . . have more political clout" than individual property owners.

At the group's next meeting Sept. 11 in the Marin County Civic Center, an 18-member steering committee will be selected to guide formation of the association. Presidents or delegates from all Marin homeowner associations will be asked to attend, Roumiguiere said. He added that he doesn't plan to serve as an officer of the association after it is organized.

Tentative dues are $12 a year for individuals, $5 for homeowner associations and $25 to $500 a year for business firms, he said.

Trio Is Arrested For Bad Check Use

Three well-dressed Southern California men, suspected of indulging in bad check cashing in the Bay Area, were arrested yesterday by Sausalito police.

They were identified as Wilburt Brown Bowie Jr., 22, and Stanley Burt, who also uses the name of Azim Stan Sakinah, 46, both of Los Angeles, and John Coleman, 44, of Culver City.

Police said the three wrote checks totaling $327 for clothing at Gene Hiller's shop on Bridgeway. Officers said the men showed driver's licenses with altered serial numbers for identification.

A check with several Southern California banks showed the accounts they were using were either nonexistent or had not money in them. Police also said the men had with them a number of blank checks and were suspected of paying a bill at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in San Francisco with a bad check.

The three were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of conspiracy, writing checks with intent to defraud and falsifying identification. They were held in lieu of bail ranging from $8,000 to $10,000 each and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Brown Ups His Lead According To Recent Poll

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll reported today Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edmund G. Brown Jr. has increased his lead among the voters over Republican rival Houston Flournoy since the June primary.

The poll said the Democrats, despite a bitterly contested primary, have unified behind Brown who now leads Flournoy by 14 percentage points.

The survey was taken between Aug. 2 and 11 among 1,024 voters, 619 of them in Southern California and 405 in the northern part of the state.

The poll said Brown holds a 50 per cent preference to Flournoy's 36 per cent. This compared to 47 per cent for Brown and 39 per cent for his Republican rival in a survey taken more than two months ago.

FEMINIST VISITOR

French Women Move Forward

By KAREN PETERSON

In June, close to 10,000 French women staged a three-day strike calling for complete abstinence from sex. They were trying to prove that women, if they choose, have the power to bring normal life to a standstill, according to one of the strike's organizers, Claudine Serre.

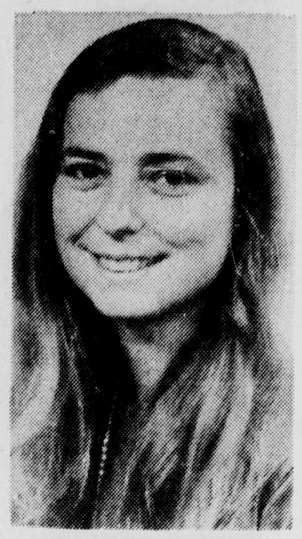
The results may or may not have proved the point, but the strike did show that French women are no longer spectators but active participants in the feminist movement, said Miss Serre, daughter of one of France's few women college presidents.

The light-haired doctoral student, speaking fluent English despite a virus picked up in the States, is here touring women's health centers. On her last day in San Rafael (she was off to Detroit on Wednesday), 24-year-old Miss Serre offered a brief chronology of the French movement.

THE MOVEMENT is focused specifically on the anti-abortion laws and the treatment of unwed mothers, she explained.

In four years, the French feminists have seen the numbers of their supporters grow, a slackening of laws against abortion and unwed mothers, and a clue that more reforms are in the making.

Claudine believes the successes can be partially attributed to the fact that the movement is located in Paris, the fountainhead of government in a country where people have "a long tradition of political backgrounds," she said.



CLAUDINE SERRE
European issues are changing

This political nature is one important difference Miss Serre sees between the movement here and in France. She believes working in the American movement would not be "as stimulating." Issues raised in France become national issues, and you see the effects on women almost immediately, she said.

MISS SERRE praised the American women's health clinics. She also noted that in France, the pro-abortion campaigns of Pat Maginnis of San Rafael (with whom she was staying) are very well-known.

In the recent French elections the "whole presidential campaign was on the abortion issue," she said, with women almost unanimously stating they would not vote for any president who opposed it.

Although the new president, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, is a conservative, he recently announced that all women, regardless of age, could receive free contraceptives, she said. He called the abortion laws "very unjust" and said they will soon be changed. That's an "extremely big victory, especially in a Catholic country," she said.

THE FEMINIST movement came into full swing in France in 1971 with the signing by 343 women of the famous Manifesto, she said. The Manifesto, in which such women as Simone de Beauvoir and actress Catherine Denueve acknowledged that they had had abortions, was "a very important act," said Miss Serre, "Women started talking about taboo subjects ... before, they never used the word abortion or unwed mother."

The following year came the occupation of a home for unwed mothers in a Paris suburb, in protest against conditions there. Within three days, laws were passed to prevent expulsion of pregnant teenagers from school and their assignment to such homes. This was "the first real social action of the movement," said Miss Serre.

In May of that year the movement (which has no real central leadership) sponsored the Days of Denunciation of the Crimes Committed Against Women. That, too, she said, "was a very big success." The women that thronged to the hall gathered in a "spirit of intimacy" to give testimonies of their "own daily lives and personal experiences."

Making Jewelry Hard Work But Great Creative Thrill

By BETH ASHLEY

Do you know someone who's never without a striking piece of jewelry, be it a free-form pendant or a ring with a far-out setting?

Chances are, that person is one of hundreds in Marin who have revived the art of lost-wax jewelry-making and are now turning out jewelry for fun, profit and get-away-from-it-all therapy.

For those who make jewelry for the sheer creative thrill, the hobby can be expensive, and the process of turning out one piece tremendously time-consuming.

BUT AMONG those who have persisted, years after the first tentative signup at a College of Marin jewelry class, are five women who work weekly in a homemade studio in Corte Madera.

They are Elaine Brockbank, Barbara Flynn, Tori Hafer, Carmen Kline and Nancy Wise. They work with dental tools and magnifying goggles, pots of plaster and blazing oven, an oxygen-acetylene torch and (on casting day) a certain amount of ritual prayer.

They have turned out some spectacular jewelry (see photo).

They explained the process this way:

An exact model of the piece is created in wax. The artisans use dental wax, available in blocks, and "wires" of all shapes and sizes. By filing, sawing, heating and carving the wax, usually with dental tools, extremely intricate modeling is possible. Mrs. Brockbank, modeling "a simple ring," said she will work on it at least three hours.

WHEN THE MODEL is completed, "sprues" of wax are attached to it which will, further on in the process, provide channels through which the hot metal will travel into the mold.

But first, the mold.

A liquid mix of plaster of paris and silica is prepared. The wax model is mounted inside a cylindrical flask, and the liquid mix poured around it. This is called "investing." After the mix has settled sufficiently around the wax model — the flask is placed on a vibrator, which shakes bubbles out of the mix and insures that the mix has flowed into each crevice of the model — the flask is placed in an oven brought up to 1300 degrees.

DEPENDING ON the size of the model, the flask stays in the oven anywhere from two to six hours. During this time, the mold hardens, and the wax melts and runs out.

Immediately the hot mold is removed from the oven and placed on the centrifugal casting machine. The metal, gold or silver, is melted with an oxygen-acetylene torch, and poured into an open channel in the mold, through the now vacant sprues, into the hollows once occupied by the wax model.

Jan Popovich Settles Down After 40 Years Of Mind-Boggling Jobs

By MOLLY MARIN

Jan Popovich of Larkspur is on the retired list today — after being honored at a "Freedom Party" Saturday at the home of her daughter Mrs. James Kaslan in Oakland. The party marked the beginning of freedom from 40 years of employment in a mind-boggling variety of jobs.

Most recently Mrs. Popovich was an assistant and secretary to Dr. Stephen A. Duff Sr., San Rafael chiropractor.

But her working career began in San Francisco, as assistant personnel director of the White House Department Store. From there she went to work for the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau under Mayor Angelo Rossi. During World War II she worked as a secretary in the Office of Emergency Management. She also served as associate editor of two trade magazines for the Furniture Mart.

She worked in Shanghai in the mid 1930s as secretary to the U.S. commercial attache and then as buyer for the Chinese American Publishing Co. She worked for a travel bureau in Mexico City for one year and as supervisor of credit and admissions at Wahiawa General Hospital in Hawaii for three years.

She started and supervised the first medical records department for the former San Rafael General Hospital in 1952.

It sounds as though she had earned retirement. One hundred and 50 well-wishers attended her "freedom party".

Mrs. Popovich is married to Stephen Popovich, Larkspur postmaster.

Mrs. Popovich was the hostess with Mrs. Vicki Zarubin of Daly City at a patio luncheon baby shower recently for Petra (Mrs. Peter) Gampper of San Rafael. Attending the shower in Mrs. Popovich's Larkspur home were Yvonne Duff, Betty Gardner, Bevery Irish, Pauline Demil, Janet Brand, Betty Casson, Alicia Austin, Carolyn Brocco and Nina Granger.

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK KIRRANE of Belvedere Lagoon drove their motor home to Stockton last weekend, Aug. 17 and 18 to meet Mr. and Mrs. David Motts of Stockton and cruise the San Joaquin River.

Kirrane, who is in a wheelchair, has driven his self-contained camper 21,000 miles in the past year and a half.

The couple made an eight-week camper trip this summer to Expo '74, Glacier National Park, a relative's wheat ranch in Walla Walla, Wash. and on to Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Calgary and Edmonton and down through the Rockies.

"The balloon rally on my neice's wheat ranch was like an air show," said Mrs. Kirrane who arrived in time for the field day for sky divers, hang gliders and four hot air balloons. Her husband took a 10-mile ride aloft in a balloon.

Her relations are "as crazy about balloons as we are about boats," she said.

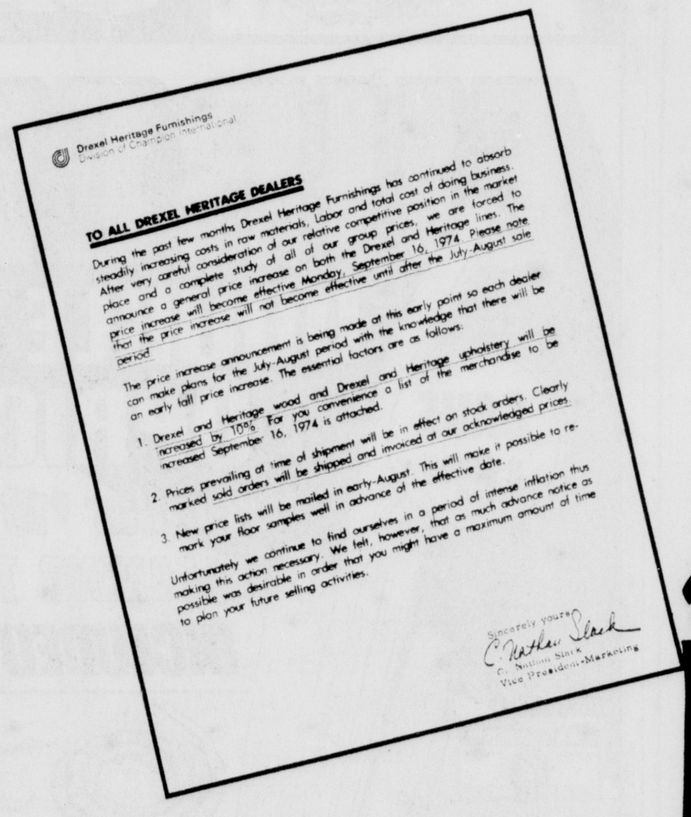
Drexel Will Increase Prices September 16th

BUY THIS FAMOUS LINE NOW AT CASA MARIN AND SAVE!



Drexel Heritage Furnishings

TO ALL DREXEL HERITAGE DEALERS

During the past few months Drexel Heritage Furnishings has continued to absorb steadily increasing costs in raw materials, labor and total cost of doing business. After very careful consideration of our relative competitive position in the market place and a complete study of all of our group prices, we are forced to announce a general price increase on both the Drexel and Heritage lines. The price increase will become effective Monday, September 16, 1974. Please note that the price increase will not become effective until after the July-August sale period.

The price increase announcement is being made at this early point so each dealer can make plans for the July-August period with the knowledge that there will be an early fall price increase. The essential factors are as follows:

1. Drexel and Heritage wood and Drexel and Heritage upholstery will be increased by 10%. For you convenience a list of the merchandise to be increased September 16, 1974 is attached.
2. Prices prevailing at time of shipment will be in effect on stock orders. Clearly marked sold orders will be shipped and invoiced at our acknowledged prices.
3. New price lists will be mailed in early August. This will make it possible to remark your floor samples well in advance of the effective date.

Unfortunately we continue to find ourselves in a period of intense inflation thus making this action necessary. We felt, however, that as much advance notice as possible was desirable in order that you might have a maximum amount of time to plan your future selling activities.

Sincerely yours,

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

She Loves A Rock Musician Who Turned Out To Be A Bum

RAP:

I met a guy with a rock group. He seemed different. He even came home to meet my folks and we talked about marriage.

He'd call me long distance when he was out on tour, reverse the charges, promising to pay my father back when he got his checks. Also, he asked Dad to cash several personal checks for him. They bounced!

Now he doesn't call anymore and I hear he's out west trying to get into TV work. He owes us about $100 in phone bills plus $200 in bad checks and I still love him. I'm crazy, I guess.

If he calls again, what should I do? — FOOL IN LOVE

FOOL:

If it's reverse charges — don't accept 'em! — SUE

DEAR FOOL:

. . .And if he's paying (for a change), get his address so that your Dad may have a small chance to recoup his losses. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I was married at 16, my husband was 19. It's been four years and we're still living with his folks. We share our bedroom with his 14-year-old sister. And we have a baby, two years old. Her crib is in our room, too. I feel so out of place. And I'm also out of love!

I've told my husband a hundred times that if we can't have a home of our own (at least an apartment), I'm leaving, but he thinks I'm playing games wtih him.

He's got a good job, but I don't know where his money goes — not on me and the baby, that's for sure!

How can I make him believe I mean it when I say I'm going to file for a divorce if, at age 23, he can't pull away from his parents' house? — Y.M.

DEAR Y:

If you've "told your husband a hundred times" and still haven't left, it's no wonder he thinks you're playing games with him.

Our suggestions: Find an apartment, take him to see it, tell him that if you three aren't moved in by the first of the month, your lawyer will file for separate maintenance.

And don't back down! — HELEN AND SUE

HAPPY OCCASION — Mr. and Mrs. Steve Franzini celebrate 50 years of marriage at a party with friends and family at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

The Franzinis Receive A Special 50th Anniversary Papal Blessing

"Happy days" is how Pauline Franzini describes the 50 years she and her husband Steve have been married. Last Saturday the two natives of the Italian Alps celebrated their years together at a special Mass and later at a reception attended by 75 family and friends.

Pauline Pini had known her husband's family in their native Grosio, Italy, before she married him in 1924. Their wedding at the Justice of the Peace office in Truckee came four years after the two had moved to California separately with their families.

At that time, Mr. Franzini was a carpenter in Reno, Nev. After their marriage he worked as a lumberjack in Hobarts Mill in the Mother Lode country.

Three years after their marriage, they moved to Marin County and repeated their vows in St. Anselm's Catholic Church in San Anselmo. Their 50th wedding anniversary was first celebrated by a renewing the vows at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Included in the ceremony was a special blessing from the Pope, an honor bestowed only on the 25th and 50th wedding anniversaries.

Living first in west San Rafael, the Franzinis moved to their present home on Clark Street in 1933. Today they spend much of their time tending a large flower and vegetable garden surrounding the while house.

Mr. Franzini, who will turn 81 next month, worked for a cement contractor when he and his wife first moved to Marin. He later worked for a lumber company and then for the Marin Municipal Water Company.

He has been retired for 15 years.

He served in the Italian Army during World War I and was honored in 1970 with the Gold Medal and Blue Cross for his service. Mr. Franzini was a sargeant, said his wife, and at one time during the war, spent 14 months in the hospital recuperating from a wound.

Mrs. Franzini worked in the home of Louise A. Boyd for 23 years; "a great person," she said. She was also a part-time caterer working at "beautiful parties," she said, with Emma Hanson, a Swedish cook.

She was also a corsetter for 25 years, traveling as far as Petaluma, Marshall and Point Reyes to fill orders for a Charis corset.

Both the Franzinis are members of the Natives of Italy Lodge in San Rafael and Mrs. Franzini is active in many church groups.

For their anniversary, her husband gave Mrs. Franzini a double-banded ring, which she hopes to wear "for the next 50 years."

A reception followed the Mass at the San Rafael Improvement Club. Among the special guests were the couple's children, Leno, Ernest and Henry Franzini and their wives, and 10 grandchildren, all from the Santa Venetia area.

Fright Of First School Day Can Be Eased By Gradual Introduction

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The first day of school can be a frightening experience for a young child, says a nationally-known child psychologist who adds that parents can do a lot to help their children adjust to new surroundings.

"Prepare your young children by taking them to school for a few hours before the first day," advises Dr. David Elkind, professor of psychology at the University of Rochester.

"Give them a chance to meet the teacher and to explore the classroom. Talk about going to school and explain what's going to happen so that your children get used to the idea."

HOW CHILDREN react to the first day of school depends on their individual backgrounds, according to Elkind, who has written two books on adolescent psychology. "If a youngster has been to nursery school or has had considerable experience with strangers, the separation will probably not be very traumatic," he explains. "Should the child begin to cry as the parent leaves the school, it's best to let the teacher handle the situation, as most teachers are trained to deal with such problems. The best thing for the parent to do is decide to leave — and then do it."

FORTUNATELY, Elkind notes, most children in the United States receive their first exposure to school in kindergarten, which he describes as "a buffer, or transition, between home and school" He adds, "There is not clear-cut data on when a child is ready for school," and favors a "try-it-you-might-like-it" approach.

If the child is old enough for admission to school, he says, "it's worth trying for a few weeks. The child who relates well to others and has a general use of social skills is probably ready; the one who clings to the parent and plays with toys more appropriate for a younger age level probably needs to be introduced more gradually, perhaps spending a little less time there initially."

FOR THESE youngsters, Elkind suggests that some preparatory experience, such as day care, nursery school, or even being left with a baby sitter, may help children to take separation from mother in stride.

Fathers play an important role in motivating children, Elkind notes. He says, "In the case of boys, in particular, it's helpful if the father can take the child to school or visit the classroom occasionally." The psychologist also believes that "the more fathers read to their children, the better."

Once the first day is past, parents may feel that the worst is over. "Not so," says Elkind.

"In fact, years later, the transition to junior high school can be almost as big a change as the first day of school."

THE FIRST CAREFUL STEPS — Making the wax model of a ring (left) Elaine Brockbank uses a modified dental tool to shape the wax. She heats the tool, scrapes wax (which she has stuck onto the side of the heating bottle) and adds it to her model. The wax model (right) is then placed in a flask held by Carmen Kline while Tori Hafer pours plaster of Paris mix around it. The flask is then placed in oven to make a mold.

Making Jewelry Is Creative Thrill

It is during this last process that the prayers seem advisable. If the sprues were misplaced, if the correct amount of metal was not melted, if the mold has been allowed to cool — the piece of jewelry will be imperfect, if not ruined.

A FAILURE at this point means the artisan must begin all over.

If the piece passes muster, it must now be polished. When it emerges from the mold it is lusterless: considering the cost of the metals that went into it, it looks like a disaster.

After polishing, gems or semiprecious stones are added — either by delicate bending of the prongs which have been cast, or by gluing.

Finding the stones can be a fulltime pursuit in itself, says Mrs. Brockbank. "You find yourself dashing into rock shops, or eyeing old pieces of jewelry and thinking 'that could use a new setting.' "

Actual cost of the jewelry-making — in addition to purchase of equipment — depends on one's ability to scrounge, said Mrs. Hafer. Usually, gold is purchased in small blocks or pellets from a government-controlled supply house. "Once, when a tiny package was delivered to us with a $200 insurance tag on it, the delivery man said jokingly, 'it must be gold.' We laughed."

SILVER IS obtainable from any jewelry supply house, but these women are still making use of a silver "bonanza" — trimmings they obtained cheaply from a saddle shop.

"A friend of mine, whose uncle had died, asked if I could make use of his dental bridge because it was mostly gold," said Mrs. Wise. "I think she was a little startled when I said "'certainly can!' Now it's a ring."

Half of any gold used must be new, or previously unworked, Mrs. Hafer said.

OF COURSE it's time-consuming. "But it's wonderful therapy. Every other problem drops away for the hours you're working on a ring," said Mrs. Brockbank.

Of course it's worth it. "Nothing can compare with the joy," said Mrs. Wise, "of seeing a piece of jewelry in a shop that's price-tagged at $125, and thinking 'I can make that myself.' So you do."

She laughed. "For about $150."

and her mother in September of 1972 was one of the most important issues taken up by the movement. Marie-Claire, 17, and her mother were arrested after the girl had had an abortion. A "very popular French lawyer," Gisele Halimi, defended the two women, said Claudine, using as her defense, the testimonies of Nobel-Prize winning scientists who admitted to performing abortions and the testimony of well-known personalities who had had abortions, including Marie-Clair's lawyer.

"It was a beautiful trial (and) Simone gave the most beautiful speech," said Miss Serre. Both women were found innocent.

Simone de Beauvoir has been an important voice in the movement, especially through her magazine, "Les Temps Modernes." Miss Serre, who is currently writing for the magazine, joined with others last year to prepare a special 400-page edition on women and French society. The issue came out this past May, was sold out in three days, and in two months of reprints distributed more than 37,000 copies.

For the future, Miss Serre envisions a worldwide organization of feminists; a filtering of their ideas and activities through a Womensland Bulletin which she hopes to organize on the European front.

Already, French feminists are joining with the movements of the Portuguese, Spanish and Greek women. "European issues are changing very fast," she concluded.

Jorie To Spotlight Three Special Fairs

"My Fair County" is the theme of next week's Jorie Talks, KTIM program featured at 8:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. Host Jorie Parr will interview participants in the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, the Marin County fair and the Sausalito Art Festival.

On Monday, craftsman Wayne Levie of San Rafael will discuss the pewter goblets he creates to be sold at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, which opens this weekend near Black Point. Actress Judy Kory of Novato, a Pleasure Faire regular, on Tuesday will contrast the status of women in Elizabethan times with those of today.

Gary Koehler of San Rafael, who will demonstrate hang gliding at the county fair, will paint clown faces on children at the county fair which will open Thursday, will be interviewed.

Peggy Hopkins, PG&E's home economists, has been giving a lift to the Easter Seals Summer Day camps for handicapped children this month, cooking meals every Thursday and lecturing to campers on Indian eating habits.

The youngsters, who have been studying Indians as part of their camp experience, have been treated to such yummies as steamed clams and corn on the cob, prepared as the Indians once did.

The four-week camps conclude this week. They have been held at St. Isabella's School in Terra Linda, and have been open to neurologically, physically and mentally handicapped Marin children.

Caramels Toffee Top Cavity Potentials

Kids eat snacks. It's a fact of life. The September Family Circle reports on the research of Dr. Patrick O. Barrett on the cavity-producing activity of several snack time goodies. Listed as top contenders for cavity potential are caramels, toffee, fudge and other sticy candy with high sugar content. "At the low end of the scale," asserts Family Circle, "are carbonated beverages that stay in the mouth only briefly."

Peanuts and potato chips are lesser offenders, as are graham crackers and other, similar snacks with less sugar and less stickiness." Chocolate lovers should note that the cavity-producing rate of dark chocolate is listed as higher than that of milk chocolate.

Suits Are Big

"It's been a long time since there's been such a big season for the suit, reports Women's Wear Daily from Paris. Fall suits will range from the mantailored approach of Yves St. Laurent and Marc Boahn at Dior to the more feminine, longer skirted version by Pierre Cardin.

Bulgarian Men Help Their Wives

Ladies, get thee to Bulgaria. That's where husbands are most cooperative, according to the August Family Circle magazine.

Summarizing a study conducted at London University on domestic behavior patterns in 12 countries, the magazine reports that Englishmen devote an average of two hours and 42 minutes to helping their wives. American men don't give all that much more with their total at only three hours and two minutes. The Fench tallied three hours, 19 minutes and Western Germans, three hours, 21 minutes.

In the indisputable lead, are the Bulgarians, giving up nearly five hours of time on days off for helping with the housework.

In the 1870's a trip up the coast could turn out to be an exciting experience. More than one traveler traded his money for an original poem by the infamous "Black Bart."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture & TV Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazine and Parents' Magazine, unless otherwise stated. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Herbie Rides Again" — Helen Hayes, an eccentric grandmother sees her old Volkswagon come to her aid. Walt Disney sequel to the "Love Bug." Lots of fund and wonderful special effects.

"The Optimists" — Peter Sellers gives a fine protrayal of a wise old vaudevillian in this touching family movie that includes a dog and two children. Might be depressing for the very young.

"Pippe in the South Seas" — German children's film with amusing plot but poor script and acting. Inferior English dubbing. Girls 5 to 20 may enjoy it.

"That's Entertainment" — Juicy compilation of excerpts from the best old MGM musicals gives a lift to the spirit and a true insight into what entertainment is. A bit sophisticated for children under 10.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Brother Sun, Sister Moon" — A picturesque and dramatic portrayal of St. Francis of Assisi and the founding of the Franciscan order in 1200 A.D.

"Play it Again Sam" — A one-joke comedy about a movie buff. Most of the comedy stems from Woody Allen's constant self-depreciation. Amusing take-offs on old movies. Mature teens.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining. Some sex and violence.

"Sometimes a Great Notion" — An exciting adventure story for those 13 and older. Magnificent scenery in this story of logging operations in the timber wilderness of Oregon.

"The Tamarind Seed" — Julie Andrews and Omar Sharif star in an engrossing but over-long mixture of romance and espionage.

"T.R. Baskin" — Candice Bergen as an unhappy girl whose cynical wit doesn't disguise her dread of ultimate disappointment. Some nudity. (Not for youth under 15)

"Uptown Saturday Night" — Delightful ghetto comedy with a distinguished cast, headed by Harry Belafonte, Bill Cosby, Flip Wilson and Sydney Poitier. Strong visual humor. Some coarse language.

BORDER LINE

"California Split" — A series of comic episodes showing two men who get their kicks from gambling. Foul language. (Over 17)

ADULTS ONLY

"Blazing Saddles" — A wildly inventive assault on every cliche in the Western movie business. A ribald, knowingly sly, bawdy comedy. Offensive language. Definitely not for children or adolescents.

"Buster & Billie" — A sordid story of a 1948 high school boy and girl. Should have been a love story but turns into a savage human drama, showing gang rape, violence, murder and nudity. (Box Office)

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Death Wish" — Western good guys and bad guys theme. Vigilantes, violence and gun culture explored. Charles Bronson gives it popular appeal.

"The Exorcist" — A non-sensical, stomach-turning, horror tale of a 12-year-old girl, possessed by the devil. For adults with strong stomachs, weak minds. All others no.

"New Centurians" — Based on the best-seller about the Los Angeles police force. Violence, nudity, crime and cursing.

ART REVIEW

New Interests, New Talents AVT College Of Marin Exhibit

By ADA GARFINKEL

The College of Marin art faculty has grown increasingly within the past few years and now numbers 41 on its various campuses. Their opening fall art exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery in Kentfield reflects new interests and new talents.

Among the newcomers to the faculty is Robert Ellison whose 3000-pound welded steel sculpture "Bi," placed at the entrance to the Fine Arts Gallery, contrasts mightily with his miniature stoneware sculptures within the gallery.

Continuing his topical themes are Tron Bykle's "Sagittarian Osmosis," a large, free-hanging painting relating to astrological and ecological matters, and "Crazy Quilt," a mixed-media drawing. The latter pictures a topsy-turvey map of the United States overlaid with a penciled microphone and chord, and completely surrounded by minutely drawn ink coils around its contours.

"The Day Orville Flew" and "The Day Orville Didn't Fly" are the titles of Barrie McDowell's crisp acrylic paintings on unprimed, glazed canvas. His oblong shapes in primary and earth colors are massed to suggest the whirring motion of a propeller which works, and one which has malfunctioned.

There is a delicate atmospheric sensitivity, for example, in Alton Raible's time-sequence series of oil paintings which with less competent treatment could have deteriorated to postcard kitsch.

In David Grosten's softly-colored photos, the swelling overflow of water on land lends a strange beauty to the scene. And the dark landscape contours on Thano Johnson's glazed stoneware plates form a continuous mountain range.

"Copernicus At His Desk," a life-like, wood sculpture tableau by Alonso Gonzalez, and Richard Miller's small, soapstone sculpture which is monolithic in concept and brings to mind the colossal sculptures of Egyptian deities, contrast greatly with Ron Cooper's colorful pop-art, ceramic sculptures relating to aspects of the space age.

Other interesting works include Gilbert Wheat's acrylic paintings simulating leaded strips of stained glass, one in a circular format and another as an oval; Inez Storer's "Present" which incorporates tin, lace, seam binding, and black paint as a centered square on an ivory-painted canvas, and Agathe Bennich's erotic figure paintings.

Also included are prints by Ida Geary, Robert Moon, and Richard Wold; paintings by Bart Jones, Kendall King, Bruce Lauritzen, Martin Stoelzel, Tony Williams, and Betty Wilson; drawing by Eric Stoelting and weaving by Ida Grae and Carole Beadle; stained glass by David Arnold; jewelry by Glen Miller, and black-and-white photography by Thomas Johnson and Timo Pajunen.

This show will continue through Sept. 13, and may be seen weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors suspect Army Chief of Staff Creighton W. Abrams may have developed a blood clot in his remaining lung, a hospital report said today.

They said his condition today at Walter Reed Medical Center was "serious but stable."

Extradition Is Possible For Burglar

A Fairfax man sentenced to one year in Marin County Jail yesterday for burglary and possessing brass knuckles may be extradited to Connecticut to face charges there.

Dwight Pink, 24 who received the sentence and three years' probation from Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best, is wanted in his home state on five charges.

These include two counts of possessing drugs for sale, a failure to appear in court, an escape from the Connecticut State Police and a probation violation, according to the probation report.

Pink was sentenced yesterday for burglarizing a San Anselmo house last November and possessing brass knuckles in Larkspur when he was stopped there following a high-speed chase July 6. He pleaded guilty to both counts.

Pink had used at least six aliases in Marin, the probation reports said.

TV News Series For Lindsay Being Discussed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Politician-turned-media-star John V. Lindsay may be doing a series of television specials for ABC News, according to William Sheehan, senior vice president for ABC News.

Sheehan said he and the former New York mayor are negotiating a deal that would have Lindsay discussing contemporary problems in a series of news specials.

The first special, Sheehan said, would be on the city, incorporating Lindsay's experiences in New York with his recent European travels. Sheehan said he expected the details of the negotiations to be finalized shortly.

Lindsay has just returned to New York after an eight-month vacation in Europe where one of the highlights of his tour was a bit part in the forthcoming motion picture, "Rosebud." He played the part of a senator.

Railroad Loss

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's government-controlled railway system registered a record loss of $1.52 billion in the 1973 fiscal year ending March 31, the Ministry of Transportation said Wednesday. It said that Japan National Railways lost money on all but three of the 255 lines it operates.

Mrs. Hearst Is Endorsed As Regent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Catherine Hearst, mother of fugitive Patricia Hearst, was endorsed by the Senate Rules Committee yesterday for a 16-year term on the University of California Board of Regents.

Approval by the full Senate was considered virtually certain.

Mrs. Hearst, of Hillsborough, has served as a regent for 18 years and was nominated for another term by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The committee approved Mrs. Hearst's nomination and sent her name to the full Senate for on a 3-0 vote with little discussion.

She twice said "thank you" to committee members and pointed out the number of years she has served as a regent. Otherwise, she stood silently and smiling after waiting 1 ½ hours in the committee room.

The Rules Committee also approved without controversy two Reagan appointees to the Board of Trustees of the state University and Colleges.

Their names likewise were forwarded to the full Senate on 3-0 votes.

Family Fun Festival Scheduled In Cotati

The festival will include children's games such as cake walks, dances and trampoline-bouncing. Local artists and crafts makers will display and sell their wares and space will be available for family picnicking, according to a spokesman.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, August 22nd, the 234th day of 1974 with 131 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

French composer Claude Debussy was born August 22nd, 1862.

Also on this day in history:

In 1851, the U.S. yacht America beat the British craft Aurora off the coast of England to win the silver trophy known as the America Cup.

In 1911, the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris. It was recovered four months later.

In 1941, Nazi troops advanced to the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, during World War II. In 1973, U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers resigned and presidential aide Henry Kissinger was named to replace him. Also that day, President Nixon assailed his Watergate critics and pledged to stay in office.

A thought for the day: American writer Bret Harte said: "One big vice in a man is apt to keep out a great many smaller ones."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Partner Should Be Given Chance To Show His Strength

A player usually has strength in the suit he has bid but sometimes he has a weak suit with compensating strength on the side. It may be wise to allow for both possibilities.

Opening lead — ♣ 9

West's jump to four spades may seem peculiar but was actually very shrewd. He expected to sacrifice at four spades if the opponents bid four hearts. He was less likely to get doubled if he jumped to four spades at once.

North was sure that four spades could be beaten. The trouble was that he hadn't yet shown his heart support. Hence he took the final, and fatal, push.

West opened his singleton nine of clubs, the most effective defense. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of clubs and led the queen of hearts.

West was tempted to take the ace of hearts and lead a spade. Surely, he thought, his partner had the ace of spades since he had raised spades.

Just in time, it occurred to West that his partner might have the ace of diamonds rather than the ace of spades. Which should he guess at, a spade or a diamond?

Fortunately, there was no need to guess. West simply refused the first trump trick. Declarer continued with another trump and East now had the chance to signal by discarding the ten of diamonds. (He would have thrown a high spade if he had held the ace of spades rather than the ace of diamonds.)

Now East took the ace of trumps and led a diamond. East got in and returned a club, defeating the contract.

Partner opens the bidding with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 8 7 5 3
♥ - 6
♦ - A 10 7 5
♣ - 7 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

This jump to game shows strong trump support, usually of five or more cards, a singleton or void suit and not more than nine points in high cards.

CHP Thinks About More Rural Traps

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol is considering stepped-up patrols along rural stretches of freeways to catch more speeders, it was disclosed yesterday.

The CHP said it was studying the results of two-days of intense coverage in late July of a 50-mile length of Interstate 5, near Coalinga in Fresno County.

Using an airplane and 10 cars, the CHP handed out 301 citations in the area usually patrolled by two cars.

The violations included speeding, reckless driving, illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages and drunken driving, the CHP said.

The experiment was "an attempt to determine whether it is worthwhile to sometimes concentrate unusual numbers of traffic officers and equipment in one sparsely populated area," said Deputy Commissioner Dam Lanza.

Sea Treaty Asked By Next Year

CARACAS (UPI) — The United States called on the 148 nations at the third United Nations sea law conference yesterday to make sure a sea treaty will be negotiated at a follow-up session next year.

"If we don't finish in 1975, we are weakening the chances of reaching a generally acceptable agreement," U.S. Ambassador John R. Stevenson said.

Stevenson said the United States would prefer one session of six weeks next year with provisions for another two-week extension if necessary.

Norway, supported by some Middle Eastern and East European delegations, asked for two longer sessions of six to eight weeks.

"Two sessions is completely unacceptable," Kenya's Francis Xavier Njenga said.

For psychological as much as financial reasons, the United States, Britain and others also oppose two long sessions. They feel a shorter conference will place more pressure on nations to reach decisions. A key issue to be decided is how much economic and political control nations are entitled to over coastal seas up to 200 miles off shore.

Most delegates, including those of the United States, seem to agree a new meeting should be held in Vienna, Austria or Geneva, Switzerland, in April or May.

Stevenson said a short, wrap-up and signing session might be held later in Caracas as recognition of the role the Venezuelan government has played in organizing this year's gathering.

Kidnaped Girl Is Found Slain; Arrest Is Made

EINDHOVEN, The Netherlands (UPI) — Police said today the kidnaped 5-year-old daughter of a wealthy cigar manufacturer has been found slain and one of two persons arrested in the case has confessed to the killing.

Police said they arrested a 19-year-old Indonesian, identified only by his initials E. van I., early today when he arrived at his home in central Eindhoven.

They said he confessed to strangling Caroline Pessers, the slender, dark-haired daughter of Hofnaar cigar factory director William Pessers.

TELEVISION REVIEW

New Network For Cable TV

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Next month, a new kind of television network plans to start transmitting sports and special-interest programs to an estimated 85 communities in five mid-American states.

What makes the network totally unlike ABC, NBC or CBS is that it'll serve only cable-tv subscribers, not the general viewing public.

It was created by Target Network Television, a Kansas City, Mo., firm which says it'll feed programs to 70 microwave-linked cable-TV systems in Missouri, Iow, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. TNT, which doesn't own the firms, refers to them as "affiliates."

If all goes well, says Tom Lemmons, general manager of TNT, a subsidiary of KMBA-TV in Kansas City, the company hopes to extend the network into Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

He says his firm will provide its affiliates with its own programming, not that of KMBA, seven days a week. Broadcast hours will be from 9 a.m. to 10:30 or 11 p.m., except on Sundays.

Right now, he added, Sunday programming hours are scheduled to run from 4 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., but may be increased.

They say they instead hope to draw "clearly defined special interest audiences and make them reachable to special interest advertisers."

Lemmons says it'll try to do this with shows on cooking, auto repair, boating and health care, to cite a few examples, in addition to its evening professional and collegiate sports offerings.

He says TNT also will have two news packages — the first a noon report consisting of brief news summaries, live reports from the Chicago and Kansas City boards of trade and farm-oriented weather reports.

In the evening, he said, there'll be updated boards of trade summaries, sports reports and hard news, the last provided by Television News, Inc., a New York-based TV news service created to service local stations.

According to Federal Communications Commission officials and cable-TV industry experts, the TNT interstate operation is only the second of its kind to operate in the United States so far.

The first, the New York-based Home Box Office company, a cable-TV subsidiary of Time-Life, Inc., began its operations in November 1972.

Inflation Summit Leaders To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Houst speaker Carl Albert has named Reps. John McFall, D-Calif., and Barber Conable, R-N.Y., to represent the House on the steering committee that will plan President Ford's summit conference on inflation.

The committee, composed of four top government economists and two members each from the House and Senate, meet at the White House tomorrow to begin preparations for the conference.

Butz Backtracks On Pet Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the summer's drought, there'll be enough grain on hand through the coming year to feed dogs and cats, says Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Butz got a flood of irritated letters earlier this month when he said that if critics who wanted Americans to eat less meat in order to save grain were really serious, they could save large amounts of grain by eliminating half of the nation's 32 million dogs, 22 million cats and 8 million horses and mules.

Butz said emphatically at the time he was not personally advocating any mass slaughter of pets. But his mention of the subject was enough to stir up a rash of critical mail and calls.

Plea Entry Set Today In Murders

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A young couple has been arraigned on charges of murdering a Hillsborough socialite and a discharged sailor.

Barry Austin Brown, 21, and his girlfriend Carol Campbell, 27, were ordered Tuesday to enter pleas today before Superior Court Judge Gerald Ragan.

The pair is charged with the murders of ex-Navy sailor Stephen Russell, 22, and Hillsborough matron Lois Jean McNamara, 53.

Campbell and Brown were indicted last week for the June 26 murder of Richard Pipes, 29, a Santa Cruz grocery clerk. Although Brown received no bail on that charge, Mrs. Campbell's bail was set at $500,000.

The bodies of Russell and Mrs. McNamara were found about one mile apart in a ravine near Half Moon Bay. Authorities said Russell was killed July 17 while Mrs. McNamara was murdered July 12.

Brown's non-bailable, two-count indictment allaged either burglery or robbery was involved in the slayings, making him eligible for the death sentence if found guilty.

The special circumstances were not alleged in Mrs. Campbell's indictment, which also involved two counts of forgery. The judge set the unemployed secretary's bail at $100,000 and ordered both Brown and Campbell to enter pleas today.

NO COMMENT FROM FBI

Daly City Home Called SLA Site

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was taken to a small residential home in Daly City immediately after her kidnaping on Feb. 4, a television newswoman says authorities have learned.

Marilyn Baker, of KQED, a San Francisco educational station, said in a telecast last night that all hardcore members of the Symbionese Liberation lived in the modest frame house from early in the year until early in March.

PATRICIA HEARST
A house found

In March, several of the members moved to an apartment in downtown San Francisco. But William and Emily Harris and William Wolfe remained in the residence at 37 Northridge Drive until the radical group went to Los Angeles in May.

Six members of the SLA were slain in a gun battle with police on May 17. The Harris' and Miss Hearst, who in taped messages renounced her parents and said she had joined her abductors, remain at large.

FBI Special Agent Charles W. Bates was not immediately available for comment. Other agents said any statement concerning the house would have to come from Bates.

Residents at a nearby home said last night that they were visited by an FBI agent three or four weeks ago. "The agent asked about two stewardesses who he said lived at 37 Northridge. "I told him we didn't know anything," said the neighbor.

Mrs. Baker said neighbors reported seeing parked at the home a 1962 white Chevrolet with a luggage rack on top — a description matching that of the car used during Miss Hearst's kidnap on Feb. 4.

"One woman recalled that they always parked the car facing out toward the street," Mrs. Baker said. "They'd never drive it into the garage. They'd always back it in."

Neighbors in the area were reluctant to talk, Mrs. Baker said. But some recalled that the home was rented shortly after the beginning of the year to "several white women," she added.

Mrs. Baker said the home since has been sold. She said the previous owner found that he had rented it to a "fictitious name." The home was filthy after SLA members left but had been cleaned out by the time police arrived to investigate it, Mrs. Baker said.

Children in the neighborhood reported knowing two of the women, she said. Other neighbors said the occupants had no set pattern.

Mrs. Baker gave this account of one unidentified neighbor's encounter with one of the occupants:

"One time I was trimming my lawn and one of them pulled up in a station wagon. I waved in a neighborly fashion and said, 'Hi, what's happening?'

"The woman looked at me and said, 'You wouldn't believe me if I told you.' "

Drug Law Ruled Unconstitutional

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — A county judge has ruled unconstitutional the mandatory life sentence provision of New York State's new drug law, calling it "a statute without mercy" motivated by "vindictiveness, retribution."

"In the opinion of the court, no view of the dangerousness of narcotics to persons or society can justify such disproportionate punishment," said Judge Andrew Celli.

District Attorney Jack Lazarus said the ruling would be appealed.

Celli said he would sentence Charles Mosely, who pleaded guilty to a drug sales law, under the state's old law, which carries a maximum 15-year prison sentence.

A SUMMER DAY, A SUMMER GAME

Water Connect Extension Eyed

The Marin Municipal Water District board may extend its Oct. 31 deadline for completion of new construction to qualify for water connections.

The board yesterday discussed a possible Dec. 31 deadline and set next Tuesday for a committee meeting to study the matter. A report and decision will be made at the next regular board meeting Sept. 11, board president Jack R. Felson said.

Factors in the board decision to reconsider the building completion deadline were the two-month carpenters' strike, cities' delays in granting building permits and an increasing number of inquiries about an extension by builders and prospective builders reported by Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh.

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. said the Oct. 31 deadline was unfair to those who were afraid to start construction.

"There is a certain amount of inequity" he said in the board's treatment of builders. "People are now hesitating on home construction because they are not sure it can be done by Oct. 31, while others are being advised to go ahead and start building," he said. MacPhail suggested the board extend its deadline to Dec. 31 rather than "to have to make the hard variance decisions" that would result under the present deadline.

"We have already denied 10 or 12 people's requests for variances on time," Felson pointed out. "We expected to have had a final decision by a court by now," he added.

The district moratorium on new water connections was struck down by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire and is under appeal.

Felson added that there were inequities to be worked out for those the board had turned down.

Marin Municipal Water district board also:

MUIR WOODS — Resolved to initiate proceedings to annex Muir Woods National Monument and a narrow portion of Mount Tamalpais State Park between it and the district boundary. The monument, now under surplus use service, must be shifted into the district or have district water service discontinued, according to water district attorneys. A public hearing was set Oct. 9.

SPILL — Requested a report on cause of the alum spill into Lagunitas Creek near Woodacre which killed steelhead trout and silver salmon. Heard a staff report that deposits were removed from the creek near the San Geronimo water treatment plant and that fish would be replanted when the organism-insect-food count was sufficient.

CONTRACT — Awarded $25,600 contract to Ghilotti Brothers for grading Elinor Avenue tank site in Mill Valley; hired Madrone Associates as environmental consultants at $954 or less.

GAUGE — Approved joint agreement for installation of a stream level gauging station on Lagunitas Creek, splitting $7,500 cost and $2,400 yearly maintenance cost with U.S. Geological Survey and North Marin County Water District. Cost to Marin Municipal for 1975 fiscal year is estimated at $2,975.

POSITION — Authorized promotion of Fred Piglowski, associate engineer, to new position of supervisor of water quality at a yearly salary of $19,740, senior engineer level.

PIPELINE — Approved expenditure of $8,100 for 720 feet of fireline pipe on Ross Avenue, sharing cost with San Anselmo.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 1 p.m. Sept. 11 at the district office.

Bunko Warning Given By Hub City Police

A San Anselmo police spokesman today warned local residents to be wary of so-called "pigeon drop" fraud schemes.

Capt. G. Albert Howenstein Jr. said the fraud involves a team of con artists who offer to split a large amount of cash with a victim in return for "good faith" or "tax" money.

Howenstein's warning comes in the wake of a pigeon drop attempt in San Anselmo last week.

He said two attractive women approached an 87-year-old resident last Wednesday, one saying she had just found $20,000 in an envelope, the other suggesting the three split the money on condition each put up $2,000 to pay for taxes on the find. The 87-year-old told the pair she wanted no part of the money, and the two left empty-handed, Howenstein said.

One woman was described as a very attractive 30-year-old with red hair. The other woman was described as being in her 20s and having straight, black hair.

'Toy' Kills Four School Children

MANILA (UPI) — A hand grenade exploded and killed four school children who mistook it for a toy and tossed it around like a ball, the official Philippine News Agency reported today.

Three other children were seriously injured in the explosion yesterday at a village in Zamboanga del Sur, 500 miles south of Manila, the agency said.

Squaw Valley Work Won't End

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Mainline Properties of America, whose parent firm in Australia went into receivership this week, resumed its multimillion-dollar renovation and expansion program today at the Squaw Valley ski resort.

The firm said the receiver had expressed "an intention to carry on the business until further notice."

A spokesman said the work would continue on a reduced basis until further instructions from the receiver in Australia. Mainline Corp., Ltd., of Sydney placed itself in receivership voluntarily, saying the step was necessary because of Australian inflation.

Homeowners To Fight Tennis Club Permit

Lucas Valley Homeowners Association members will do battle tonight against a permit sought for a swimming and tennis club on Upper Lucas Valley Road.

A special hearing on the plans for the controversial 15-acre parcel will be held at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers in the Marin County Civic Center. County deputy zoning administrator Warren E. Baker will be the hearing officer.

Ron Marinoff, chairman of the Homeowners' zoning and planning committee, is expected to present a long list of objections to the development.

Sought is a permit to build 14 tennis courts — four of them inside a large building — pools, a clubhouse, jogging paths and parking lot for 49 autos.

In a preliminary letter to Baker, Marinoff presented two and one-half pages of arguments against the club, citing noise, loss of privacy, lack of water and sewage and many other factors. The county public works department has also reported that the parking area is inadequate.

To hard boil an ostrich egg takes a big pot and a lot of patience. The egg tastes much like that of a chicken but weighs an average of three pounds. It needs two hours to hard boil, says Grzimek's "Animal Life" encyclopedia.

Workshop On Parenthood Set

How to be a parent will be the topic of a workshop Sept. 14 at Indian Valley Colleges in Novato. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Discussion groups will focus on the single parent, concerns of parents, the challenge of being a parent and the cultural aspects of mothering.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Insomniacs Get More Sleep Than Most Of Them Realize

According to conservative estimates, 60 million Americans have trouble sleeping. And considering the millions of sleeping pills that are consumed every night, this estimate could be low and the number of insomniacs growing.

Sleeping problems of all types are nearly universal. Some people have difficulty falling asleep; others awaken 10 times during the night. Even those who sleep soundly complain the next day of "not sleeping a wink." And all of us have restless and sleepless nights when we are in pain or physical discomfort.

ACTUALLY, INSONMIACS get more sleep than they realize. True or total insomnia simply does not exist, because no one could live for long without some rest.

Illnesses most likely to cause insomnia are heart trouble, hypertension, arteriosclerosis and overactive thyroid. Hunger pains, low blood sugar and indigestion are other possibilities. But emotional problems are to blame for repeated insomnia.

Certainly, barbiturates are not the answer. Often insomnia is caused by personal problems so insignificant that people do not relate them to their inability to sleep.

MUCH CAN be accomplished if we realize that sleep comes only with full relaxation. If medication is indicated, the physician may prescribe an hypnotic agent, a tranquilizer, or an antidepressant, but these drugs must be taken exactly as recommended.

Addiction is a danger with any sleep-inducing chemical, and even if the drug is effective, it solves the problem only temporarily. Besides, if the sedatives are suddenly stopped, the user may develop a phenomena that causes increased dreaming and nightmares.

HYPERTENSION

A reader writes: Can blood pressure have an adverse effect on the person's eyesight?

REPLY

Yes, via the retinal arteries. High blood pressure encourages arteriosclerosis, and the vessels in the retinal are frequently involved.

COLESLAW, ULCER

Mrs. B. writes: My bleeding ulcer has healed. Is it all right for me to eat coleslaw again?

REPLY

Not if your ulcer has just healed. You can do without roughage. Besides, there is always danger of recurrence.

CASUAL SHOES

R. E. writes: I wear summer shoes without arch supports. Am I going to ruin my feet?

REPLY

Not if your arches are strong and you do not "pound the pavement" all day long.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Some Foster Homes Fees Are Exempted

A controversial new license fee for smaller foster homes and day care centers has been eliminated, it was announced yesterday by Donald Sanford, acting director of Marin County Health and Human Services.

He reported that under a newer law signed in July by Gov. Ronald Reagan, facilities serving six or fewer residents are exempt from the $40 to $55 fees required under legislation enacted last year.

The fee had been intended to reimburse the State Department of Health for its costs in inspecting facilities, but it was strongly opposed by operators of small foster homes.

Escaped Wolf Shot By Police

IVER, England (UPI) — A police marksman shot and killed Walter the Werewolf yesterday to end the beast's 24-hour fling at freedom.

Walter, a Canadian timber wolf, escaped early Tuesday from a cage on the set of a movie "Legend of the the Werewolf" in which he was appearing.

Police, animal society officials and movie property men searched for Walter without success until residents spotted the big gray animal in a garden.

Walter fled before police arrived, but they caught up with him near a highway and Constable Stephen Vincent shot him with a .22-caliber rifle.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Election-Year Salary Hike Proposal Killed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has killed without a vote an election-year bill to increase the salaries of the governor and other top state officials by 20 per cent.

Although several members expressed belief that salaries of high-level state officers were too low, virtually all the reelection-conscious lawmakers agreed "the timing wasn't right" for an increase.

The bill by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, died in the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee yesterday for lack of a second to a motion to approve it.

"At a time when nationally we are asking people to tighten their belts, we're really not setting a good example as legislators by voting for an increase," Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Northridge, told Carpenter.

The Carpenter bill was the last active measure this session to grant a salary increase for state officials or legislators. Previous bills have been killed or abandoned by their authors.

The bill was opposed by Democratic gubernatorial nominee Edmund Brown Jr. as "highly inappropriate" and supported by his Republican rival, Houston I. Flournoy.

Through a representative, Flournoy, the state controller, urged the committee at the last-minute to eliminate the governor from the proposed salary increases. The commmittee ignored the idea.

Effective next year, the governor's $49,100 salary would increase to $60,000 annually while that of the attorney general would rise from $42,500 to $51,155. The current $35,000 salaries of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction would jump to $42,500.

SPORTSMEN FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has reversed itself and approved legislation imposing a $5 million annual license and fee increase on California sportsmen.

The bill (SB1650) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, cleared the natural resources committee yesterday on an 8-2 vote and went to the ways and means committee. The committee last week rejected the measure but it was brought back yesterday for reconsideration.

Designed to bail out the financially troubled Department of Fish and Game, the bill would increase the basic hunting license fee from $6 to $10. However, the present $2 pheasant stamp would be eliminated.

California's 2.3 million anglers would still pay $4 for a license, but the inland water fishing stamp would be increased to $2 from $1, and the trout stamp fee would go to $3 from $2.

The department is virtually financed by license fees.

'GIVEAWAYS'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill prohibiting oil companies from forcing gas station dealers to participate in "giveaways" of free merchandise was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (AB3104) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, provides that retail gas dealers cannot be influenced to participate in the giveaway schemes, which often are financed, in part, by gas station owners.

BILL DOOMED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has snuffed out chances for enactment this year of landmark farm labor legislation aimed at quieting violence and bloodshed in the agricultural fields.

Death for the Assembly-passed a bill came yesterday on a parliamentary point which denied it a committee hearing. There was no debate. The vote was 16-19.

Supported by Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers, AFL-CIO, the measure would have granted for the first time secret ballot elections for farm workers to select a union.

It would have tacitly condoned secondary farm boycotts and established a new state commission to oversee farm labor relations.

Strongly opposed were California growers and the Teamsters, a union which rivals Chavez for the representation of field hands.

Adjusted Income Tax Proposal Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to adjust personal income tax schedules to take into account inflation has been killed by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The bill, AB 2821 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, would increase tax brackets automatically along with annual increases in the cost of living. The result would be that taxpayers receiving cost-of-living pay hikes would not be bounced into a higher tax bracket.

Without such legislation, inflation threatens eventually to put everyone in the top income tax bracket. Canada already has a similar law.

The proposal was aimed at assuring that taxpayers pay a higher percentage of their income for taxes only when their income increases in excess of inflation.

Another bill carried by Bagley, one to limit the depletion allowance for oil and gas wells, died in the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee. The measure, AB 3030, would limit the allowance to five times the cost of the well. The present allowance of 22 per cent a year means many well owners get tax write-offs equal to 16 or 17 times their cost.

Bill Restricting Exotic Pet Imports Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A controversial bill restricting importation and possession of exotic pets advanced yesterday in the Assembly.

The measure, SB 1766 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, already has cleared the Senate, despite heated opposition from the pet industry. Yesterday's 6-0 approval by the natural resources and conservation committee sent the legislation to the ways and means committee.

The bill prohibits possession of animals such as wallabies, monkeys, ocelots, jaguars, lions and tigers unless a permit is granted by the Fish and Game Commission. Persons seeking permits must show they they will use safeguards to protect the animals and the public.

Birds no longer are included in the measure, but bird fanciers nevertheless bitterly oppose it, apparently fearing they will be put back in it later.

Zoos are exempt from the measure.

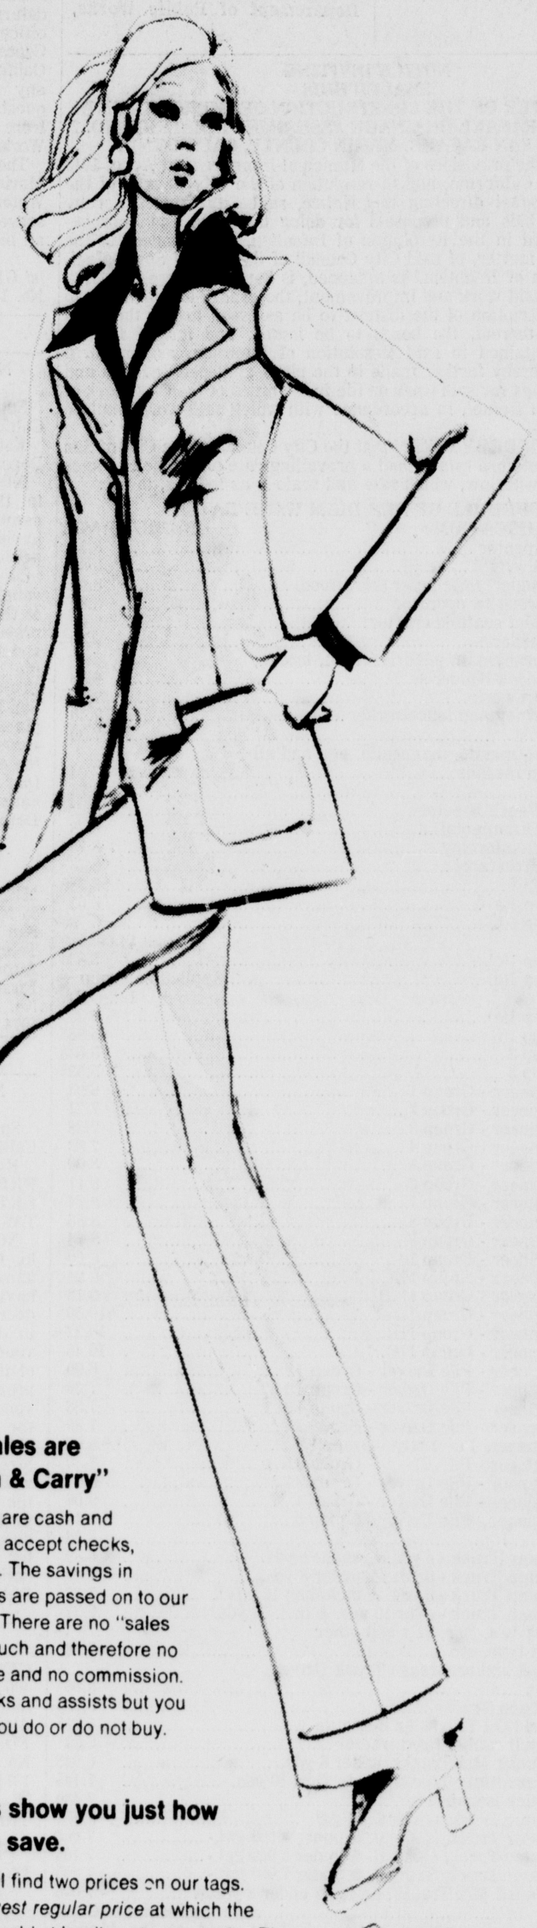
How To Beat Inflation And Still Stay In Fashion



Buy only the latest fashions from famous makers at savings of 30 to 50%. And we've got them!

At first that sounds too good to be true, but it's a fact. The Pic-A-Dilly concept of shopping has been proven in the East for years, but it's new in the West. Here's what makes it possible:

We buy OVER-RUNS of current fashion apparel from famous national makers

When a manufacturer starts a production run he bases his estimate of the quantity he needs on two things—one is the number of orders he already has in the house, and the other is the number of orders he expects to receive by the time the production run is completed. Usually there's an over-run, and that's where we come in. We can purchase the extra quantities on the spot, for cash, at prices far below wholesale. The trick is to be in the right place at the right time, day after day.

You cannot buy bargains by long distance or with a few seasonal buying trips. Our buyer is a company vice president who has spent his life in the garment industry. He and his staff are in daily contact with dozens of fashion houses. He knows fashion, he knows values, and he knows who has the quality merchandise to sell. During the course of a year he buys for us from literally hundreds of the most highly respected fashion houses in the country . . . the same houses that supply the leading women's apparel shops and department stores right here.

Occasionally we buy "irregulars", but only from the most prestigious makers. Such irregulars are always clearly marked, usually represent less than 10% of our stock at any one time and, frankly, we challenge you to detect any "irregularity" in either appearance or fit.

All sales are "Cash & Carry"

All sales are cash and carry (we accept checks, of course). The savings in credit costs are passed on to our customers. There are no "sales clerks", as such and therefore no high pressure and no commission. Our staff stocks and assists but you choose what you do or do not buy.

All of our purchases are flown directly to the West Coast and in many instances appear in our stores before the same item is on display at full price in the major stores. If you have an eye for detail and can recognize famous makers' apparel you'll realize that the fashions being offered currently by leading stores are the same ones that are on our racks. The only difference is the price—and that's a lot.

At Pic-A-Dilly you'll find two prices on our tags. One shows the lowest regular price at which the garment would be sold at leading stores nearby. The other is our price, which you will find is always 30 to 50% lower. Because our success depends on high volume and rapid turn-over we frequently mark down our prices on garments that have been in stock more than a week or two, so be sure to shop Pic-A-Dilly often for new arrivals and for extra savings!

Our stores are self service, simple and clean, but not in the highest rent districts.

Pic-A-Dilly stores are in neighborhood shopping areas with every square foot devoted to rack after rack of attractively displayed women's apparel . . . all of the best quality and all currently in fashion. The emphasis is on casualwear: pants, pant-suits, blouses, coats, sweaters, skirts, etc. . . . all at 30 to 50% savings below regular retail prices. There are no fancy fixtures but the stores are neat, and pleasant with a tremendous selection and a large number of clean, well-lighted dressing rooms.

We feature both junior and misses sizes!

Mothers and daughters enjoy shopping the Pic-A-Dilly way, because they can shop together while enjoying big savings on the latest fashions to be found anywhere in the market. Get the Pic-A-Dilly habit and stay in fashion while you beat inflation. It's fun!

We remove the labels to protect our sources and reduce the prices 30 to 50% under normal retail!

The many manufacturers who sell "over-runs" to us at reduced costs, sell the same garments to the major stores in this area at full price. Naturally, these manufacturers do not want to jeopardize their relations with their key accounts, so they ask us to remove their labels before we display their garments. So, you'll never find a label in a Pic-A-Dilly fashion, but if you have a sharp eye for detail you'll recognize the work of many of your favorite makers. Every item we offer for sale is current major branded merchandise and not an out-of-fashion reject! Only the labels have been removed.

DeMont, Backhaus Head Marin Entries In Nationals

CONCORD (UPI) — With opponents from the United States staring them in the face and top competition from East Germany lurking in the background, some 31 swimmers from Marin stood ready today.

The National Amateur Athletic Union long course swimming championships will be held today through Sunday at the Concord Community Pool, with preliminaries at 11 a.m. and finals at 7 p.m. each day.

And if American swimmers do not show their readiness by coming up with a flock of world records, they will be in dire trouble for the dual meet against East Germany next weekend.

The Marin contingent will be led by 25 swimmers from the Marin Aquatic Club, including Rick DeMont, the meet's defending champion in the 400 meter and 1,500 meter freestyles, and Robin Backhaus, last year's winner in the 100 butterfly.

DeMont also is entered in the 200 free, while Backhaus also will appear in the 200 fly and 200 and 400 freestyles.

Other Marin A.C. men are Dick Pattengale, 200 free, 400 free; Rich Abbott, 100 free; Scott Dicker, 100 breast; Ken DeMont, 100 and 200 backstrokes; Spencer Eldred, 100 breast, 200 breast, 200 and 400 individual medleys; Art Morrill, 100 breast, 200 breast, 200 I.M., 400 I.M.; Charley Pearson, 100 fly, and Scott Hislop, 200 I.M.

Also Keith Strange, 100 breast, 200 breast; Terry Sutton, 200 fly; Rick Hofstedter, 100 breast, 200 breast; Mark List, 100 back, 200 back; Randy Sauro, 200 back, 100 fly, 200 I.M., 400 I.M.; Gene Jackson, 200 free; Ross Seymour, 100 and 200 butterflies and 200 I.M.

Marin A.C. will enter teams in the 400 medley relay and 400 free relay and two teams in the 800 free relay.

On the women's side, Marin A.C. enters Cary Backhaus, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free; Maura Campion, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free, 200 I.M.; Jo Hislop, 100 free, 200 free; Sue Kay, 100 free; Lyn Morrill, 100 back, 200 back, 200 I.M.; Tammy Segondo, 100 breast relay; Cyndi Salvisberg, 100 fly, 200 fly; and Julie Waters, 100 back, 200 back.

Relay teams will be entered in the 400 medley, 400 free and 800 free.

Five swimmers from the Novato Aquanauts will compete — Ann Haley, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free, 200 I.M.; Jane Patocchi, 100 fly, 200 fly; Sue King, 100 fly, 200 fly; Lisa Patocchi, 400 free relay and 800 free relay, and Patty Callaway, 400 medley relay.

"We have a lot of fine women swimmers," says Santa Clara coach George Haines, "but we have a long way to go to catch up with the East Germans. Still, if we show well here this weekend and manage to keep our peak, we may surprise them next week."

Fifteen defending champions are back to see if they can make it two in-a-row. They include Shirley Babshoff (100 and 200 free), Jo Harshbarger (1,500 free), Marcia Morey (100 breast), Lynn Colella (200 breast and 200 butterfly), Deena Deardurff (100 fly), Kathy Heddy (200 individual medley) and Jenny Bartz (400 I.M.) from the women's side.

The men's defending champs are Jim Montgomery (100 and 200 free), John Naber (100 backstroke), John Hencken (100 and 200 breast), Steve Gregg (200 fly), Stan Carper (200 I.M.) and Rick Colella (400 I.M.) Besides Turrall, the world record holders here are Heather Greenwood (400 free), DeMont (400 free) and Hencken (100 breast). Gary Hall has the listed world mark in the 400 I.M. but Andras Hargitary of Hungary broke it earlier this week in the European championships.

Ray Fosse To Rejoin A's Today

OAKLAND (UPI) — Catcher Ray Fosse, sidelined since June with a disc injury in his upper back, returns to the Oakland A's' roster today as they head for Boston to start a nine-game road trip.

Rookie Pitcher Glenn Abbott (4-4) was returned to Tucson of the Pacific Coast League to make room for Fosse, who is expected to be in the lineup in about a week.

A slump-ridden homestand, in which Oakland was 5-7, ended last night as Milwaukee Brewer pitchers Kevin Kobel and Tom Murphy combined for a three-hit, 5-3 victory in the rubber game of the series. Kobel was a last-minute replacement for Jim Colborn, who aggravated a groin injury that had put him on the disabled list earlier this season.

Two of the three Oakland hits were home runs—Reggie Jackson's 24th, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, and Gene Tenace's 21st in the eighth. Tenace has now hit five homers in his last six games and says he is feeling "more relaxed at the plate now than I have all season. I wish I knew why."

The loss cost Oakland a chance to pick up a game on the Kansas City Royals, whom they lead by five in the AL West race. Earlier this month, the A's held a nine-game lead in the division.

Milwaukee has won seven of its last nine games to edge out of the AL East cellar and now heads for a four-game series at home against the Royals.

See A's box score on inside page.

ONE FOR MILWAUKEE — Darrell Porter of the Milwaukee Brewers slid into home plate in the fourth inning last night as Oakland A's catcher Larry Haney was unable to apply the tag. Haney fielded Bob Coluccio's sacrifice bunt and couldn't get back to the plate in time to nail Porter. The visiting Brewers won, 5-3. (UPI Telephoto)

TOURNEY OF CHAMPS

Women Against Wind And Hills

By RON LENT
W.I.N.D.

Win Is the Natural Danger defending champion Tillie Gondak and her five challengers will confront tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the seventh annual Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions at Indian Valley Golf Club in Novato. Admission is free.

"We should have a windy day," predicted Chuck Meyer, assistant pro. He added: "The wind plays havoc on (holes) one and 16 primarily. You're hitting into the teeth of the wind there. There's no protection from it."

This is the primary challenge for Mrs. Gondak of Marin Country Club, Laura Cann of Meadow Club, Liz Cole of Peacock Gap, Terry Nichols of Mill Valley Municipal, Peg Williams of Indian Valley and Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo.

But it's not only the wind that affects play on the par 71 course (36 front nine, 35 back). "It's the hills, too. We have narrow fairways, water, out of bounds and heavy roughs plus trees. Accuracy will be the key.

"It will take about a 76 or 77 to win," said Meyer. It will also take a good putting touch. Indian Valley has fast greens. "The greens hold well. They are trim, cut and ready to go. The course is in good shape," Meyer said.

Now it's up to the golfers. It appears that Mesdames Gondak, Gapinski and Cann will battle for the title. Yet, challenges could come from Mmes. Cole, Nichols and Williams.

There is sentiment favoring Mrs. Williams, because Indian Valley is her home course. Said one observer: "It is her course, so she should know all the tricks in dealing with the problems."

Mrs. Nichols is noted for her determination. This is her second appearance in the champs tournament, and she may now have the experience to challenge.

This is Mrs. Cole's first appearance. She has no illusions of victory. However, underdog Cookie Baer (representing Peacock Gap) stunned a field that included Gondak, Capinski and Cann Aug. 24, 1972 at Mill Valley.

Gondak and Cann are noted for their long drives; Mrs. Gapinski may not match her rivals in distance, but she is accurate. She hits a straight ball.

Yet, Mrs. Gondak has the incenive. She hopes to become the second to retain the title. Cann won in 1969 and 1970.

Heads-Up Play Gives Italian Club A Win

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — There are many ways to win a ballgame, and Gary LaTorre discovered one of the oddest yesterday. He helped the Italian Athletic Club to victory just by standing around.

A bizarre, heads-up play by LaTorre helped the Marin team rally for four runs in the sixth inning and a 4-3 triumph over the San Francisco Kiwanis in the opening game of the state Joe DiMaggio youth baseball tournament.

By planting his 6-foot-3 frame on second base and standing tall, LaTorre prevented the Kiwanis second baseman from throwing home from short center field as Jeff Knotts scampered across with the winning run.

The play capped an odd rally. With two out and the bases loaded via two walks and a Mark Endriss single, Kiwanis made two errors on a grounder by Knotts to let in two runs.

On the next play, Phil Bacigalupi's grounder hit the Kiwanis shortstop in the Adam's apple. As the ball bounced over behind second base, one run scored, Knotts rounded third and LaTorre advanced to second and stood.

The double elimination tourney continues today with Italian Club meeting the Cal Spacers of Concord at 5:30 p.m.

49ers' Washington Warns Of New Split

If Strike Is Renewed On Tuesday

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Receiver Gene Washington of the San Francisco 49ers predicts that if the majority of National Football League players vote next Tuesday to renew their strike, "It'll provide a split worse than the San Francisco earthquake."

Washington, a player representative, and Dan Abramowicz, also a receiver and assistant player representative, took time from their rest period between yesterday practice session to talk with newsmen about the strike.

"Some will come out and some won't, and that's where we'd have trouble," Washington said. "There've already been fist fights in some places, but this time it will be worse."

Washington and Abramocicz declined to predict the outcome of a meeting of player representatives they said would be held in Chicago Tuesday when each representative would list the votes from his team.

"The owners want us to be nice guys, all wear ties and drink milk," said Washington. "But the other side has its bad guys. We need a bad guy, too, and that's Ed Garvey."

Abramowicz, who said he had been in steel mill strikes, agreed. "We should be tough. When someone negotiates for me, I want him to be a steelie-eyed SOB."

Meanwhile, the NFLMC's executive committee, meeting in New York, agreed that no member of the union's negotiating team trying to settle the dispute could be cut until at least 14 days after he reported to camp.

AMERICA'S CUP

'Cross' Favored To Beat France

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Southern Cross, a new aluminum-hulled 12-meter, was favored to continue Australian domination over France today as the two yachts began the best-of-seven America's Cup foreign challengers series.

In the last previous such series in 1970, Gretel II of Australia beat Baron Marcel Bich's France four straight races. Gretel II now is Southern Cross's trial boat.

The two remaining U.S. yachts contending for the right to defend, Intrepid and Courageous, had the day off today after Courageous beat Intrepid by one minute 31 seconds yesterday to tie the standing in the final trials. Each has won five and lost two, with the standings including races against Mariner and Valiant, now dismissed from the trials.

WORLD FOOTBALL

Disputed Calls Aid Sun's Drive

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Birmingham and New York may be the hottest clubs in the World Football League on the field but the Philadelphia Bell is definitely very hot in the clubhouse.

Americans 15, Sharks 14

Charlie Harraway plunged two yards for a touchdown with 19 seconds left to lead the unbeaten Americans past the Sharks before 27,140 in Jacksonville. Grant Guthrie had field goals of 31 and 51 yards to give the Sharks a 6-0 lead before Matthew Reed threw 27 yards to Alfred Jenkins for a Birmingham TD.

Stars 43, Texans 10

Bob Gladieux ran for three TDs and caught a pass for another as the Stars ran their winning streak to five games by routing Houston before 12,042 in New York. Gladieux scored on runs on one, one and four yards and caught a five-yard TD pass from Tom Sherman.

Southmen 60, Hawaiians 8

John Huarte threw for four TDs in the first half and then took the rest of the night off as the Southmen set a WFL single game scoring record against the Hawaiians before 23,123 in Memphis. Ed Marshall and J.J. Jennings each scored two TDS for Memphis.

Blazers 11, Storm 7

Bob Davis threw 20 yards to Greg Latta for a TD and then passed to Latta for the action point as Florida beat the Storm before 15,451 in Orlando.

Black Point Launching Ramp Voted

Marin water sportsman can look forward to another boat-launching ramp "by next boating season" as a result of action taken Tuesday by the state Wildlife Conservation Board.

The board allocated $105,000 to expand the facilities at Black Point east of Novato, where the Petaluma River meets state Highway 37.

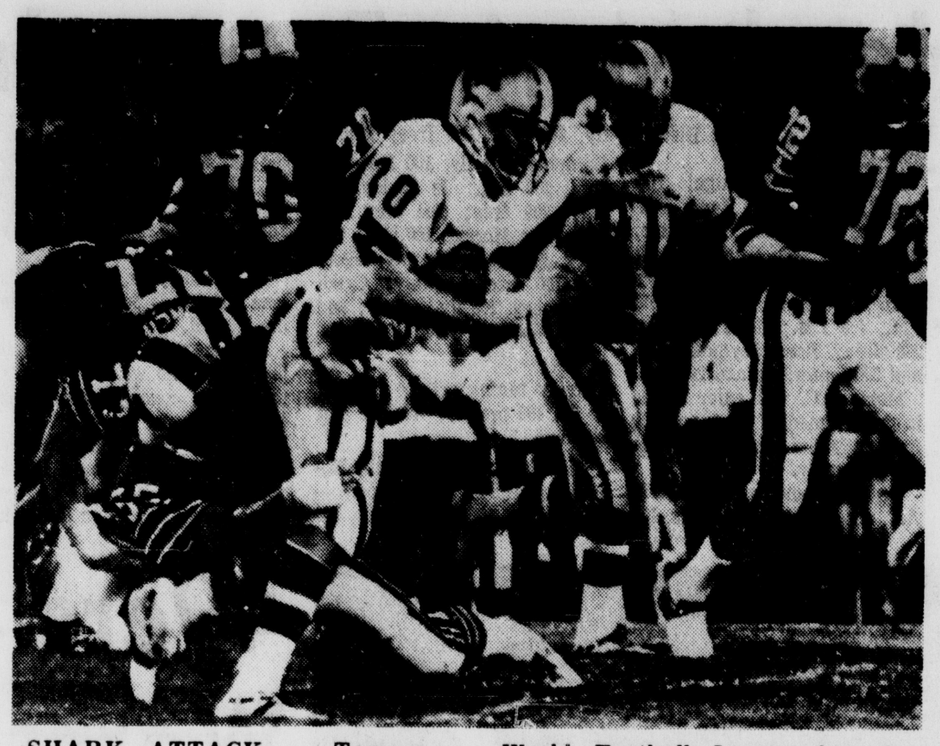
The money will be used to add a second lane to the boat-launching ramp, install convenience floats, and build more parking spaces and a permanent restroom.

"We hope to begin construction before the rains and have it ready by next boating season," said Brian Wittenkeller, chief park and open space planner for the county Parks and Recreation Department, which will oversee construction.

Residents of San Rafael, Novato and Petaluma make heavy use of the boat launching site. The only other public facilities nearby are in Sausalito, Vallejo, Petaluma and Tomales Bay.

The Black Point area now has 10 parking spaces, and 18 more will be added, Wittenkeller said.

The area provides access to the lower river and the north end of San Pablo Bay for striped bass fishing, waterfowl hunting and other recreational uses.



SHARK ATTACK — Tommy Durrance (20) of the Jacksonville Sharks broke through a hole in the Birmingham line for a short gain during last night's 15-14 World Football League loss in Jacksonville. American linebacker Warren Capone (55) wrapped his arms around Durrance's knees to make the tackle.

Miller Begins Comeback In Westchester Classic

What?

"I'm gonna be playing a lot from now until the end of the year," Miller says. "You'll hear from me again."

Miller, the 27-year-old 1973 U.S. Open champion who won five tournaments in the first four months of this year and then said he was "drained" from winning so much so fast, has set up a busy schedule for himself the rest of the year.

His appearance here marks only the third tournament for Miller on the U.S. tour in more than two months, in keeping with the plans he made in the spring to wind down his activity after passing $200,000 in 1974 money winnings.

But now Miller wants to start playing again.

People already are beginning to forget about him, even though he's still the year's hottest golfer, and some even are going so far as to day—get this, now—Miller is in a slump.

That brings a snap reaction.

"Anybody who would say I'm in a slump has to have rocks in their head," Miller protests. "I don't consider this a slump. I'm not missing cuts. The tournaments I'm playing in, I'm finishing. I'm not doing bad. I just haven't been playing much, that's all.

"All I need is just having enough enthusiasm to play good."

Does he have that enthusiasm now?

"I don't know."

Miller isn't the only big name player overcome with ennui on the eve of what was once the tour's richest event but now is one of only a half-dozen tournaments offering a halfmillion dollars or more in prize money.

Jack Nicklaus flew in here early Wednesday after a quick trip late last week to Tokyo, where he's designing a course, and stops earlier this week in Pensacola, Fla., on Monday and Nashville and Cincinnati on Tuesday.

"I'm a little more interested now because I had a good tournament in the PGA," said Nicklaus, who finished second there to Lee Trevino. "I think that was probably the best tournament I played all year. I didn't win simply because a guy just played a little bit better than I did, but it brought a little of my interest back for the remainder of the year."

Ellis Beats Giants For Seventh Straight Win

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Ellis posted records of 19-9 and 15-7 in 1971 and 1972, respectively, when he led Pittsburgh to consecutive division titles. However, he dropped off to 12-14 last season as the Pirates finished third and was saddled with a less-than-spectacular 3-8 record through July 14 of this year when the Bucs were seven games out of first place.

At that point, the 29-year-old right-hander, who set a club record for starting pitchers in 1971 by winning 13 straight, regained his winning form and last night ran off his seventh consecutive victory when he tossed a seven-hitter and contributed a run-scoring single in the Pirates' 4-2 triumph over the San Francisco Giants. The win, the Pirates' 24th in 36 games since July 14, moved Pittsburgh to within 1 ½ games of first place St. Louis in the National League East Division.

"Statistics don't mean anything to me. I don't care if I win 100 in a row as long as we keep winning."

Phils 10, Reds 3

Mike Schmidt slammed his 31st and 32nd homers and drove in three runs to lead Philadelphia over Cincinnati as the Phils remained tied with Pittsburgh for second in the East and the Reds dropped 3 ½ games behind first place Los Angeles in the West. Schmidt's two homers tied him with Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox for the major league lead.

Braves 5, Cardinals 4

Mike Lum and Darrell Evans hit home runs to help Atlanta beat St. Louis and give the Braves a sweep of the three-game series. Evans' homer was his 16th and his third in three nights.

Dodgers 7, Cubs 5

Mike Marshall, appearing in his 82nd game this season, preserved Andy Messersmith's 14th victory in Los Angeles' triumph over Chicago. Marshall, notching his 18th save, stopped the Cubs without a hit over the final 1 2-3 innings. Willie Crawford homered for the Dodgers who completed a sweep of the three game series.

Mets 10, Astros 2

Rusty Staub drove in four runs with a double and sacrifice fly and Wayne Garrett collected three singles and two RBIs for New York in its victory over Houston. Jerry Koosman fired a six-hitter to earn his 12th win. Lee May homered for the Astros.

Expos 8, Padres 7

Barry Foote and Ron Hunt contributed RBI singles as Montreal rallied for two runs in the ninth to edge San Diego. Gene Locklear had given the Padres a 7-6 lead in the eighth with a pinch-hit home run. Bob Bailey smacked his 16th homer for the Expos.

Allen's Single Ruins No-Hitter

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

It's a one-hitter in the record book but a no-hitter in Roger Moret's heart.

The 24-year old Puerto Rican left-hander yielded only a seventh inning infield single to Dick Allen Wednesday when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox. It was the second time in two weeks that he carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning and this time he claimed credit for a feat for which he is not officially credited.

Moret, who had a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings against Milwaukee on Aug. 7, wasn't quarreling with the official scorer. He blamed himself for failing to field the slow roller Allen hit and which glanced off his glove to second baseman Doug Griffin, who had no play.

"For me, that's a no-hitter," he said.

Rangers 5 Orioles 1

Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer, his 25th, enabled Jim Bibby to win his 18th game for the Rangers with the late inning relief help of Jim Merritt and Steve Foucault. Ross Grimsley suffered his 11th loss for the Orioles.

Yankees 4 Twins 1

Graig Nettles had a runscoring double and a two-run single for the Yankees as George Medich raised his record to 15-11 with a six-hitter. Nettles' single capped a threerun third-inning rally which helped to hand Bill Butler his sixth setback. Rod Carew went 2-for-3 and raised his average to .365.

Indians 7 Royals 6

Charlies Spikes hit a two-run homer in the first inning and capped a two-run ninth inning rally with a run-scoring single to give Tom Buskey his first victory in his 36th relief appearance for Cleveland. The Royals had taken a 6-5 lead with a five-run seventh-inning rally capped by Vada Pinson's eighth major league grand slam. Fran Healy also homered for the Royals.

Angels 2 Tigers 0

Denny Doyle went 3-for-3 and drove in a run helping Andy Hassler win his third game against eight losses for the Angels. Lerrin LaGrow was tagged for only five hits but saw his record dip to 7-14 for Detroit.

Walton Looking Forward

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bill Walton came off the bicycle paths long enough this week to say he's looking forward to the coming National Basketball Association season.

"It'll be fun and I am looking forward to it. But then," he said, "I look forward to everything I do."

"I've spent the summer mostly moving around," he says of the time since undergoing knee surgery after signing with the Portland Trail Blazers for upwards of $2 million.

The former three-time UCLA All-America center added, "I've just been hanging around my friends mostly this summer."

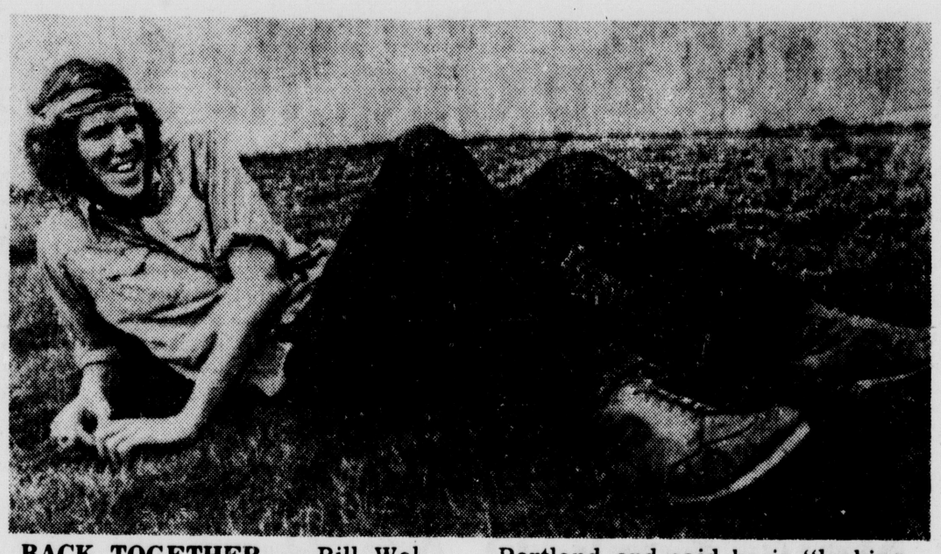
Earlier, he had planned to take a job working in the woods to get into physical sharpness for the start of rookie camp, but he decided not to do it. "It wouldn't have worked out too well," he said.

Rookie camp opens Sept. 12.

And he has done some backpacking and some bicycling this summer.

"I don't make plans," he said. "I do what I have to do on a given day and see what comes out. I try to stay relaxed. I don't have a lot of hangups that tend to bog me down."

Although the ABA offered Walton more money, he signed with Portland because he likes Oregon and the basketball is better in the NBA, he believes.



BACK TOGETHER — Bill Walton, looking fit and happy after recovering from minor knee surgery, relaxed on the grass in Portland and said he is "looking forward" to playing for the Trail Blazers in the upcoming National Basketball Association season.

Oklahoma Running Star Is Dropped From Roster

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

NORMAN, Okla. — Senior fullback Waymon Clark, who gained 1,014 yards last season for the University of Oklahoma, has been dropped from the 1974 roster for disciplinary reasons, coach Barry Switzer said Wednesday.

Clark, the Sooners' second leading rusher last year, is free on $1,000 bond on a misdemeanor charge of aggravated assault involving an incident in Greenville, Tex., this summer, but a spokesman said the dismissal was not necessarily prompted by the assault charges.

Tennis

In other words, unseeded 26-year-old Jun Kamiwazumi of Japan swarmed all over the court Wednesday to pull off the upset of the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships, ousting top-seeded Stan Smith in a fierce, nerve-wracking second round match, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Baseball

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — The pitchers were the difference on the mound and at bat Wednesday as Maracaibo, Venezuela and Red Bluff, Calif. advanced to a semifinal showdown today in the Little League World Series.

Mark Keluche, a 5-foot-11, 250-pound full-blooded Indian, was too much for Equismalt, British Columbia. The 12-year-old struck out 11, fired a two-hitter and singled to ignite a three-run rally in Red Bluff's 3-0 quarterfinal victory.

ARCHER MIKE GERARD

He May Be World's Best

By DAVID EINSTEIN

There's no sense in being modest about it. Marin County has perhaps the best young archer in the world in Mike Gerard of Terra Linda.

The 13-year-old Terra Linda High School freshman firmly established himself as the best junior in America last week as he set nine records enroute to victory in the junior division of the U.S. National Outdoor Target archery championships at Oxford, Ohio.

The win was the most recent in a string that started early this year and has carried him across the country. He won the young adults class at the U.S. Field Archery championships in Golden, Colo., in July, and was second in the indoor nationals at Harrisburg, Pa., in May.

He also left no doubt of his superiority in California when he shattered 15 of 19 records in winning the state championships at Long Beach in May.

Having run out of targets as a junior (excuse the pun), Gerard has decided to become an adult — at least for archery purposes. Starting soon he will shoot against men instead of boys.

The decision to move up now is based on a long range plan to make the U.S. Olympic team in 1976.

"I'm going to start working out for it right now," the handsome, blond Gerard says. "I just have to shoot a lot and keep my health up and I think I'll make it."

Gerard began shooting two and one-half years ago. A Junior Olympics development program held by the Bow Rack club in San Pablo got him started competitively. Three months later, he won his first club meet.

His first open tournament was at Lake Tahoe the following year, where as a 12 year old, he won the junior class. Since then it has been one gigantic success after another, and along the way he has smashed national junior records established by such greats as Olympic gold medal winner John Williams of Texas and National Archery Association champion Darrell Pace of Ohio.

To ease his transition to adult shooting, Gerard has increased the poundage of the "limbs" of his bow from 32 to 41. The additional weight is necessary to reach the longer distances used by adults. Gerard does no special exercises, but he practices shooting for up to two hours each day.

In addition to immense talent, Gerard has the kind of confidence it takes to be an Olympian. He says of his upcoming debut as an adult shooter, in a state meet at Sacramento on Labor Day, "If I shoot like I did at the nationals, I can win it."

Wilson Extends Lead In Mallory

I-J Special Report

SEATTLE — About the only thing which can keep the Marin crew from winning the Mallory Cup today would be postponement of the races, which is possible.

The Marinites won both races yesterday to take a commanding lead in the North American championship competition for San Juan 24 yacht crews. Vann Wilson of San Anselmo is the skipper, aided by Frank Thomson of Mill Valley and Nathan Russell of Tiburon.

Yesterday's other race was called off due to lack of wind, the same problem which may force postponement of today's races, according to a spokesman for the host Corinthian Yacht Club of Seattle.

The Marinites have won four of the five races held so far in the eight-race series and have 40 points, far ahead of the 29½ posted by the Dick Wright team of New Jersey.

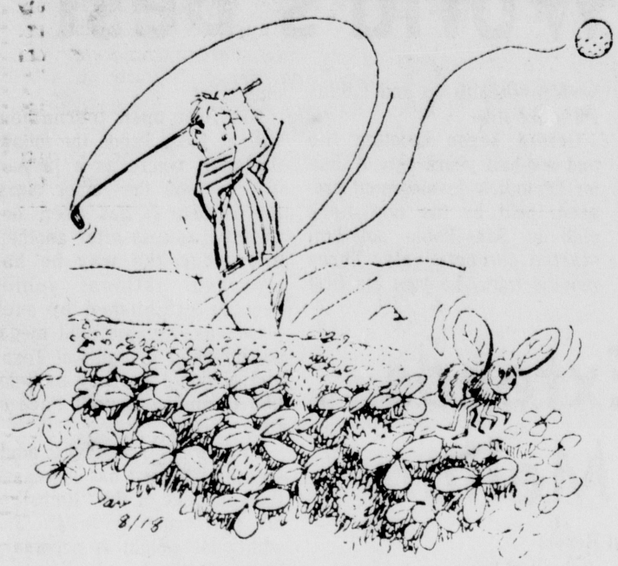
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



In The Clover

By LEE TREVINO

Until the hot summer sun kills it, a lot of courses are "in clover." That doesn't mean the guy who's in it is having all the fun.

When clover gets between the ball and the clubface, the ball flies out of it without any backspin. This is called a flier, and neither the golfer nor the ball know where that baby's gonna land. All you know is that it's gonna hit the ground running.

The ball jumps out in a high trajectory because it contacts the club toward the top of the club face, making it nearly impossible to control. With no spin, it's floating free, subject to the whims of wind and low-flying airplanes.

To remedy this, and allow for the additional run that a flier gets, use one less club that you normally would.

Regardless of what that little Irish dude, John Mahaffey, says about four-leaf clovers, there just ain't anything lucky about being buried in 'em.

Contact the ball firmly. Hit is a sharply descending blow to reduce the amount of clover between it and the club.

A Long History Of Boxing In San Rafael

By RON LENT

Boxing champions, contenders and pretenders — their names are a litany of San Rafael's pugilistic history.

Boxing Hall of Fame members Gans and Ritchie, along with standouts Britt and Clabby, were products of Shannon's Villa, a training camp located at the west end of Fourth Street.

Boxing enjoyed great popularity in the Bay Area at the time (even though it was illegal for certain periods), and Shannon's Villa was a mecca for North Bay fight fans.

San Rafael heavyweight rivals Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski often sparred there, according to veteran San Francisco Examiner boxing writer Eddie Muller.

The first time was on May 30, 1889, near Fairfax, during a time when the authorities frowned on the art of fisticuffs. They fought four rounds before police stopped the bout.

The two combatants renewed hostilities five days later — and apparently in a more secluded place. Corbett won a $1,000 side bet with a 27th round knockout.

They prepared for 20-45-round bouts; so the fighters practically lived on training camp sites, Mueller pointed out. For this reason, facilities like San Rafael's Shannon were in great demand.

Such "stickouts" as Gans, Ritchie, Clabby and Britt would work out there under the watchful eyes of trainers and fans. Corbett and Choynski also appeared at various times.

The audience would arrive by horse and buggy from Sausalito after crossing the San Francisco Bay by ferry.

But the fight mob dispersed when Shannon closed his facilities in 1914. An era ended, but another was on the horizon. During the lull, San Rafael presented fights called "smokers." Such four-round bouts matched small-time or unknown combatants between 1915 and 1925. During the 20s, San Rafael had fights conducted in selected garages using local talent.

San Rafael's second major pugilistic period occurred in the 1950s with the advent of national championships sponsored by the International Boxing Club under President Jim Norris.

Irving (Whitey) Litchfield, the sportsman who owns San Rafael's Bermuda Palms Motel, ventured into cauliflower canyon in the mid 1950s when boxing flourished in San Francisco. Promoters, seeking out-of-town training sites for big-name pugs, chose the Bermuda Palms for its facilities and location.

In this brief period, four "name" fighters trained there — all for losing bouts. Slick Cleveland boxer Rocky Castellani was first. Castellani's manager, Jack Kearns, had his former middleweight king Mickey Walker help out, but it wasn't enough. On Aug. 20, 1954, middleweight champ Carl (Bobo) Olson outpointed Castellani in 15 rounds at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Former Light-heavyweight king Joey Maxim, a jaded boxer from Cleveland, prepared there for his April 13, 1954 joust with Olson in the Cow Palace. Maxim, a light puncher with splendid ring savvy, could not ward off the whirlwind body attack of decision-winner Olson.

Next came lightweight ruler Paddy DeMarco, a rugged, nonstop New York crowd-pleaser. He frequented San Rafael in preparation for his title defense against ex-champ Jimmy Carter. On Nov. 17, 1954, at the Cow Palace, Carter knocked out his rival in the 15th.

This short span ended with Don Cockell, a fleshy Great Britain heavyweight who trained at Litchfield's domain for his championship match with the late Rocky Marciano on May 16, 1955.

The game but talentless Cockell was decked by his own sparring partner, Bob Albrecht, prior to his Kezar Stadium engagement with the hard-hitting, undefeated champion. Marciano stopped his outclassed foe in the ninth round.

The Cockell episode marked the end of San Rafael's second major boxing era. Promoters still wanted to bring fighers to train at what was considered one of the finest training facilities in the Country. But Litchfield had had enough.

He had his motel and horse racing interests, and other could provide training grounds.

After that, proboxing endeavors in San Rafael were minimal. It seemed that modern San Rafael had no interest in legalized beak bashing.

New York D.A.: Pisani Didn't Take Any Bribes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manhattan district attorney Richard Kuh said yesterday that there was no evidence that Dr. Anthony Pisani, a former surgeon for the New York Giants football team, had received any compensation for giving information on players' injuries to two indicted Mafia bookmakers.

Speaking at the request of Pisani's attorney, who was concerned about a newspaper account of the case, Kuh also said there was no evidence that Pisani's involvement resulted from his gambling debts.

A Manhattan supreme court indictment announced yesterday said Pisani, the Giants' orthopedic surgeon until he resigned last month, conferred "on a regular basis" with Michael Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J., and Thomas Musto, 64, of New York, during the 1973 football season.

Musto and Astarita, who reportedly have connections to the crime family of the late Vito Genovese, allegedly ran a $26 million a year gambling operation which handled over $1 million in football bets.

Pisani, however, testified under a grant of immunity and was not named as either a co-defendant or a co-conspirator.

In announcing the indictment, Kuh said only that the information from Pisani allowed the defendants to "better gauge the performance of the team."

Sources said such information was of high value to a gambler in arranging the odds for an upcoming game.

Kuh said Pisani's attorney, Gregory Perrin, called his office today and "asked that we comment on his role, particularly because of one newspaper report that the doctor was heavily in debt to gamblers."

"We learned of Dr. Pisani's involvement and asked him to come into a grand jury and testify and he refused to waive immunity," Kuh's statement said.

"Because our search satisfied us that his involvement was not the result of his gambling debts, we granted him immunity."

Kuh added that "there is nothing in our investigation that showed that Dr. Pisani was paid for his information — either paid with 'X' dollars or excused from a debt."

NBA To Ponder Pistons, Playoffs

DETROIT (UPI) — Official approval of the sale of the Detroit Pistons and a possible expansion of the playoffs to 10 teams are the main topics today at a special meeting of the National Basketball Association board of governors.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the NBA has scheduled an afternoon news conference to announce the board's actions following the special session.

The NBA board of governors is expected to give its approval to the sale of the Pistons earlier this month.

King Meets Goolagong

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two of the most glamorous players in the emerging world of women's tennis, Billie Jean King and Evonne Goolagong — will meet head-on tonight.

The other semi sends the Denver Racquets to Bloomington, Minn., to face the Minnesota Buckskins tonight.

King ignored her sore thumb to win women's singles and women's doubles last night as Philadelphia eliminated Cleveland. She defeated Nancy Gunter, 6-4, and teamed with Julie Anthony to stop Winnie Wooldridge and Laura Dupont.

Goolagong, meanwhile, whipped Sausalito's Rosemary Casals in singles, 6-2, and joined Peggy Michel to defeat Casals and Kerry Harris.

Knievel Talks About Death

Thoughts Of Failure Worsen As Jump Nears

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Evel Knievel feels the same as everybody else.

He doesn't want to die.

The possibility he may, however, in two more weeks never is entirely lost on him.

He has the date, Sept. 8 stamped in his mind. For Evel Knievel, that could turn out to be either Super Sunday or Judgement Day.

That's the day all systems will have to be go for him and he must do everything precisely right or they'll find him and his motorcycle in eternal embrace at the bottom of Snake River Canyon, which is only a spit and a holler outside Twin Falls, Idaho.

Evel Knievel, a friendly, easy-to-like young man, thinks positively. He's 34 and believes he'll make 35. The gnawing thought he may not, though, always keeps coming up in the back of his mind.

He talked about it yesterday in a helicopter taking him to a news conference at the foot of Manhattan.

"How much do you think about whether you'll make it or not?" I asked him.

"Enough," he said.

"Even when you lie in bed at night?"

"Sure. It's all I can think about when I'm by myself like that. Whether everything is gonna be okay or not. It gets worse as it gets closer."

Sometimes you get a certain feeling about a person. My own personal feeling, listening to Evel Knievel talk above the noisy whirring blades of the helicopter, was that he was being perfectly honest and truthful. He didn't give me the feeling he was talking merely to build up the "gate." He doesn't have to, anyway.

Knievel's attractive wife, Linda, also was in the helicopter looking after the couple's three children.

"Does your wife ever say to you, you're crazy, you ought to stop doing this?" I asked the Montana-born one-time rodeo rider.

"She never says I'm crazy," he said, "but she does want me to stop doing this."

"What does she say to you?"

"I wish you wouldn't jump the canyon.'"

"What do you say to her?"

"I have to do it."

"Why?"

"Because I gave my word. You're looking at a man who is going to do what he said he would. I know some people are saying I'm only doing it for the money, for the six million. They're wrong. I've already got three-four million. I don't need six more. You know there are three mysteries to life. Where do we come from? Why do we do what we do? And where are we gonna go? I don't pretend to have the answers. I hope to go to heaven, but I'm in no hurry to get there."

"What if you should lose your nerve up there on the takeoff ramp?" I asked him.

"I won't," he said, dismissing the possibility immediately.

Millions are going to see Evel Knievel make the jump—or miss. Some will be right there at Snake River; others will watch on television. There will be 300 closed circuit outlets in this country and Canada showing the jump, which also will be seen on live or delayed TV in Japan, Australia, England, Germany, France and South America. I asked Evel Knievel if he thinks people generally want to see him make it or does he think some watch thinking he'll be killed?

"I think five per cent come to see me get killed," he said, without much emotion. "Forty-five per cent don't want to miss it, no matter what happens, and fifty per cent are my fans. They're with me all the way."

When Evel Knievel talked about his fans, I asked him how he handles all those invitations he gets from young girls and women. He thought that one over a moment or so.

"I've known women.... when I was younger, but my wife is my girl," he said. "We've been married 15 years now and I've never had a better girl than the one I married."

By this time the helicopter was coming down.

Evel Knievel got out of the chopper while his wife and three kids remained inside as it took off again so they could see some of the sights of Manhattan.

"Are you satisfied with your machine?" someone asked.

"If I'm not, it's too late," said Knievel.

"One Congressman has been quoted as saying little children should be forbidden to watch your jump," offered someone else. "How do you feel about that?"

The expression on Evel Knievel's face suddenly changed. He looked angry.

"I've traveled this country eight years speaking on automobile safety," he said. "I've also traveled this country eight years speaking to young people against narcotics. I wear a white suit when I ride my motorcycle, not a black one. Little kids don't run away from me, they identify with me...."

Evel Knievel wasn't quite finished yet.

"You tell that Congressman to go straight to hell," he said.

Wonderful Unanimity In State Legislature

Unanimity, as we all know, is difficult to achieve. Even a five-member board is likely to split 3-2 or 4-1 on many issues.

It would seem too much to expect that all 40 senators or all 80 assemblymen in the California Legislature would often be found in agreement. Among so many, differences of opinion appear almost inevitable.

SURPRISINGLY, though, California's legislators — who, of course, study each bill brought before them thoroughly before casting their votes — quite often vote unanimously.

On some measures, this should not astonish us. It probably should be expectable that Assembly and Senate would both pass by unanimous votes such a bill as SB 1610 by Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, making the last week of April and first week of September "High School Voter Weeks." Setting up special days and weeks, with the schools supposed to take time off from teaching to observe them with "appropriate exercises," is a favorite hobby of legislators.

But unanimity among the dedicated lawmakers in Sacramento does not stop there.

It might seem that at least one of the 40 senators would find some objection to SB 1575 by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, lowering the age for education of mentally retarded children from five years to three years. Since the bill carried no appropriation, some senator, it would seem, might object to the added cost imposed on counties and school districts. But no! The Senate vote for SB 1575 was unanimous.

The same was true of SB 1782 by Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, and others, mandating establishment od development centers for handicapped children — also without appropriation.

IT MIGHT appear that leaving out appropriations made such bills unanimously acceptable. But votes on other measures prove our lawmakers can be equally unanimous when appropriating our money.

Over in the Assembly, AB 490 by Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto, appropriating $2 million to promote use of educational television, passed unanimously. So did AB 585 by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell, appropriating $150,000 for dental care education for migrant children. So did AB 3854 by then-Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and our own Assemblyman William T. Bagley, making an appropriation for special classes for autistic children — and requiring that school districts provide them. So did many other appropriation bills.

The acme (or, perhaps, the nadir) of unanimity, however, may have been reached on AB 3418 by Assemblyman Howard L. Berman, D-Sherman Oaks. It eliminates unprofessional conduct as a cause for teacher dismissal. It passed the Assembly without a dissenting vote.

COULD IT BE possible that those we elect to the Legislature vote for bills without bothering to even find out what they are?

Perish the thought! Of course they study each bill thoroughly, as they assure us they do. They are just all of like mind on such important (though obviously non-controversial) matters.

Ja!

Welcome, Strangers

People who move to Marin from the East or Midwest in the summer may be caught off-guard by the coolness of our nights, as the heat in the Sacramento Valley causes an influx of air to rush from the cold Pacific across our county.

We well remember how we shivered on army cots in an empty, heatless house on our arrival more than a quarter of a century ago. We were unaware then of Mark Twain's remark, "The coldest winter I ever spent was summer in San Francisco."

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Well-Paid Legislators Eat High On The Hog — For Free

By K.W. LEE
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — If lobbyists are telling the truth under penalty of perjury, California legisltors may be feeding off the biggest and fanciest welfare program in the contry.

These well-endowed lawmakers are wined and dined in plush restaurants and resort clubs to an average tab of $6.875 a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year.

All this feasting is tax free.

OVER A 15-MONTH period, a survey of the monthly "wining and dining" reports filed by more than 600 registered lobbyists shows, a total of $919,483 was spent for free food, free booze, and other entertainment for legislative purposes.

Another $2.1 million was spent during the same period from January, 1973, to March, 1974, for "other expenses," including gifts and junkets for state lawmakers.

Even if these high-spending lobbyists have padded their expense accounts more than 100 per cent, the average "wining and dining;; costs would amount to $3,000 a day.

That would mean an extra $18,200 tax-free fringe benefit a year for each legislative member, in addition to their $19,200 yearly salary to be raised to $21,120 in December, plus the $30-a-day, seven-day-a-week "living expense" while in session, plus other expenses for interim committee work, plus free luxury cars, plus free gasoline and oil, plus unlimited telephone calls, plus first-class travel arrangements, plus a fabulous pension plan.

Jesse Unruh, former Assembly speaker, didn't even include this "wining and dining" bonanza in his list of fringe benefits when he gave a $150,000 price tag to the life-style of a California legislator not long ago.

AS THE LOBBYISTS' own reports filed with the Joint Rules Committee indicate, feeding and entertaining legislators has grown to be a multimillion-dollar industry in the state capital.

But these volumes — annually published by the legislative committee — are a meaningless body of information since, by a design or accident, the lobbyists are not required to identify the legislators they have wined and dined and for what purposes.

A constitutional amendment, approved by voters in June, will limit lobbyists to spending $10 a month on ach legislator. The amendment, adopted by the voters as Proposition 9, will take effect Jan. 6.

Taxpayers sometimes have to pay double to support and entertain their legislators. Not only do they have to pay for the salaries and other fringe benefits of the lawmakers, but also have to finance the wining and dining activities of lobbyists representing their city, or county or special districts. For instance, the City of Los Angeles, through its lobbyists in Sacramento, spent $6,657 feeding legislators over a 13-month span.

"Legislators can hardly go hungry," one legislative worker remarks. "If he wants to, he can go through the whole week without buying a single meal."

San Anselmo Sets Example For County

The San Anselmo City Council and mayor showed Marin County a good example at their last meeting when they chose Alan Bruce, city manager. Marin County has plenty of talented and dedicated natives so why do the various cities always come up with an outsider that has to cope with local problems? I don't know Alan Bruce personally, but I do know he lived in San Anselmo 14 years and was a county administrator 1960-1971.

Adult Reader Wants 'Tumbleweeds' Back

I realize this may be a somewhat frivolous letter for an adult to write, but I wish to protest your deletion of "Tumbleweeds" from your comic strip page.

I am admittedly a comic strip fan, and very much enjoyed the excellent cartoon work and wit of "Tumbleweeds." I applaud your adding the very funny "Dr. Smock" to the I-J, but why did "Tumbleweeds" have to go?

. . .If another strip has to be deleted to make room for "Tumbleweeds," I can recommend "Funky Winkerbean" as a prime candidate — certainly one of the dullest, most witless pieces of comic strip work to come along in many years (surpassed only by the absolutely idiotic "Nancy," which you had the foresight to delete some while ago). . .

Record Of Nixon Likened To Lincoln's

Re: "Reporter's Notebook," Aug. 14.

Black Republican was the name given to Abraham Lincoln when he ran for president . . . For two decades an alliance between the planters in the South and the farmers of the Northwest had kept the Democrats in power; that alliance Lincoln had broken, and with it, at least for the time being, went the power of the Democrats in the national government.

President Nixon handled the Democrats in the same way. He was the first president since Taylor in 1848 to be elected to office without his party in control of Congress. In the past 20 years the Democratic Party has controlled the Congress during Nixon's vice presidency and presidency.

Lincoln was a minority president in votes. His total vote of 1,866,452 was but 40 per cent of the total votes cast.

President Nixon was a majority president in popular votes and a minority president in receiving cooperation and action from the Congress. If President Nixon had only done one-fourth of what he did do during his terms in office, he still would have performed "miracles."

The reporter's respondent was said to be speaking "facetiously but sadly." A good trick, if it can be done. . .

President Nixon's money isn't in Swiss banks. Besides being an astute politician, he is also a knowledgeable investor. What's better than owning real estate in Florida and California?

(Nixon was not the first president since 1848 elected without his party in control of Congress. When Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected to his second term in 1956, Democrats won control of both houses. Republican Rutherford B. Hayes was elected in 1876 with Democrats in control of the House of Representatives. Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected in 1884 with Republicans in control of the Senate. Nixon was a minority president in popular vote for his first term, receiving 43.4 per cent of the total vote. — Editor)

San Rafael Redevelopment 'Rips Off' Taxpayers

Your Aug. 16 editorial position that the proposed expansion of the San Rafael redevelopment area is a misuse of redevelopment is well taken and your concern that the diversion of tax revenues would result in higher taxes for all San Rafael property owners is commendable.

What is not commendable is your total lack of concern for all the taxpayers outside the city limits of San Rafael who are being ripped off for the present redevelopment scheme, the prime beneficiaries of which are downtown San Rafael property owners such as the owners of the I-J.

The so-called "redevelopment area" increased in value 13.5 per cent last year and cost the taxpayers outside of that area over $1 million, according to the figures furnished by Michael Mitchell, county auditor, which information was inconspicuously located at the bottom of page 23 of the same issue of your paper.

Millions upon millions of dollars of private funds have been spent in new construction in your so-called "redevelopment area," and the investors have done very well, which is as it should be. This action by the private sector has made San Rafael anything but a blighted area. The few remaining areas on the side streets that need redevelopment will likewise be rebuilt by private funds as the need arises. It is no place for public money, especially when the money is being paid against their will by taxpayers in Fairfax, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tomales, Novato, Belvedere, etc., etc. . .

(The fact that increased valuation in the San Rafael Redevelopment area yields $1 million in tax revenues this year does not mean that taxpayers outside the city must pay an additional million dollars. — Editor)

School Neighbors Suffer From Vandalism

I have resided on Fern Lane in San Anselmo for nine years. For the past three years, extensive property damage has occurred to almost every neighbor by a few misguided Sir Francis Drake High School students.

Letters have been sent to Mr. Miller, the principal, the resident of this street have beseeched their city councilmen to effect a solution to the problem. One person from the Tamalpais School District has bothered to return my call to that office, but with no solution to be put into effect.

The solution is a simple one. Erect a wall that would in effect not allow any student to come onto Fern Lane during their school hours. It boils down to the discomfort of a few, or the costly expense of repairs that have to be done to our property as a result of the destruction caused by the students.

My feeling is either the Tam School District and the city council adopt my solution to the problem, or whatever they feel should be done to stem the tide of destruction, or these officials should be voted out of office and new candidates sought who can make themselves responsible to the citizenry of San Anselmo and their problems.

The city council in June decided to wait until October for further discussion relating to this problem. Meanwhile, the students return in September and the destruction begins as it has been for the past three years. Why a solution could not have been sought prior to the opening of school is beyond my powers of comprehension.

World Capitals Watch Closely For Test Of New President

American and allied foreign offices and intelligence services are on the watch for any unfriendly effort to exploit the changeover in authority in Washington.

Not that the U. S. State Department and intelligence quarters in Washington and elsewhere expect the Russians to repeat their behavior when John F. Kennedy took over from Dwight D. Eisenhower. Times were very different then and Nikita Khrushchev was an adventurer inclined to take long chances. He thought he could bully the new young president out of Berlin and Cuba. He precipitated a serious double crisis and gave the world an anxious two years.

Leonid I. Brezhnev is a far more cautious man than was Mr. Khrushchev. Moscow remembers all the trouble the Cuban missile crisis caused. Moscow wants and needs detente. And there is now an answer to a dangerous Soviet demarche that did not exist in the Kennedy era.

At that time Washington considered mainland China to be its most dangerous enemy. Today China is the counterpoint to the Soviet Union. If the Russians were to make some threatening move in the West, Washington could counter by reaching for a closer relationship with China. Demarche could be met by demarche.

THE DANGER TODAY is probably from lesser capitals that might think Mr. Ford will be too busy learning his way around his command post in Washington to have time for small things.

For example, the Turks apparently determined to capture more territory on Cyprus regardless of anything Washington said to them behind the scenes. They went ahead in defiance of just about every responsible voice in the world, except for the Russians, who, obviously find this situation promising. For them, it has nothing to do with the Ford takeover. It is merely the first real breach in NATO ranks. It is a marvelous opening for them, which they are bound to enjoy, even if they avoid any overt involvement.

Washington eyes are also watching Vietnam. The situation there is soft. Congress is cutting back American funds for South Vietnam. Hanoi has raised its deployment in the South from the normal level of 145,000 of its regular army forces to 180,000. And the level of military activity is above normal.

This is not a general offensive, and none is expected before December, if then. But the snapping and the nagging is a higher-than-normal level. It is a matter of keeping up a degree of pressure on the South Vietnamese forces that keeps them always on duty and under strain. The purpose is probably just to deny South Vietnam a chance to rest and recuperate, and to be ready to pounce if American aid to Saigon should dwindle below the danger line.

Moscow might encourage Hanoi to raise the level of pressure ever higher. This is to be watched, although it is not expected.

ISRAEL IS WORRIED about what may happen during this transition period. Might Moscow encourage Syria or Egypt, or both, to launch another offensive against Israel? Probably not. But it is worth watching.

There are other sensitive places in the world. One is the Indian Ocean, where Russian naval activity has been rising steadily for years. Another is West Berlin, where renewed pressure would cause danger and anxiety and where pressure can be switched on or off on a moment's notice.

At this writing the East Germans have not been interfering with road and rail traffic through the corridor from West Germany. But they did interfere for a while, and there were threats even to air traffic. The original reason was local and parochial. But it should be watched.

Mr. Ford's toughness could be tested quicker and more sharply at Berlin than at any one other point on the globe. And there are experts in western foreign offices who think that the Kremlin is bound to make at least one test of the new American president. After all, how better to find out how he will behave in a crisis situation than to provoke one?

Congress Flexing Its Muscles Over Power Of The Purse

By GEORGE J. MARDER

That could be a sign of trouble for President Ford who is easily getting Congress to give him a toothless Cost of Living Council to monitor wage and price increases.

The muscle-flexing came when Kenneth Rush, chief economic spokesman for former President Nixon, appeared as leadoff witness at the first meeting of a newly-created Senate Committee on the budget.

THE COMMITTEE was set up under a new law Congress passed this session to try to recapture some of its constitutional power of the purse. It is made up of heavyweights who have powerful influence on the appropriation process in Congress.

At the outset, the committee chairman, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, wanted to establish Rush's credentials. After all, Rush was a carryover from a discredited administration.

Rush assured him that his testimony represented the "consensus" of the new administration and President Ford "approved" it.

Rush, speaking for the new administration, told the senators some tough decisions were being made to slow down government spending. The target was at least a $5 billion cut from the $305 billion budget sent to Congress in January.

He said that to do this — or to get to a lower figure if possible — would require cooperation from Congress in two ways: discarding some old spending programs and backing away from some new perhaps popular ones. Rush said pending legislation, if passed, would send the budget way out of whack.

THE TONE OF RUSH'S testimony was that the new Ford administration was seeking cooperation from Congress on its budget.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., one of the real heavyweights in Congress on spending programs, listened patiently until it was his turn to question Rush. Instead of questioning, he gave Rush a lecture.

Go back to the White House, Magnuson told Rush, and tell them that we are not cooperating with their budget, but we're asking for cooperation with our budget. By "our" budget he meant the congressional budget.

And you tell them, Magnuson continued, that we are going to cut the budget a lot more than you or they think. And we don't want you to come back with a $3 billion or $4 billion supplemental request for extra funds.

(Last year, the administration submitted a supplemental budget of $7 billion.)

MAGNUSON'S ATTITUDE indicated a new sensitivity in Congress regarding the power over the purse. But it reflected an old controversy over who is responsible for big spending — Congress or the White House.

And the cutting Congress already has done in the first few days of the Ford administration isn't quite what the new President had in mind. Congress took steps to cut defense and foreign aid spending by almost $6 billion — this just after the President cautioned against cuts in the defense budget.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By THERON NEWELL

Bypass Changes Traffic Patterns; Street Names Still Confusing

When the freeway bypass is opened in Novato in a few months, it will dramatically change the traffic patterns in the east end of the business district.

DeLong Avenue will be the main off-ramp to the city. This will tend to funnel the main flow of traffic down it and across the present highway to Diablo Avenue, the Novato Fair Shopping Center, and other shopping centers on South Novato Boulevard.

Grant Avenue, which has always had a struggle to become the main shopping area of the city, may be hard hit, or it may prosper because of the better flow of local traffic.

WHICH BRINGS UP the subject of street name changes. Actually Grant Avenue, or the street with main flow of traffic, takes a slight bend at Novato Creek. It then becomes Virginia Avenue, which dead-ends in Simmons Lane. Officially Grant Avenue makes a sudden turn for a very short block past the Catholic Church and then dead-ends in Novato boulevard.

DeLong Avenue leaves the freeway bypass and in a few blocks reaches the present highway. On crossing the highway, it becomes Diablo Avenue.

South Novato Boulevard actually is an extension of Highway 37 (but not officially). It goes westward for several blocks and then heads north, still bearing the same name.

After going north for approximately a mile and a half, it makes a slight bend to the west, where it becomes Novato Boulevard.

The worst example of all is Seventh Street. It is Seventh Street through what is sometimes called the Northwest Quadrant, and on to the north where it ends short of San Marin Drive.

Where it crosses Grant Avenue, it becomes a wide curving street that narrowd down to an alley-like street called Tamalpais Avenue which dead-ends in a hill.

THE CITY OF NOVATO is not very good at business.

It has just bought a new street sweeper, and if it had tried, could have had it partially paid for by the time it arrived in the city.

The city could have contracted with Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and California to sweep the westbound lane of Highway 80.

The city sent two men to Chicago and they drove the street sweeper the 2,200 miles to Novato. They might have swept their way west.

Interest Found Short In Equivalency Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fewer persons than anticipated are taking advantage of the new opportunity to obtain high school equivalency certificates in California.

Under a state law which took effect in January, California began awarding equivalency certificates to persons who were not high school graduates but who pass a battery of tests in high school subjects.

Noel Glasgow, a state Department of Education field representative in charge of the new program, said "fewer persons than expected" were applying for the certificates— which can help a person qualify for a job or promotion.

"The program has started slowly but we think it will build when more people know about it," Glasgow said. "An awful lot of people don't know that it's available."

In addition to lack of publicity, Glasgow said other major reasons for the slow start were closure of many adult education testing centers during the summer and department budget restrictions which prevent hiring of more personnel to help with the program.

During Sacramento ceremonies in May when the first certificates were awarded to eight Northern Californians, state Schools Superintendent Wilson C. Riles told the group: "You'll be, I believe, the first of many, many thousands who'll take advantage of this."

Several of the recipients told why they wanted the equivalency certificate.

Ada Harris, a 33-year-old Sacramento mother of seven school-age children, said when her children were small, she had no time to attend adult school classes.

Once the younger children reached an age where they could be left with their grandmother, Mrs. Harris said, she decided to seek a clerical job and, as a first step, applied for the certificate.

"I thought it might do the trick for me. I thought it would open the door," said Mrs. Harris, who also has been taking adult education courses in typing and math.

Another recipient was Sophie Albright, 29, a native of Vietnam who became a U.S. citizen last fall. She applied for a certificate although she had completed high school in Vietnam.

"But I had no paper to prove I had that education," she said. "I thought I better have something here, and then people will not argue about it."

Glasgow said many of the certificate recipients so far are persons who enlisted in the armed services before completing high school. He said some servicemen apply for the equivalency diploma because they need it to qualify for service promotions.

Until Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, authored the bill which set up the equivalency program this year, California was the only state not offering such certificates.

Glasgow said California education officials had felt "we had an excellent adult school setup" in the state which permitted anyone who wanted a regular high school diploma to get one. But he said officials have realized that many persons, especially the poor, don't have the time or opportunity to attend adult courses.

To apply for the certificates, a person must be a resident of California or a serviceman stationed here and be 18 years of age or older.

Equivalency applicants must pass five two-hour tests in science, social studies, composition and grammar, mathematics and literature before they are awarded the certificate. There is an $8 fee for the certificates.

Applications are made at 235 adult education testing centers throughout the state. Glasgow said the centers since 1946 have been testing adults who are seeking regular high school diplomas after completing required adult education courses.

Sonoma Slates Indian Course

An extension course on titled "Culture of the Coast Miwok Peoples of Marin" will be offered by Sonoma State College beginning Sept. 12 at the Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael.

Instructed by Don Theiler and Marilyn Ginn Licklider, the course will allow school teachers to familiarize themselves with what is known of the social and material culture of the Indians who occupied Marin County before the white man's arrival.

The same teachers will offer a course titled "Advanced Culture of the Coast Miwok Peoples of Marin" at the same time, date and location.

4-H Club Display At Center's Library

An exhibit of the activities of the 22 4-H Clubs in Marin County is on display in the California Room of the Marin County Public Library's Civic Center branch through the end of August during regular library hours.

The display shows crafts, home economics, livestock and other projects of the clubs' 1,000 members. Leslie Hinerman, an award-winning 4-H member and summer intern in the county farm adviser's office, assembled the display.

Kennedy Criticizes Vets For Stand On Amnesty

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy yesterday told the Veterans of Foreign Wars he thinks they were "narrow" in rejecting President Ford's plea for leniency for men who refused to serve in Vietnam.

Angry veterans jumped to their feet and shouted, "No, no, no" when the Massachusetts Democrat asked if they had "faith enough to be generous and the strength to be, as the (Ford) said, lenient."

Kennedy, departing from the text of a speech prepared for the VFW convention, scolded the veterans for passing a resolution Tuesday restating their total opposition to any form of amnesty. On Monday, Ford asked the group to join him in considering leniency for the thousands of young draft dodgers and deserters who face criminal prosecution if they return to America.

"It was wrong to turn him down without even hearing his proposal in full," Kennedy said. "I believe it was wrong for this great gathering to be the first to turn against him.

"In the action you took, I believe that you were narrow."

Kennedy said Ford had gone to the VFW "as a commander in chief would to his men" with "a proposal that had mercy and leniency built into it."

"It was these basic virtues that he placed before you," Kennedy said.

"I call on you to be large enough, courageous enough to heed the call of a man who sought your support. On this issue, he deserves it."

Despite the angry outburst during Kennedy's speech, the veterans applauded politely as he finished, and VFW Commander Ray Soden told him, "We can disagree, Senator, but we will never be disagreeable."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Bond Investing Fund Is Sought

By ROGER E. SPEAR
and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I will soon have some cash available for investment and am interested in convertible bonds. Is there a no-load which invests exclusively or almost in convertible bonds? It seems to me there is sizable leverage in this area. E. D.

A. I agree that this looks like a good time to buy convertibles and convertible bond funds. Most are selling at bargain levels reflecting soaring interest rates and falling stock prices. However, interest rates should begin to ease causing bond prices to go up and as part of the same scenario, stock prices should rise. Thus, the convertible bond funds have two strings in their bows. In the interim, as a shareholder you will be accruing a generous return from your investment.

To my knowledge the only no-load with a sizeable commitment in this type of security is Steadman Associated Fund with 29 per cent of assets in convertible bonds. Two closed-end and one load convertible fund are worth considering, however. Closed-end American General Convertible Securities is selling on the NYSE at a 2 per cent discount from net asset value. The annual $1.32 dividend yields about 8.8 per cent. The portfolio, around 90 per cent convertible securities, has a number of CCC-rated speculations and unrated securities. However, the major holdings are largely in the BB sector. This fund is a buy for superior income and moderate appreciation.

Bancroft Convertible (ASE), a heavily discounted (24 per cent) closed end, carries a number of high-risk issues, two of which are in default. Nonetheless, NAV is down only 5 per cent this year, partly because it has avoided investments convertible into high multiple stocks. This fund may be bought for its comparatively high income yield (9 per cent) and speculative potential, if you are able to assume some risk. Putnam Convertible, a load fund, holds convertibles with strong growth potential (ARCO, Xerox). The portfolio is about 77 per cent in convertible issues and 12 per cent in straight bonds to improve yield. This high-quality fund is an excellent choice for moderate current income (5.9 per cent) and long-term appreciation.

Selling Wave On Market Continues

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investor wariness over inflation and interest rates pushed stock prices still lower on the New York Stock Exchange today. Trading was moderate.

Even favorable economic news has failed to stem the selling wave. Investors apparently need some concrete measures to combat the inflationary pressures plaguing the economy before their confidence in the market is restored.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today supported Federal Reserve chairman Arthur F. Burns testimony before the new Senate Budget Committee urging a $10 billion cut in the federal budget. Burns also told the committee he favored a reduction in the capital gains tax to encourage the small investor to return to the marketplace.

Among the glamors taking point-size losses, Burroughs fell 2 ⅛, and IBM and Walt Disney 1 ½ each.

A DROP IN THE BUCKET

Sixteen-year-old Melissa DeHaan of Terra Linda takes an unscheduled plunge in Civic Center Lagoon. It was HOT yesterday and Miss DeHaan's intention was to give her mount, Gypsy, a cooling stroll through the water, but Gypsy reared and that was that.

The thermometer hit 93 in San Rafael and the high in Marin was 101 in nearby Marinwood. Other temperatures were 91 in Larkspur, 90 in Petaluma and 96 in San Anselmo. Sausalito and Point Reyes Station registered 84. The weatherman says fair and cooler tomorrow.

Ferry Hearing On Tonight At Toll Plaza

Tonight's public hearing on the environmental impact report on a permanent Sausalito ferry terminal will be held at 8 o'clock at the Golden Gate Bridge District's toll plaza offices despite a last-minute legal maneuver by the city to shift it to Central School.

City attorneys — acting more than a month after the district set tonight's hearing — late yesterday got a court order requiring the district either to cancel the hearing and hold it another time in Sausalito, or proceed with tonight's session on condition that a second be held in the city at some future date, or hold tonight's meeting and show in court that a Sausalito hearing is not needed.

David Miller, the district's attorney, said the necessity of holding a second one in Sausalito will be argued in Marin Superior Court at 9 a.m. on Sept. 5.

In any event, Miller noted, state law does not require that any public hearing at all be held. He also cited a provision in the law that permits such hearings, if held, to be conducted "where public hearings are regularly conducted by the agency."

The city's special counsel in its protest against the terminal, Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., argued that since only 50 persons can fit into the bridge board's hearing room, tonight's session would be "a sham." Other persons accommodated in the hallway and an adjacent room would be excluded from participating in the hearing, he said in his petition.

The order was issued by Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson. District attorneys were not given notice of the move yesterday, but Miller said today that the court has no authority in the matter since the hearing was entirely optional.

The city has filed a separate suit to halt the terminal unless the district gives the city control over the ferry system.

The environmental report concedes the terminal will cause increased vehicular and tourist traffic, noise and air pollution, but says these adverse effects will be more than offset regionally because the expanded ferry system will lower air pollution by encouraging people to use the ferry instead of driving.

GNP Records Drop For Second Quarter

Inflation Rate Higher Than Was Anticipated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gross National Product dropped by 0.8 per cent during the second quarter of the year, the Commerce Department said today. It was the second straight quarterly decline — the theoretical definition of a recession.

The 0.8 per cent figure was a slight improvement over the preliminary figures for April to June issued by the department last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop in the GNP.

On the other hand, the department said inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or noninflated growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists have insisted that the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

With the exception of the 12.3 per cent rate of price increases in the first quarter, the April-June inflation rate was the biggest three-month rise since the first quarter of 1951.

Commerce Secretary Fredrick B. Dent said the modest softening was "an improvement" over the first quarter but "nevertheless validates the essentiality of President Ford's battle to cut the inflation rate."

Both the growth and inflation figures were part of the department's quarterly report on GNP, which measures the total value of goods and services produced in this country in a given period. It is the most comprehensive report on the health of the economy.

The revised report put the overall second quarter increase at $28.5 billion, pushing GNP to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,387.3 billion ($1.4 trillion).

A separate Commerce report showed profits of U.S. corporations before taxes rose $11.7 billion in the second quarter to a $150.4 billion annual rate. This was off from the $16 billion first quarter rise.

The profit picture in both quarters has been distorted by inflation. Virtually all of the profit gains have been due to increases in inventory profits, which are the gains generated by the rise in inventories between the time of purchase and eventual resale.

The GNP report came a day after the Labor Department reported the consumer price index for July went up 0.8 per cent, bringing the overall increase to almost 12 per cent during the last year. The Labor Department's inflation index, now running at a seasonally adjusted rate of about 11.7 per cent, is based on the narrower measurement of retail price changes.

Water Agency Is Charged With Using Scare Tactics

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma Water Agency was accused yesterday of attempting to "create a water crisis in order to frighten people into voting for the Warm Springs Dam."

Iva Warner of Santa Rosa, president of Sonoma County Tomorrow and co-chairman of the antidam Warm Springs Task Force, said county officials have deliberately delayed construction of the Cotati-Russian River Intertie aqueduct, a pipeline to bring water into Southern Sonoma and Northern Marin.

"The Cotati Intertie would have overcome the bottleneck in the existing pipeline and brought the unused half of Coyote Dam's water to Southern Sonoma this year if the board of supervisors and the water agency had begun the aqueduct in 1972," she said.

By delaying the aqueduct, Mrs. Warner said, the water agency has allowed costs to rise from about $15 million in 1972 to $30 million now.

"It is neither lack of funds nor 'environmentalists' who are to blame," she said.

"The water agency has surplus funds that it has been investing week after week rather than taking care of the system. And it could have issued revenue bonds or asked the voters for general obligation bonds to raise the additional money needed."

Sonoma supervisors were informed earlier this week that the aqueduct's cost had skyrocketed during delays caused by Petaluma's request for additional water. County officials blamed Marin County environmentalists for adding to the delay by opposing their county's participation in the project.

House Writes End To Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House released today the historical final report of the judiciary committee on impeachment, changing some language but still maintaining that former President Nixon lied, violated laws and subverted the Constitution.

Conclusions supporting each of the three articles of impeachment voted against Nixon were included in a draft of the report circulated to the 38 committee members last week.

They already were strongly worded, but the final report of 525 pages expanded on them, providing greater detail and more support for the actions taken.

"President Nixon's course of conduct following the Watergate break-in, as described in Article One, caused action not only by his subordinates, but by the agencies of the United States, including the Department of Justice, the FBI and the CIA," the report concluded at the end of its justification for the first article.

"It required perjury, destruction of evidence, obstruction of justice, all crimes. But, most important, it required deliberate, contrived and continuing deception of the American people."

It acknowledged receipt of the three transcripts of taped conversations released by Nixon on Aug. 5. That release proving Nixon's involvement in the cover-up of the Watergate break-in as early as six days after the June 17, 1972 burglary, led to unanimous committee support for the first article. A week earlier the Committee had decided on that article, approving it 27-11.

The tape release also led to overwhelming House and Senate demands for Nixon's resignation or removal from office. He resigned four days later, ending the impeachment process. The House voted, 412-3 on Tuesday to receive the panel's final report and to commend it for its 10 months of work.

The first 278 pages of the report contain the conclusions and the panel's evidence gathered and compiled under the direction of Special Counsel John M. Doar. The rest includes "supplemental, additional, separate, dissenting, minority, individual and concurring views" by most of the panel members.

One was a report written by chief GOP Counsel Sam Garrison for the 10 committee Republicans who voted against each of the proposed articles during the committee's late July debate, but who changed their minds on Article One after Nixon's Aug. 5 revelation.

Garrison's report was only slightly altered in the final version.

Perhaps some persons would continue to say that Nixon was hounded out, Garrison's statement said. "We feel constrained to point out, however, that it was Richard Nixon who impeded the FBI's investigation of the Watergate affair by wrongfully attempting to implicate the Central Intelligence Agency.

"It was Richard Nixon who created and preserved the evidence of that transgression and who, knowing that it had been supoenaed by this committee and the special prosecutor, concealed its terrible import, even from his own counsel until he could do so no longer."

Another Council Hopeful Applies

Robert Davis of 8224 El Rancho Drive today became the seventh person to apply for one of the two Cotati City Council seats vacated Aug. 7 by councilmen who resigned after being arrested on suspicion of stealing marijuana from the city police department.

No background information on Davis is available, as City Mgr. Robert A. Switzer has ordered none be released.

The council is to name new members at its Sept. 3 meeting.

Ford Declares Monday Women's Equality Day

"It's been my observation that women over the years, especially in politics have to do things twice as well in order to get credit," Ford said. "We've got to change that."

Ford began his day — his 14th in office — with his first medical examination since being sworn in as President. The White House clinic and his personal physician said "everything is fine."

"It looks like a chorus line," one of the legislators quipped.

Ford stood in the center of the line with one arm around Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., and the other arm around Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y. Ford's wife, Betty, was also in attendance.

Ford asked the congresswomen how many states need to pass the Equal Rights Amendment before it is ratified. Several of them said at once, "We're five short."

Following the ceremony, Rep. Abzug, who introduced the House version of the proclamation, urged Ford "to use his influence to achieve final adoption of the Equal Rights Ammendment and to appoint a significant number of women to decision making posts."

Prototype Airplane Makes First Flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Northrop Corporation's second prototype of the world's newest jet fighter, the YF17, has made its first flight test from this Southern California desert base.

Petaluma Hospital Board Member Levels Secret Meeting Charge

Brand T. Johnson, a member of the Hillcrest Hospital Board of Directors in Petaluma, has accused the board with staging a secret meeting without his knowledge.

In a letter to board president Dr. Frederick Groverman, Johnson asked that the meeting be discussed at the board's regular session at 8 p.m. today at the hospital cafeteria.

Johnson told the Independent-Journal that the unannounced meeting held July 30 at the hospital, involving two board members and officials from Sonoma County and Southern Sonoma cities, violated the spirit of the Ralph M. Brown Act, a California law which prohibits unannounced secret meetings of public officials.

He charged that only two board members — chairman Groverman and Dr. Francis M. Crinella, attended the meeting, thus technically avoiding a Brown Act violation since a quorum of the five-man board was not present.

Johnson said he was not informed that the meeting would take place, and he added that he has not since been informed of what occurred during the session.

Groverman confirmed that only two board members were present.

"If we'd had more than that there would have been a violation of the Brown Act," he admitted. Groverman acknowledged that Johnson had not been invited, but refused to

Man Escapes Death In Fall At Seashore

A 25-year-old Berkeley man escaped death yesterday when a team of park rangers rescued him after he fell down a sheer cliff in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The victim, William Dickinson, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was under treatment for a broken right arm and fractured lumbar vertebrae.

Ranger John Aho said it took rangers and hikers who volunteered assistance more than two hours to carry Dickinson from a beach to a waiting ambulance at the top of the cliff at the end of Bear Valley Trail.

A man hiking with Dickinson went for help after the accident at about 2 p.m. Rangers were summoned by a park volunteer, who was exercising a horse in the rugged park, Aho said.

They found that Dickinson had fallen about 45 feet as he was attempting to climb down a cliff in the Sea Tunnel area. Aho said the hiker had left the marked trail and was about halfway down the cliff when he lost his footing.

Dickinson fell onto sand, Aho said, which probably saved his life, but by the time rangers reached the injured man, people on the beach had moved him to avoid an incoming tide.

Tax Rate In Larkspur Will Remain The Same

Larkspur residents will have the same tax rate in 1974-75 that they had in 1973-74, the Larkspur City Council decided last night. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 3.)

Councilmen set the rate per $100 assessed valuation at $1.98 including sanitation service for most of Larkspur, and at $1.48 for the Greenbrae section of the city which is served by the Ross Valley Sanitary District, whose rate is $1.

Property tax revenues will help finance a $2 million budget which councilmen approved last month. The budget is slightly higher than last year's but councilmen said a 9.94 per cent increase in the city's assessed valuation will bring in enough more money to take care of that.

Even though the tax rate is unchanged, most property owners will seen an increase in their tax bill because of the increase in valuation. Only in a few parts of the city which were not reassessed by the county assessor will tax bills remain the same.

The $1.98 rate covers $1.36 for operating expenses, 50 cents for sanitary purposes and 12 cents to pay the cost of the city employees retirement system.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Simon Backs Big Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today joined Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns in pushing for a $10 billion cut in the federal budget.

Simon

Testifying before the new Senate Budget Committee Wednesday, Burns argued for the slash as a psychological signal to business and unions that the government is intent on reducing inflation.

Simon, who was interviewed on the CBS Morning News, said a $10 billion cut favored by the new administration is possible.

Burns said the immediate effect of a $10 billion cut in the $305 billion budget would be to spur the stock market, bring down short-term interest rates and thus release forces in the economy "that would make for more jobs, not fewer."

But Walter Heller, former economic adviser to President Kennedy, heatedly disagreed, saying a $10 billion cut would lead to a $30 billion drop in the national economy.

TB Tests Ordered

WHITE PLAINS (UPI) — Hundreds of infants were exposed to tuberculosis at a Yonkers, N.Y., hospital over a seven-month period and health officials now say they should all be given TB skin tests.

But Westchester County health officials said yesterday it is unlikely any of them will contract the disease.

Health Commissioner Jack Goldman said about 1,300 babies born at St. John's Riverside Hospital in Yonkers between Dec. 17, 1973, and July 22, 1974, came in contact with a nurse who didn't know she had tuberculosis.

Hospital Shelled

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners shelled a military hospital today in a district town 30 miles northwest of Saigon, field officers said today.

Eight rounds of 60mm mortar fire hit the Trang Bang district hospital near dawn, wounding four patients, officers said.

Israeli Protest

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli officers said today an Egyptian missile attack against a patrolling warplane threatened to undermine the six-month-old agreement separating opposing armies in the Sinai Desert.

"We have an agreement," a military source in Tel Aviv said. "If they fire, we could do the same thing. But we didn't. This is the most serious violation since the agreement. It's serious business."

Israel complained to the United Nations yesterday that Egyptian troops on the east bank of the Suez Canal fired a Soviet-built Strela missile at a patrolling Israeli warplane.

Shift In Policy?

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union is prepared to make concessions on Jewish emigration from Russia to Israel in return for American most-favored national trade treatment, Communist diplomats said today.

The sources said this is a very delicate problem for Moscow and the Kremlin does not want publicity for its plans to ease up on emigration.

Nevertheless, the combination of trade considerations, world pressures and domestic troubles appear to have combined to make the Russian regime more amenable to softening its policy.

An American compromise formula, now under consideration in Moscow, was understood to point to the expected settlement.

This formula reportedly calls for a Soviet undertaking that Russian Jews wanting to emigrate to Israel will not be penalized. Many have lost their jobs after applying for emigration visas and have been harassed in various ways.

Hearings Set

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Civil suits seeking more than $11 million in damages by the parents of 12 Kent State University students killed or wounded by National Guardsmen will be heard in U.S. District Court beginning April 7.

The defendants include former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and the one-time top officials of both Kent State University and the Ohio National Guard.

U.S. District Court Judge Don J. Young of Toledo agreed to combine all 12 suits into one trial to be held in Cleveland.

Mystery Rock

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A large chunk of metal which may have come from outer space struck a city street yesterday and bounced into a house, doing slight damage.

Police Sgt. Dale Johnson said the piece of metal fell on a street at 5:55 p.m., went about 60 feet in the air, hit some grass and took a second hop into the side of a house where it broke off some siding.

The home was the residence of the William Murray family. No one was hurt and little damage done, Johnson said.

A Strike Ultimatum

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Striking San Mateo city firemen have been given an ultimatum to return to work by Monday or be fired.

The threat was a city council vote yesterday, followed by authorization for Mayor John C. Lilly to hire fire house replacements.

The councilmen directed Lilly to send individual telegrams to the 114 firemen informing them of the ultimatum.

Security Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless President Ford designates his Vail, Colo., condominium as his permant home, his skiing vacations there could be extremely expensive because of a bill working its way through Congress.

The bill, authored by Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., would limit major permanent security improvements to only one presidential home away from the White House.

It also would bar any permanent installations costing more than $5,000 at any other privately owned property.

FACES HECKLER — Nelson A. Rockefeller last night made his first speech since nomination for vice president Tuesday and encountered his first protestor. A heckler (silhouetted right) stood at the $100-a-plate dinner Rockefeller was addressing and berated him for his wealth. The nominee replied to the angry audience, "Let him stay, this is a free country." (UPI Telephoto)

Rockefeller Squelches Hecklers In First Speech As Nominee

NEWPORT R.I. (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking from the pink party tent of "The Great Gatsby," last night fended off hecklers critical of his wealth at his first Republican party function since being picked for vice president.

"Let him stay. This is a country of free traditions, of freedom of speech," Rockefeller implored when an angry guest at the $100-a-plate GOP function bodily carried one of the protestors from the tent.

The man, Joseph McDonough, 22, Boston, a member of the U.S. Labor Party, returned, started to interrupt, and was told by Rockefeller, "You'll have your chance."

The fundraiser, a summer event in this posh resort area, was held on the estate of of John and Eileen Slocum not far from Rosecliff Mansion where the "The Great Gatsby" was filmed. The tent was used in the movie for lavish party scenes.

"We came here to speak about how Rockefeller is establishing a fascist economy in the United States," said Steven Desmond, McDonough's companion, after Rockefeller's speech. He too was escorted out by guests when he began distributing mimiographed position statements of the U. S. Labor Party.

During Rockefeller's 15-minute speech, faint strains of "Taps" floated across the huge lawn. They came from a group protesting Rockefeller's 1972 veto of a bill which would have repealed New York's liberal abortion law.

About 40 members of a Right to Life Committee carried signs reading "Rockefeller brings abortion to the White House" and "Everyone should have a birthday."

In his 15-minute speech, Rockefeller said President Ford offered the nation "openness, dedication and integrity." He said Ford "personified the feeling of all America."

The event was originally billed as an evening with Vice President Ford, but Rockefeller was substituted after Ford became president.

Bomber Led A Strange Double Life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Muharem Kurbegovic, the alleged "alphabet bomber" accused of setting off a deadly blast at the Los Angeles airport, may have been motivated by resentment over police refusal to allow him to open a taxi dance hall.

Neighbors and former coworkers have painted a portrait of Kurbegovic's strange double life, which included masquerading as a mute for two years on his job as a mechanical engineer.

Authorities expected to bring at least three murder charges against Kurbegovic — perhaps late today — for the blast at Los Angeles International Airport Aug. 6 that killed two skycaps and a passenger from New Zealand, wounded 35 others and did extensive damage.

Investigators said Kurbegovic trapped himself by giving away vital clues to his identity in the taped messages he left at various points to communicate his demands.

He was arrested in the men's room of a hamburger stand Tuesday night by plainclothes officers who had him under surveillance, reportedly after he taped another cassette for later pickup, again using the identity of "Isaac Rasin, military commander of the Aliens of America."

Bombs and explosives were found in his apartment, police said.

Kurbegovic's landlady, Lillian Gerbosi, described him as friendly and responsive to questions, until recent weeks, if somewhat of a recluse.

But at the RPM Industries plant where Kurbegovic worked until he was laid off in a staff cutback just last Friday, his boss, Stephen Smith, was astonished to learn that Kurbegovic could speak.

For two years, Kurbegovic never said a word, communicating through "hundreds of furiously scribbled notes," Smith said, including lengthy conversations on politics, religion and social philosophies.

TODAY'S WORLD

"The secret is the ability to read character — so you don't approach anyone who might offer you work."

Rockefeller Record Will Be Examined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate committee that will hold confirmation hearings for Nelson A. Rockefeller, has asked four government agencies to begin investigating the nominee's record.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., head of the Rules Committee, yesterday asked the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office to begin compiling information on the former New York governor.

A similar request is expected soon from Cannon's opposite number in the House, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., head of the Judiciary Committee. Rockefeller met Tuesday with Cannon and Rodino, before returning to his vacation home at Seal Harbor, Maine.

A White House spokesman has said both the FBI and the IRS, as well as the office of Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, made quick checks on Rockefeller while Ford was making his decision.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., ranking GOP member of the Judiciary Committee, urged quick action, saying the confirmation process should take no more than eight weeks.

TROOP TRAINING

Members of a force reconnaisance team demonstrated behind-the-lines landing technique to reservists training at Camp Pendleton yesterday. In areas where it is difficult to land or parachute, the men are lowered to the ground by means of a winch and knotted nylon cable.

Drug Squad Is Backed, But With Reservations

The concept of a countywide narcotics squad was endorsed last night by the Larkspur City Council. But councilmen balked at supporting a proposal which would put the squad under the operational control of the City of San Rafael. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 1.)

"Perhaps San Rafael could in some way coordinate this through (county) supervisors," suggested Councilman William G. Fleckles. "That would be someone we all vote for."

As proposed, the squad would be headed by San Rafael Deputy Police Chief Lawrence R. Kelly and Mayor Joan L. Sestak wondered to whom Kelly would be responsible.

The matter came before the council because the San Rafael City Council has asked all other city councils in Marin to take a stand for or against the squad. The squad is to be federally-funded but has been stalled before county supervisors. Final county opposition would kill the project.

The Larkspur City Council also:

PROTEST — Received a letter from Themeos Drossos of 15 Olive Avenue, protesting resurfacing of Madrone Avenue and saying the street should be left rutted as a deterrent to speeders. Councilmen directed staff to study traffic on the avenue but said they would go ahead with the resurfacing as planned.

SIGNS — Adopted an ordinance extending to Feb. 3, 1975, the deadline for removing illegal signs within the city.

FORTUNE TELLING — Adopted an ordinance which strikes down an existing city regulation prohibiting fortune telling. In the future, fortune tellers must apply for a city business license.

ORDINANCES — Introduced ordinances which would provide for a retirement program for police and firemen; require that drivers crub their vehicles' wheels on all grades greater than 3 per cent; and provide for exemptions for developers in planned development districts who would otherwise have to wait to submit development plans at the same time as all other landowners in the district.

FERRY — Viewed slides and heard a report from Golden Gate Bridge District officials on the Larkspur Ferry Terminal. The plans were unchanged from those discussed by the bridge district in recent months. Councilmen were told that the five bids submitted for the project will again be reviewed by district directors tomorrow at 10 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

SLIDE — Agreed to purchase rubber pipe, estimated to cost $30,000, to replace storm drain pipe broken in a slide on private property last winter below Via La Paz in Greenbrae. Councilmen also agreed to summon area landowners before the council to discuss measures they are taking to correct the slide.

APPLICATIONS — Agreed that applications for a vacancy on the city's board of design should be submitted by Sept. 13.

EMPLOYEE — Were told that former maintenance man Robert Friele, who was fired last month, has protested his dismissal and will receive a hearing before the council Sept. 4.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

New Student Tour At Casa Grande

An orientation program for new students will take place at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Casa Grande High School in Petaluma.

Students will meet in the multi-use room for discussions with administrators and student leaders, according to a spokesman, and then will be given a tour of the campus led by cheerleaders.

Nader Wants To Meet With Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, never welcomed at the White House during either the Nixon or Johnson administrations, wants an appointment to see President Ford.

"Ford should initiate a new era where it is not considered a breech of protocol ot meet with citizens," Nader told UPI.

Nader said he hopes to meet with Ford sometime "during the next three weeks" in an effort to open "communications beteen the White House and consumer and environmentalists groups."

Pool Will Undergo Repairs Next Month

The Terra Linda Recreation Center pool will be closed Sept. 10 through 12 for maintenance and repairs, the San Rafael parks and recreation department announced today.

Pool hours through Oct. 27 are from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. weekends, the department said.

Events Planned On Suffrage Day

The status and future of women and the women's movement will be discussed at a Women's Suffrage Day Celebration beginning at noon Saturday at the College of Marin student union.

The event will include an art show, entertainment and refreshments.

Among topics to be considered will be women in politics, education and engineering and lifestyles of women.

Del Goetz, owner of Dowd's Moving and Storage Co. in Mill Valley, will speak on the women's movement, present and future.

"It's a chance for us to learn what other women are thinking and feeling," said Gina Brewer of the Marin chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus.

The event, which will run until about 4 p.m., is sponsored by the caucus, the National Organization of Women, Women's Way and the Women's News Journal.

Still In Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — There are about 6,500 Americans still in Vietnam. Most of the work for, or are paid by, the U.S. government.

Weekend Session Set By Council

The San Rafael City Council will meet at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn for a conference on goals and objectives of the city's redevelopment program.

Joining the council at the session will be city staff, redevelopment consultants, planning commissioners and the municipal citizens advisory committee on redevelopment.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

HOLD YOUR CAMERA STEADY

Did you ever wonder why you didn't get the picture you saw in the view-finder of your eye-level camera? . . . If you did not, perhaps it's because you were not looking squarely through the finder, so the camera lens did not see the same area as you did.

Most people hold the camera too far out from their face or on their nose. It should be held on the cheek bone, so close that you can feel your eyelashes touch the camera body at the camera "peep hole". If you use this method you will be able to see the front side of the view-finder frame completely. Try this when you take your next snap shots and also do this . . . Hold the camera steady . . . pivot your body to frame the picture you want . . . do not swing the camera on your face to fit the scene. Press the shutter slowly like squeezing the trigger on a gun. For those who wear glasses, remove them, let your eyes settle a moment or so and you will be able to see first rate through the finder. If you cannot see well enough without your glasses, you may leave them on. If you turn the camera bottom side up, placing the camera on your forehead squarely. Don't try this last method with your movie camera, however, it would be disasterous.

For further help on this, please drop into our photo shop. And while you are in our shop, why not get your flash checked andlet us polish your lens . . . it will help you get brighter and sharper pictures.

Pension Reform Bill Is Sent To President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed and sent to the President today a pension reform bill designed to prevent abuses which have cheated thousands of workers out of their expected retirement incomes.

The bill establishes new standards for private pension plans covering more than 30 million workers, and provides for a new government insurance agency to pay pensions up to $750 a month if a company defaults on its obligations.

The new Pension Benefit Guarantee Corp. would be financed through premium payments from employers. Employers additionally would be liable for up to 30 per cent of their assets if they terminated a pension plan without sufficient funds to pay all pension obligations.

Companies also would be required to put enough money into their pension funds to meet all obligations, and new rules with stiff criminal penalties would be established to prevent fraud or conflict of interest in the management of pension funds.

The bill would assure a worker that once he becomes vested in a pension — that is, when he has worked long enough to be guaranteed pension payments at retirement age, based on years of service — he will receive a pension even if he is fired, quits before retirement age or his company moves out of town or goes out of business.

Minimum vesting standards are established so that once an employee has worked five to 10 years — depending on which standard his company uses — he is guaranteed at least a partial pension payment at retirement age. After 15 years of enrollment in a pension plan, a worker would be guaranteed a full pension, based on his salary or years of service at the time he leaves the company.

Ford Signs Housing Funds Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today signed a $11.2 billion housing and community development bill designed to give local governments more control over how federal aid money is spent.

It was the 17th bill Ford signed since he became President less than two weeks ago.

The three-year bill consolidates eight federal programs, including Model Cities and urban renewal, into one block grant. It will reduce the parade of city and county officials who now must come to Washington seeking specific grants for every program from laying a sewer to rebuilding the central city.

So long as the programs meet general federal goals, such as elimination of slums and housing for the poor, the local officials now will receive one lump sum of money to be used as they and their voters wish.

Mill Valley Adds 5 Cents To Tax Rate

Deciding at the last minute to add a nickel to the city's tax rate to help finance a new public safety building, the Mill Valley City Council last night adopted a 1974-75 tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation.

Mayor Robert E. Burton said the nickel will add about $31,000 to the city's revenue. Bids on the East Mill Valley public safety building have come in about $300,000 over estimates and Burton said the city reserves will finance the rest.

"It seems evident at this point that the choice we will make is to go ahead with the public safety building," Burton said.

The tax rate is lower than the $2.883 levied last year but most property owners will still see an increase in their tax bills because the city's valuation has risen by 15.33 per cent.

The tax rate will finance a $3.25 million budget previously approved by the council.

Burton said it was his idea to add the nickel to the tax rate and he received unanimous support from other councilmen present. Councilman Ivan S. Poutiatine was absent.

Of the $2.75 rate, $2.403 will go toward general operating expenses and $34.7 cents will be used for bonds.

Burton said councilmen also unanimously decided to renew the city's sewer service charge for another year. It costs the owner of a single-family home $3.40 per month.

He said the charge is needed to finance continued sewer repair to correct infiltration of water into the system.

Burton said about 80 persons attended the meeting and many spoke against continuing the service charge.

"Bascially they were saying 'We can't afford it,' but nobody had any reasonable alternatives," Burton said.

He claimed that the only purpose of the meeting was to inform local officials of the hospital's current bed shortage, aggravated two months ago by the closing of Petaluma General Hospital.

"We explained basic facts — the purpose of the hospital district, its boundaries, its history and the problems we're facing today," Groverman said.

Groverman would not explain why the board thought it necessary to keep a meeting for that purpose a secret from the public.

Those present at the session, which was not announced to the public, included Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam and councilmen Fred V. Mattei and Robert E. Daly; Petaluma planning director Frank B. Gray; Sonoma supervisor Philip L. Joerger and county planner George Kovach; Cotati councilman Allen C. Stansbury and a member of the Rohnert Park city staff.

By FRANK FARRARA

The body of Rodger P. Davies, the U.S. Ambassador killed in Cyprus, was returned yesterday to his native state without pomp.

A blue and white Air Force jet carrying his body landed at Hamilton Air Force Base shortly before 3 p.m. after a five-hour flight from Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

In contrast to the earlier ceremonies in Maryland, the Hamilton arrival was a sad family reunion, as private as could be under the circumstances.

As the plane taxied to a halt in front of the base tower and the "Welcome to Hamilton Air Force Base" sign, the whine of the engines shattered the quiet.

Family and friends emerged from waiting limousines, while a cluster of onlookers watched from the shade beneath the tower and the press remained a short distance away.

Six air force officers, acting as pallbearers, marched to the plane and carried the flag-draped, wooden casket to a waiting hearse, flanked by a wreath of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The Davies children, Anna Davies, 20, and John Davies, 15, then stepped from the plane accompanied by Rev. John Rivers, a Washington priest and friend of their father.

They walked into a cluster of relatives and friends and the embraces of many.

In the gathering were Davies' mother, Kitty Davies of Placerville, and his mother-in-law, Meg Burgess of Berkeley, mother of Davies' late wife, Sally Burgess Davies.

Standing at the rim of the circle offering condolences when the opportunity arose was Dr. A. K. Simonidis, consul for Cyprus in San Francisco.

The chrysanthemums and another wreath taken from the plane were placed in the hearse, and the family reunion continued while the baggage was unloaded.

Reminders of happier days, a tennis racquet and guitar, were among the baggage, and wooden boxes containing 500 pounds of Davies' personal belongings were stacked on the concrete apron.

At the request of the family there was no interview and no ceremony "because of the strain," according to an Air Force spokesman.

Retired Ambassador Harrison Symmes, Leamon R. Hunt, deputy assistant secretary of state, acting as escort officer and Ambassador Davies' brother, John Arthur Davies, were among the 15 passengers, family and friends, who arrived on the plane.

Couple Pays $24,000 For Classy Dog

SYDNEY (UPI) — A couple has paid $24,000 for a dog, and said when it arrived yesterday it is worth every penny.

The canine aristocrat is the first of its breed to be imported into Australia in 44 years.

Ingo was bought by the Colics a year ago in Germany, spent 12 months in quarantine in England and now must spend a further three months quarantine in Sydney under Australian regulations before it moves in with its new owners in their home in suburban Mona Vale.

The Colics, breeders of German Shepherds, said the price did not bother them.

"When we saw Ingo he was everything we had been looking for and we did not quibble at the price," said Marga Colic yesterday after the dog arrived on a jetliner from London.

Turks Are Freeing Greek Civilians

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Turkey said today its troops on Cyprus have begun freeing Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners and Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said he will meet shortly with Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash in a possible first move toward a peace settlement.

Clerides said he hoped to meet Denktash within 36 hours. However, the Cyprus government later announced Clerides will fly to Athens Friday for urgent talks with the Greek government. This made it unlikely Clerides and Denktash could meet before Saturday.

"It would be better for the meeting to be held after Mr. Clerides returns from Athens," a Turkish Cypriot spokesman said.

United Nations representatives on the island have been trying to arrange a meeting between Clerides and Denktash, boyhood friends, for the past two days.

Water rationing was introduced in Nicosia during the day. The pumps furnishing most of the capital's water are behind Turkish lines and the Turks have barred Greek Cypriot technicians who fled during recent fighting to return to maintain them.

A U.N. spokesman in the east coast port of Famagusta, captured by the Turkish army a week ago, said livestock abandoned by fleeing Greek Cypriots were drinking water from the sea.

Swedish U.N. troops continued to man eight observation posts in Famagusta despite a Turkish request that they leave.

A U.N. spokesman said the Turkish soldiers in Famagusta were holding up food supplies to the 550-man Swedish peacekeeping contingent. Blue-bereted Swedish soldiers trundled food supplies on handcarts to their posts in the old walled city because Turkish soldiers refused to allow their vehicles into the area.

Turkish military authorities announced in Ankara that Turkish troops have turned over about 40 Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners to the United Nations peacekeeping force.

The announcement said the prisoners were brought to the Ledra Palace Hotel on the so-called Green Line dividing the Greek and Turkish Cypriot sectors of Nicosia. It said more prisoners might be returned later today and Friday.

Freeing of Cyprus war prisoners began nearly two weeks ago but stopped, with only a score or so released, after the Turkish offensive opened up Aug. 14.

In New York, the Turkish mission to the United Nations announced that Turkish roving Ambassador Nuri Eren has brought messages from his government for President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Its contents were not disclosed.

Clerides told newsmen the first meeting would be restricted to humanitarian problems but expressed hope that it would serve as the foundation for more extensive talks leading to peace.

"It is the beginning of something which can develop into a big step," said the leader of the island's majority Greek Cypriots.

Denktash had threatened earlier to declare the northern third of Cyprus an independent Turkish Cypriot republic unless Greece agrees to resume talks with Turkey for setting up self-governing enclaves on the island.

Greek Cypriot guerrillas opened a sabotage campaign behind the backs of the powerful Turkish invasion army on the island yesterday, blowing up a strategic water tower in the port city of Famagusta.

Wife Can Sue If Sexual Damage Done To Husband

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A wife can sue for damages if her husband's injuries deprive her of "conjugal fellowship and sexual relations," according to the California Supreme Court.

The high court yesterday thus brought California into line with several other states which allow such lawsuits.

Previously, a California spouse could sue for loss of "society and comfort" only if the mate had been killed, as in fatal car or plane crashes.

The judges by a 6-1 decision overturned two earlier Supreme Court rulings when they held that Mary Rodriguez, 23, could sue Bethlehem Steel Corp. for deprivation of her husband's intimate company.

Rodriguez' wife joined his $2 million personal injury suit against Bethlehem Steel — still pending—on the grounds that she can no longer have sexual relations with him.

The lower courts ruled against her separate $500,000 complaint, which was split off from her husband's part of the suit. The courts had based their rulings on 1958 and 1960 state Supreme Court decisions prohibiting such actions.

In the high court's decision yesterday, Justice Stanley Mosk noted that "because he (Rodriguez) has lost all capacity for sexual intercourse, that aspect of married life is wholly denied to her."

"For the same reason," Mosk wrote, "she is forever denied the opportunity to have children by him—she is, for all practical purposes, sterilized."

PREPARATIONS — The six-acre site of the Marin County Fairgrounds at the Civic Center seems almost a deserted village as last minute preparations are made for the fair, which opens next Thursday. Little paddle boats will be available, on the right are canopied commercial display stalls and in the background is a new building housing food concessionaires, who will peddle a wide variety of snacks and ethnic foods.

Best Marin Fair Ever Predicted

As bright canvas was tacked into place, adding even more color to the setting marked by a bright blue lagoon, deep green grass and multicolored petunias, everything seemed almost ready yesterday for Marin County's annual fair.

The fair, being held again this year on the six-acre grounds at the Marin Civic Center, will be bigger and better than ever, fair organizers promise. It will open next Thursday and run through Sept. 2, Labor Day.

Entertainment for all types of tastes will be featured — all of it free — and will include mimes Shields and Yarnell, a Sufi Choir, an old-fashioned fiddle contest, ballet, rock bands, marching bands and even a hypnotist.

New this year, according to fair Manager Marcelle B. McCoy, will be children's activities, including a "hay pitch" on the Civic Center Lagoon island.

Also new this year is the "Flower Pavilion," which will house horticultural exhibits ranging from prize begonia blossoms to lovingly grown kohlrabi.

Nearby, 48 artisans will demonstrate their crafts and sell their wares, including batiked eggs, leaded glass, appliqued kites, mobiles as well as ceramics, macrame, etchings, leatherwork, toys, candles and weaving.

Winning art entries will be on display as will photography, and the fourth annual fair film competition finalists will be shown continuously in the auditorium.

Another new feature this year will be the fireworks display over the lagoon on Aug. 31, following a performance of the variety show, "Youth-of-America-on-Stage," in the auditorium.

For the fair's younger enthusiasts, the biggest attraction this year well may be the new ride, "Sky Wheel," which Mrs. McCoy described as a "double Ferris wheel."

Other carnival rides and a petting zoo also will be featured.

For plant lovers, there will be an exhibit of some 200 bonzai plants in the auditorium, and outdoor garden displays by commercial nurserymen.

Throughout the fair's four-day run, foods of various ethnic backgrounds will be sold at a new food concession building and can be munched as one wanders about or enjoyed leisurely at outdoor tables while listening to entertainment.

Such American fare as hot-dogs, hamburgers and Sno-cones will be available as well as tacos, teriyaki, streudel, pastrami and sangria. The New Age Sufi School will offer such tempting-sounding dishes as ambrosia salad in melon.

On the lagoon, there will be boats for rent and canoe safety demonstrations, and if the weather permits, a hang-glider expert periodically will glide and soar from a nearby hill.

Hours of the fair each of the four days will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $1.75 for adults, $1 for young people 12 to 18 years, and no admission for children under 12.

A complete calendar of events and times will be run next Wednesday in the Independent-Journal.

Marin Artists Receive Grants

Artists Robert S. Fried of Fairfax and Richard Shaw of Stinson Beach have been awarded $3,000 fellowship grants by the National Endowment for the Arts.

They are among 21 Bay Area artists and 226 artists nationwide to receive grants totaling $920,000 this year from the foundation.

Cleanup Of Dumping Ground Is Promised

A spreading dump in a scenic meadow near Fairfax will be cleared of debris "as soon as possible," a representative of a corporation owning the land said today.

Jim Finch, a representative of Continental Mortgage Investors which owns the dumping area and 99 surrounding acres just north of White Hill School, pledged prompt action to remove the debris and prevent further dumping.

"I didn't know anything about it," Finch said when told tons of refuse surreptitiously discarded by Marin County residents is transforming the valley canyon into a festering dump. "Obviously, we'll have to post the area and remove the debris as soon as possible."

Finch also said representatives of the Boston-based, multimillion-dollar financial corporation will look into local ordinances to determine legal liability in the matter.

He hinted that the company may elect to prosecute those responsible for dumping in the area. The canyon is laced with heaps of yard trimmings, rusting appliances, construction rubble and bags of household garbage, including envelopes bearing the names of residents from Mill Valley, San Rafael and San Anselmo.

HIGH BLOOMING CACTUS PLANT

Henry Cerutti eyes the blooms on his 20-foot-tall cactus plant, realizing that if he wanted to pick the blooms, it would take a step-ladder. This is the third year that the cactus has bloomed at his home at 202 C Street, San Rafael. Cerutti got the plant in 1933 when someone threw it away. He planted it and the cactus started growing tall and lush. It has bloomed only during the past three years. The while blooms come out in the morning and are wilted by the heat of the day. The plant has 45 to 50 blooms, only a few opening each day.

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Bowing to pleas from a contingent of American Indians that their ancestors' graves not be desecrated, the Sausalito City Council last night abandoned plans to excavate an Indian burial ground in the city.

Councilman Robin Sweeny received unanimous support from her colleagues to "most respectfully retreat from our previous position and leave the earth undisturbed."

The action followed emotional presentations by James D. King of Napa, who as Chief Big Bear represents the nearly 70,000-member Crow Band of Indians; Faye Dell Hendricks, the American Indian representative to the Marin County Human Rights Commission; John Finch, director of the American Indian Workshop in San Francisco, and Edward Castillo, a Cahuilla Indian from Southern California.

Also in the audience were about 12 other Indians, including county housing authority commissioner Leatrice Mikkelsen.

Castillo explained for councilman the spiritual importance of maintaining what he described as the "sacred cycle," a basic Indian belief that man must return his body to the earth after death in repayment for the things he has taken from the earth during life.

"It is immoral to desecrate the graves of our people, even for scientific purposes," he said. "There is enough material available already to keep researchers busy for the next 300 years."

"We don't go out and dig up white people so we can study their bones," added Finch, who carried a peace pipe and whose long hair was bound by a headband and adorned with a feather. "Our spiritual ways are strong and we demand a hearing for our spiritual grievances. We respect your ways, I ask that my ways be respected."

Admitting that the city's handling of the matter may have been carried out in "a clumsy manner," Mayor Evert H. Heynneman said he did not believe that any members of the council acted out of disrespect.

An empty lot at Caledonia and Pine streets had been the object of controversy since mid-June when two off-duty firemen dug up two Miwok Indian skeletons and other artifacts.

Over the protests of several archeologists, including the director of archeological research at San Francisco State University who asked that the burial ground be preserved, councilmen on July 16 voted to pay a university graduate student $2,500 to carry out a scientific dig at the site.

At that time, a majority of the council said it wanted the excavation to avoid delaying plans by the owners of the property to pave the area for a parking lot and to avoid the continuing risk that the lot might be vandalized by artifact hunters.

Last night, Mrs. Sweeny pointed out the probability that there is Indian lore buried from the bayshore up into the Sausalito hills. She promised that in the event of any future discoveries of burial sites, local American Indians would be consulted before any action is taken by the city.

The Sausalito City Council also:

NOISE — Scheduled a meeting for 4 p.m. tomorrow between city officials and representatives from Zack's restaurant to discuss complaints from Belvedere residents that they are being disturbed by amplified music from the waterfront nightspot.

SCHOONMAKER — Continued consideration of an appeal by Zeke Grader and Linda Bonnett of planning commission acceptance of the environmental impact report for the proposed Schoonmaker development. After hearing arguments that theimpact statement does not include enough information on 17 points, including noise, air pollution and traffic, councilmen set next Tuesday to hear rebuttals by developers.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers.

45 Lifeguards, Facing Firing Over Long Locks

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Parks and Recreation Department plans to fire 45 lifeguards and other employees at a beach and state park in Orange County for wearing their hair too long, according to a state employees group.

The California State Employees Association yesterday said the department has notified about 30 lifeguards and 15 maintenance men at Huntington State Beach and nearby Bolsa Chica State Park that they would be dismissed immediately if they did not comply with the agency's hair length standards.

But CSEA also said its employee representative, Dennis Hardaker, yesterday convinced department officials to reconsider the standards' validity and delay the firings until Monday when their final decisions on the standards will be made.

Boat Crash Kills Two Young Women

KINGSBURG (UPI) — Two young women were killed yesterday when two speedboats towing water skiers crashed headon at a bend in the Kings River.

Miss Hack was driving one speedboat. Miss Kelly was her passenger. Neither of the skiers was hurt. But two other occupants of the boats suffered minor injuries.

David's Surprise In White House Is Still Unfound

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower, son-in-law of former President Nixon, told White House butlers before the Nixon's left the White House that he had left them a surprise gift if they can find it — two tickets to the first Washington Redskins football game this season.

Eisenhower also said he left a message behind which he hid and expects someone to discover in time.

So far neither the tickets nor the message have been found.

When his grandfather, Dwight D. Eisenhower, moved out of the White House, David then a young boy hid several notes behind pictures on the White House walls.

In McArthur style they read. "I shall return."

Airman Who Asked Nixon Court Martial Is Suing

DENVER (UPI) — Retired Air Force Sergeant Grant A. Schulke, sent to a military psychiatric ward after urging President Nixon be courtmartialed, is suing Nixon and the military.

Schulke first called for Nixon's court-martial on Aug. 7, 1973. He said Nixon had abused his power as military commander-in-chief.

He retired in February after 23 years with the Air Force.

Schulke, 45, was ordered to undergo psychiatric treatment at the Fitzsimons Army Medical Center after he wrote a letter to Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, asking for advice on how to court martial the president.

CAUGHT IN A MASSIVE WEB

When 13-year-old Stephanie Rennie of Costa Mesa arrived home this week from a vacation, she had a surprise in her backyard — a homemade spider web. The web was spun for her by two friends and it took them four hours and $11 worth of yarn for the new twist on the old papering the yard trick.

Annexation Would Mean Higher Taxes

Homeowners of the Country Club and Knocknaboul Way areas face somewhat higher property taxes if they vote to annex to the City of SVAN Rafael, the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission found last night.

Commissioners voted 5-to-0 to approve impartial analyses of both annexation proposals that are on the Nov. 5 election ballot. The reports were prepared by commission staff.

The 280-acre Country Club area is on the ballot as a result of court rulings, after owners of more than half the area's assessed valuation blocked an annexation try earlier this year.

Pro-annexation residents seek city fire and police protection from San Rafael. Annexation will mean a net tax rate increase of about 52 cents per $100 assessed valuation, for Country Club homes; the report says.

Knocknaboul Way residents can expect a net tax rate hike of 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, the staff found.

Much of the tax hike for Country Club residents will result from required upgrading of water mains and fire hydrants, which will require a local assessment district levying 31.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation for 30 years. This would be in addition to the city's general tax rate of 92 cents, for a total rate of $1.235. The annexed residents no longer would pay the county structural fire tax rate of 47 cents nor the library tax rate of 24.5 cents, according to the report.

Actual tax bill increase next year for an $80,000 Country Club home would be about $104, the staff estimated.

Residents of the unincorporated Knocknaboul Island, which was surrounded by city annexation last year, would have a net tax rate increase of only 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. They would no longer pay the county fire and library taxes, and would have a city base tax rate of 88 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

This would mean a tax bill hike of about $20.63 on a $50,000 home next year, the staff said.

The Marin Local Agency Formation Commission also:

TERRA LINDA — Postponed to Oct. 16 action of the proposed annexation of 2.2 acres of the 33-acre Freitas property to the Las Gallinas Sanitary District. It is inside San Rafael city limits. City officials and the developer are disagreeing over subdivision plans.

Auto Association Asks Law Repeal

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California State Automobile Association has announced support of legislation to repeal the law requiring installation of smog devices on 1966-70 autos.

Neal Garrison, vice president of the association, said the devices increase gasoline consumption and have potential adverse effects on auto engines.

Garrison said the association supports Senate Bill 2471 that passed the Senate last week and is now before the Assembly. The bill would require installation of smog device on 1966-70 autos only when ownerships are transferred and would apply only to residents of Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco.

Guerrillas Fire On Police Station

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas firing antitank guns and submachine guns attacked a suburban police station today but were driven off, police reported.

One policeman was seriously wounded and one wounded guerrillas was carried away by his companions when they fled, a police source said.

'Florida Fox' Finally Gives Up

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — John William Clouser, "The Florida Fox" who eluded police for 10 years and once was on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list, kept his promise yesterday and surrendered to authorities on charges ranging from kidnaping to intent to murder.

Accompanied by his New York attorney James Siff, Clouser presented himself at 1:40 p.m. to two agents of the Florida Department of Criminal Law Enforcement (EDCLE) in front of the agency's building.

While Clouser chewed nervously on a wad of gum, one of the officers told the stocky fugitive: "Mr. Clouser, we have three capiases writs (warrents) for your arrest."

"I'm not guilty to all charges," Clouser replied.

He was then ushered into the FDCLE building for photographing and fingerprinting.

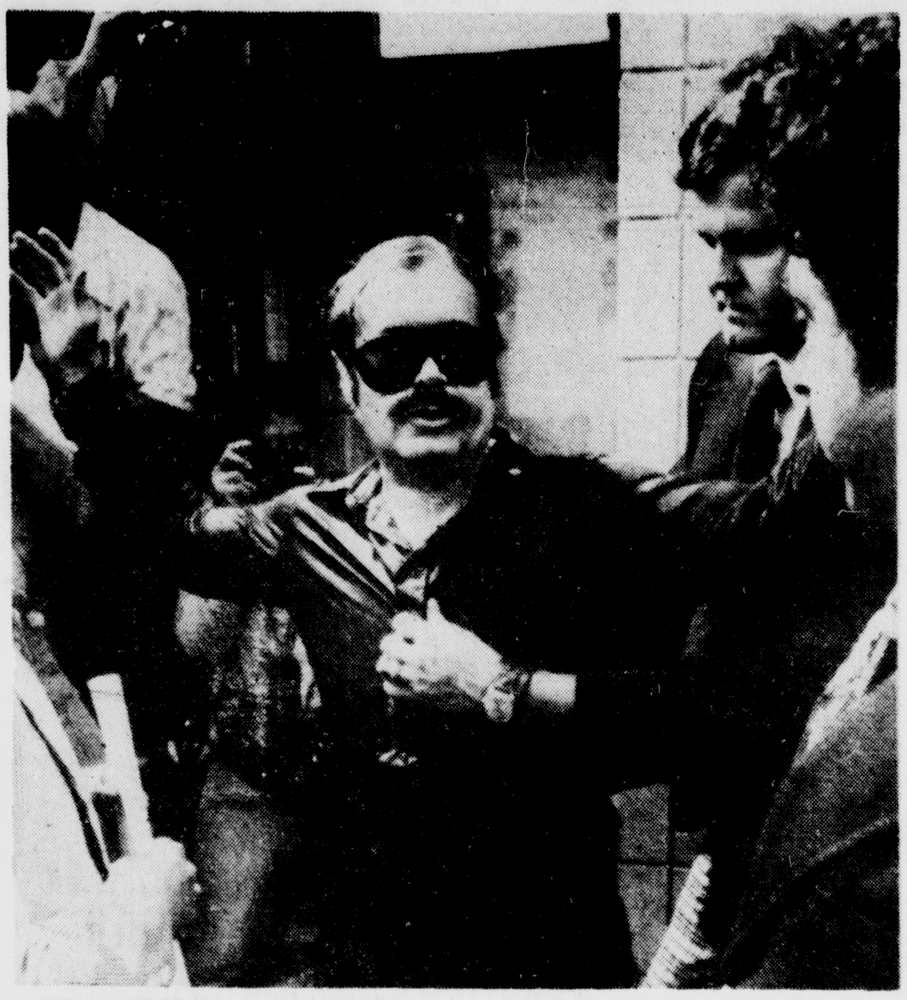
Warrants outstanding against Clouser charge him with conspiracy, robbery, kidnaping and aggravated assault, breaking and entering to commit a felony, grand larceny, conspiracy, robbery, assault with intent to commit murder, and escape.

One of his stipulations for surrendering was that he be permitted to hold a news conference. Authorities said he could conduct the conference later.

Siff advised Florida officials earlier in the day that Clouser would surrender between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Clouser, a blond, had reddish colored hair and moustache at the time of his surrender. He was dressed in a wine-colored silk shirt and slacks.

The 42-year-old Clouser, variously described as a "ladies man" a "mama's boy," and as "deadly" as the late John Dillinger, has stayed one jump ahead of the law since he escaped from the state mental hospital at Chattahoochee in 1964.



FOX AT BAY — John William Clouser, who dubbed himself the "Florida Fox" surrendered to police in Tallahassee, Fla., yesterday, after eluding capture for 10 years. Clouser, whose list of alleged crimes includes kidnaping, attempted murder, grand larceny among others was on the FBI Ten Most Wanted list longer than anyone, eight years.

(UPI Telephoto)

Clouser, who gave himself the name of "The Florida Fox" was a police detective in Orlando for five years before he was forced to resign because of alleged underworld connections.

He had said previously he was afraid to surrender in Orange County for fear his former fellow officers would shoot him on sight.

Boone said Clouser would be taken to Chattahoochee to be held pending his transfer to Orlando for prosecution.

Clouser escaped from the Chattahoochee hospital, where he was sent after a judge reversed an earlier verdict and ordered a new trial for him on charges of kidnaping, robgery and assault.

Ford Praises Congress For Compromise

Ford stopped first at the Senate, where he spoke about five minutes, then left to walk through familiar Capitol corridors to the House of Representatives, his working place for a quarter of a century.

In making a visit to Congress a short time after his inauguration as President, Ford was maintaining a tradition of recent presidents. All have come calling in the first days of their administrations.

Ford said Congress in the first 12 days of his term had demonstrated its willingness to compromise with him and work with him.

He said Congress had gone "more than half way" in passing a bill to create a Cost of Living Council to monitor increases in wages and prices.

Escorted into the chamber by about 20 senators, Ford was warmly applauded several times.

"I wanted to stop by today . . . to officially inaugurate Pennsylvania Avenue as a two-way street." The avenue runs between the White House and the Capitol.

Strife A Cure For Speechless Man

He was numbed by a bomb explosion in World War I but spoke up suddenly when his relatives wanted to divide property at his expense.

Ford Signs Major Education Bill Containing New Curbs On Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford yesterday signed a $25.4 billion education bill containing new curbs on school busing and safeguards on the privacy of pupil records.

Ford, signing the measure in a ceremony at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said it represented a new spirit of cooperation and compromise between Congress and the White House which he hopes will prevail during his administration

But he said that while the busing provision is "an ordered and reasoned approach" to the problem, ". . . I regret that it lacks an effective provision for automatically reevaluating existing court busing orders."

The bill extends basic federal aid to education programs for another four years. In addition to the busing curbs, it has language to protect pupil records from misuse by law enforcement officials, credit bureaus or other outside parties.

The law provides that a student may not be bused beyond the next nearest school district unless a court determines otherwise. "In general," Ford said on that score, "I am opposed to the forced busing of school children because it does not led to better education and it infringes upon traditional freedoms in America."

But of the absence of language dealing with existing court orders, he said:

"This omission means that a different standard will be applied to those districts which are already being held to carry out extensive busing plans and those districts which will now work out desegration plans under the more rational standards set forth in this bill.

"Double standards are unfair, and this one is no exception.

"I believe that all school districts, North and South, East and West, should be able to adopt reasonable plans and just plans for desegration which will not result in children being bused from their neighborhoods."

Regarding the main thrust of the bill, Ford told an audience of congressmen and other officials:

"As the first major legislation to become law during my administration, this bill symbolizes one of my greatest hopes for the future — the hope that a new spirit of cooperation and compromise will prevail between the legislative and executive branches.

"Enactment of this bill was possible only because the two branches settled their policy differences in that spirit. If it continues, I am confident that we can make equally effective progress on other pressing issues."

SORRY SLAYER — Rudolph Acosta, 24, who said he's sorry he shot a 12-year-old newspaper delivery girl Sunday in an apparent case of mistaken identity, was led from a preliminary hearing by police after surrendering yesterday in Detroit. (UPI Telephoto)

Slayer Of Girl Says He's Sorry

DETROIT (UPI) — Rudolph Acosta says he's sorry and afraid — sorry a 12-year-old girl died in a hail of bullets intended for a hired assassin and afraid outraged citizens may try to lynch him.

Acosta, 24, surrendered to authorities in Detroit yesterday on a murder charge demanded by angry citizens of nearby Highland Park, where the shooting occurred.

Edith Perchman was shot 15 times when she stepped onto the porch of the Acosta home Sunday in the pre-dawn darkness to deliver a newspaper. Her father was seriously injured in an auto crash as he raced his wounded daughter away from the scene.

Acosta told police he had been informed a man — roughly the same stature as the girl — had been hired to kill him. Police said Acosta was reputed to be involved in narcotics dealings and was told a "hit man" had been sent to kill him in a narcotics dispute.

"I don't know how to say how sorry I am for what has happened," Acosta told Wayne County Circuit Court Judge David L. Gonden, who set bail at $100,000 and sent him to jail.

After the killing, authorities arrested Acosta, charged him with manslaughter and released him on $2,500 bond.

But police yielded to citizens' complaints, filed a second-degree murder charge and went looking for Acosta but couldn't find him. They got word through an attorney that he would give himself up.

Anticipating the surrender at the court building in Highland Park, about 30 officers in bullet-proof vests and a crowd of angry citizens waited there yesterday, but Acosta didn't show. Instead he walked into the Detroit court building a few miles away, saying he feared a "lynch mob."

After he was arraigned and taken to jail, Acosta's pregnant wife stood outside the courtroom shaking her head.

Actor Named To Arts Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Movie actor Brock Peters of Los Angeles was appointed to a three-year term on the California Arts Commission yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Also reappointed to the board for three-year terms were Mrs. Martha Mosher of Portola Valley, Mrs. Jean Smith of San Marino, Thomas C. Howe of San Francisco and Mrs. Nancy Ebsen, wife of actor Buddy Ebsen, of Agoura. The reappointees are Republicans.

Peters, a Democrat, is a black actor, singer, producer and writer. He succeeds director Mervyn Leroy of Beverly Hills, who requested he not be reappointed.

Three fine cars

Isn't the possibility of saving up to $1000* worth checking out all of them?

All three of these luxurious and comfortable cars are pretty much the same size, inside and out. The major difference is in what you get for the money.

Take the 4-cylinder Volvo 144, for instance. It comes with reclining bucket seats, carpeting, electric rear window defogger, tinted glass, whitewall radial tires, an electric clock and a fold-down center armrest in the back seat.

So does the Mark II by Toyota. But the Mark II also has a 6-cylinder engine. Plus power steering as standard equipment, beginning with last January's production. Yet the Mark II is priced around $600* less than the Volvo 144.

Now take the Audi 100 LS 4-door Sedan. If you added the price of the things that come standard on the Toyota Mark II but not the Audi, then the Audi would probably be priced around $1000* more than the Toyota Mark II.

So, if you're looking for luxury and comfort in a small car, doesn't it make sense to check out all three?

TOYOTA

*Based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail prices. POE prices do not include destination charges, state and local taxes, optional equipment or special equipment required by state laws. Toyota Mark II 4-door POE price – $4264. Audi 100 LS 4-door West Coast POE price – $5210. Optional equipment, suggested retail prices: Power steering $175, tinted glass $85. Volvo 144 4-door Sedan West Coast POE price – $4940 (standard fuel injection and power disc brakes on all 4-wheels, double factory undercoating . . . not available on Mark II).

Taxpayers Group Sets Sights High

Representatives of 24 Marin County homeowner groups last night refined plans for a new taxpayer organization that aims to boast 1,000 members by year's end.

The group will be incorporated as the Property Taxpayers of Marin, according to county Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere. He is temporary co-chairman of the fledgling tax watchdog group, along with Rex Silvernale.

The new group has two goals, according to Roumiguiere: To hold the line on local government spending and to reduce the percentage of public agency budgets funded by property taxes.

"Marin County property owners shelled out $87.5 million in property taxes to support city, county, school and local district governments during 1973-74," Roumiguiere said.

Property taxes soar, he said, "because those lobbying for the tax dollar are more efficient . . . have more political clout" than individual property owners.

At the group's next meeting Sept. 11 in the Marin County Civic Center, an 18-member steering committee will be selected to guide formation of the association. Presidents or delegates from all Marin homeowner associations will be asked to attend, Roumiguiere said. He added that he doesn't plan to serve as an officer of the association after it is organized.

Tentative dues are $12 a year for individuals, $5 for homeowner associations and $25 to $500 a year for business firms, he said.

Trio Is Arrested For Bad Check Use

Three well-dressed Southern California men, suspected of indulging in bad check cashing in the Bay Area, were arrested yesterday by Sausalito police.

They were identified as Wilburt Brown Bowie Jr., 22, and Stanley Burt, who also uses the name of Azim Stan Sakinah, 46, both of Los Angeles, and John Coleman, 44, of Culver City.

Police said the three wrote checks totaling $327 for clothing at Gene Hiller's shop on Bridgeway. Officers said the men showed driver's licenses with altered serial numbers for identification.

A check with several Southern California banks showed the accounts they were using were either nonexistent or had not money in them. Police also said the men had with them a number of blank checks and were suspected of paying a bill at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in San Francisco with a bad check.

The three were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of conspiracy, writing checks with intent to defraud and falsifying identification. They were held in lieu of bail ranging from $8,000 to $10,000 each and were to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Brown Ups His Lead According To Recent Poll

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll reported today Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edmund G. Brown Jr. has increased his lead among the voters over Republican rival Houston Flournoy since the June primary.

The poll said the Democrats, despite a bitterly contested primary, have unified behind Brown who now leads Flournoy by 14 percentage points.

The survey was taken between Aug. 2 and 11 among 1,024 voters, 619 of them in Southern California and 405 in the northern part of the state.

The poll said Brown holds a 50 per cent preference to Flournoy's 36 per cent. This compared to 47 per cent for Brown and 39 per cent for his Republican rival in a survey taken more than two months ago.

Prisoner Group Needs Volunteers

The Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice needs volunteers to help with various activities ranging from newspaper clipping and answering letters to making medical and legal inquiries for prisoners, according to Alva d'Orgeix, committee spokesman.

The committee's headquarters are at room 37, 1029 Fourth Street, San Rafael. Office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

FEMINIST VISITOR

French Women Move Forward

By KAREN PETERSON

In June, close to 10,000 French women staged a three-day strike calling for complete abstinence from sex. They were trying to prove that women, if they choose, have the power to bring normal life to a standstill, according to one of the strike's organizers, Claudine Serre.

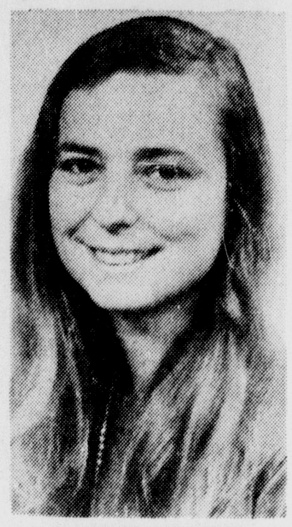
The results may or may not have proved the point, but the strike did show that French women are no longer spectators but active participants in the feminist movement, said Miss Serre, daughter of one of France's few women college presidents.

The light-haired doctoral student, speaking fluent English despite a virus picked up in the States, is here touring women's health centers. On her last day in San Rafael (she was off to Detroit on Wednesday), 24-year-old Miss Serre offered a brief chronology of the French movement.

THE MOVEMENT is focused specifically on the anti-abortion laws and the treatment of unwed mothers, she explained.

In four years, the French feminists have seen the numbers of their supporters grow, a slackening of laws against abortion and unwed mothers, and a clue that more reforms are in the making.

Claudine believes the successes can be partially attributed to the fact that the movement is located in Paris, the fountainhead of government in a country where people have "a long tradition of political backgrounds," she said.



CLAUDINE SERRE
European issues are changing

This political nature is one important difference Miss Serre sees between the movement here and in France. She believes working in the American movement would not be "as stimulating." Issues raised in France become national issues, and you see the effects on women almost immediately, she said.

MISS SERRE praised the American women's health clinics. She also noted that in France, the pro-abortion campaigns of Pat Maginnis of San Rafael (with whom she was staying) are very well-known.

In the recent French elections the "whole presidential campaign was on the abortion issue," she said, with women almost unanimously stating they would not vote for any president who opposed it.

Although the new president, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, is a conservative, he recently announced that all women, regardless of age, could receive free contraceptives, she said. He called the abortion laws "very unjust" and said they will soon be changed. That's an "extremely big victory, especially in a Catholic country," she said.

THE FEMINIST movement came into full swing in France in 1971 with the signing by 343 women of the famous Manifesto, she said. The Manifesto, in which such women as Simone de Beauvoir and actress Catherine Denueve acknowledged that they had had abortions, was "a very important act," said Miss Serre, "Women started talking about taboo subjects . . . before, they never used the word abortion or unwed mother."

The following year came the occupation of a home for unwed mothers in a Paris suburb, in protest against conditions there. Within three days, laws were passed to prevent expulsion of pregnant teenagers from school and their assignment to such homes. This was "the first real social action of the movement," said Miss Serre.

In May of that year the movement (which has no real central leadership) sponsored the Days of Denunciation of the Crimes Committed Against Women. That, too, she said, "was a very big success." The women that thronged to the hall gathered in a "spirit of intimacy" to give testimonies of their "own daily lives and personal experiences."

Making Jewelry Hard Work But Great Creative Thrill

By BETH ASHLEY

Do you know someone who's never without a striking piece of jewelry, be it a free-form pendant or a ring with a far-out setting?

Chances are, that person is one of hundreds in Marin who have revived the art of lost-wax jewelry-making and are now turning out jewelry for fun, profit and get-away-from-it-all therapy.

For those who make jewelry for the sheer creative thrill, the hobby can be expensive, and the process of turning out one piece tremendously time-consuming.

BUT AMONG those who have persisted, years after the first tentative signup at a College of Marin jewelry class, are five women who work weekly in a homemade studio in Corte Madera.

They are Elaine Brockbank, Barbara Flynn, Tori Hafer, Carmen Kline and Nancy Wise. They work with dental tools and magnifying goggles, pots of plaster and blazing oven, an oxygen-acetylene torch and (on casting day) a certain amount of ritual prayer.

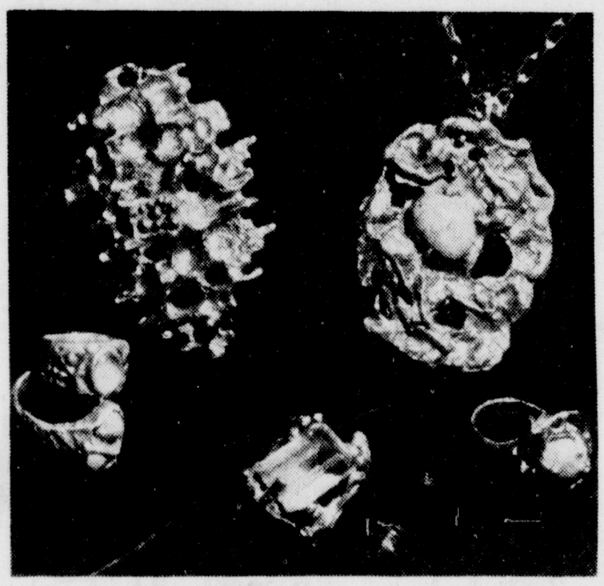
They explained the process this way:

An exact model of the piece is created in wax. The artisans use dental wax, available in blocks, and "wires" of all shapes and sizes. By filing, sawing, heating and carving the wax, usually with dental tools, extremely intricate modeling is possible. Mrs. Brockbank, modeling "a simple ring," said she will work on it at least three hours.



THE FINISHED PRODUCT — Some of the many pieces of jewelry produced in the studio are (in left foreground) rings by Carmen Kline containing moonstone and turquoise; rings by Tori Hafer containing (center foreground) a large smoky quartz and (left) a baroque pearl; in background are a pin by Elaine Brockbank, and a pendant by Nancy Wise containing a turquoise. Pin is of 14 carat gold, the rest silver.

WHEN THE MODEL is completed, "sprues" of wax are attached to it which will, further on in the process, provide channels through which the hot metal will travel into the mold.

But first, the mold.

A liquid mix of plaster of paris and silica is prepared. The wax model is mounted inside a cylindrical flask, and the liquid mix poured around it. This is called "investing." After the mix has settled sufficiently around the wax model — the flask is placed on a vibrator, which shakes bubbles out of the mix and insures that the mix has flowed into each crevice of the model — the flask is placed in an oven brought up to 1300 degrees.

DEPENDING ON the size of the model, the flask stays in the oven anywhere from two to six hours. During this time, the mold hardens, and the wax melts and runs out.

Immediately the hot mold is removed from the oven and placed on the centrifugal casting machine. The metal, gold or silver, is melted with an oxygen-acetylene torch, and poured into an open channel in the mold, through the now vacant sprues, into the hollows once occupied by the wax model.

By MOLLY MARIN

Jan Popovich of Larkspur is on the retired list today — after being honored at a "Freedom Party" Saturday at the home of her daughter Mrs. James Kaslan in Oakland. The party marked the beginning of freedom from 40 years of employment in a mind-boggling variety of jobs.

Most recently Mrs. Popovich was an assistant and secretary to Dr. Stephen A. Duff Sr., San Rafael chiropractor.

But her working career began in San Francisco, as assistant personnel director of the White House Department Store. From there she went to work for the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau under Mayor Angelo Rossi. During World War II she worked as a secretary in the Office of Emergency Management. She also served as associate editor of two trade magazines for the Furniture Mart.

She worked in Shanghai in the mid 1930s as secretary to the U.S. commercial attache and then as buyer for the Chinese American Publishing Co. She worked for a travel bureau in Mexico City for one year and as supervisor of credit and admissions at Wahiawa General Hospital in Hawaii for three years.

She started and supervised the first medical records department for the former San Rafael General Hospital in 1952.

It sounds as though she had earned retirement. One hundred and 50 well-wishers attended her "freedom party".

Mrs. Popovich is married to Stephen Popovich, Larkspur postmaster.

Mrs. Popovich was the hostess with Mrs. Vicki Zarubin of Daly City at a patio luncheon baby shower recently for Petra (Mrs. Peter) Gampper of San Rafael. Attending the shower in Mrs. Popovich's Larkspur home were Yvonne Duff, Betty Gardner, Bevery Irish, Pauline Demil, Janet Brand, Betty Casson, Alicia Austin, Carolyn Brocco and Nina Granger.

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK KIRRANE of Belvedere Lagoon drove their motor home to Stockton last weekend, Aug. 17 and 18 to meet Mr. and Mrs. David Motts of Stockton and cruise the San Joaquin River.

Kirrane, who is in a wheelchair, has driven his self-contained camper 21,000 miles in the past year and a half.

The couple made an eight-week camper trip this summer to Expo '74, Glacier National Park, a relative's wheat ranch in Walla Walla, Wash. and on to Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Calgary and Edmonton and down through the Rockies.

"The balloon rally on my neice's wheat ranch was like an air show," said Mrs. Kirrane who arrived in time for the field day for sky divers, hang gliders and four hot air balloons. Her husband took a 10-mile ride aloft in a balloon.

Her relations are "as crazy about balloons as we are about boats," she said.

Drexel Heritage Furnishings

TO ALL DREXEL HERITAGE DEALERS

During the past few months Drexel Heritage Furnishings has continued to absorb steadily increasing costs in raw materials, labor and total cost of doing business. After very careful consideration of our relative competitive position in the market place and a complete study of all of our group prices, we are forced to announce a general price increase on both the Drexel and Heritage lines. The price increase will become effective Monday, September 16, 1974. Please note that the price increase will not become effective until after the July-August sale period.

The price increase announcement is being made at this early point so each dealer can make plans for the July-August period with the knowledge that there will be an early fall price increase. The essential factors are as follows:

1. Drexel and Heritage wood and Drexel and Heritage upholstery will be increased by 10%. For your convenience a list of the merchandise to be increased September 16, 1974 is attached.
2. Prices prevailing at time of shipment will be in effect on stock orders. Clearly marked sold orders will be shipped and invoiced at our acknowledged prices.
3. New price lists will be mailed in early-August. This will make it possible to remark your floor samples well in advance of the effective date.

Unfortunately we continue to find ourselves in a period of intense inflation thus making this action necessary. We felt, however, that as much advance notice as possible was desirable in order that you might have a maximum amount of time to plan your future selling activities.

Sincerely yours,
C. Nathan Slack

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

She Loves A Rock Musician Who Turned Out To Be A Bum

RAP:

I met a guy with a rock group. He seemed different. He even came home to meet my folks and we talked about marriage.

He'd call me long distance when he was out on tour, reverse the charges, promising to pay my father back when he got his checks. Also, he asked Dad to cash several personal checks for him. They bounced!

Now he doesn't call anymore and I hear he's out west trying to get into TV work. He owes us about $100 in phone bills plus $200 in bad checks and I still love him. I'm crazy, I guess.

If he calls again, what should I do? — FOOL IN LOVE

FOOL:

If it's reverse charges — don't accept 'em! — SUE

DEAR FOOL:

. . .And if he's paying (for a change), get his address so that your Dad may have a small chance to recoup his losses. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I was married at 16, my husband was 19. It's been four years and we're still living with his folks. We share our bedroom with his 14-year-old sister. And we have a baby, two years old. Her crib is in our room, too. I feel so out of place. And I'm also out of love!

I've told my husband a hundred times that if we can't have a home of our own (at least an apartment), I'm leaving, but he thinks I'm playing games wtih him.

He's got a good job, but I don't know where his money goes — not on me and the baby, that's for sure!

How can I make him believe I mean it when I say I'm going to file for a divorce if, at age 23, he can't pull away from his parents' house? — Y.M.

DEAR Y:

If you've "told your husband a hundred times" and still haven't left, it's no wonder he thinks you're playing games with him.

Our suggestions: Find an apartment, take him to see it, tell him that if you three aren't moved in by the first of the month, your lawyer will file for separate maintenance.

And don't back down! — HELEN AND SUE

The Franzinis Receive A Special 50th Anniversary Papal Blessing

"Happy days" is how Pauline Franzini describes the 50 years she and her husband Steve have been married. Last Saturday the two natives of the Italian Alps celebrated their years together at a special Mass and later at a reception attended by 75 family and friends.

Pauline Pini had known her husband's family in their native Grosio, Italy, before she married him in 1924. Their wedding at the Justice of the Peace office in Truckee came four years after the two had moved to California separately with their families.

At that time, Mr. Franzini was a carpenter in Reno, Nev. After their marriage he worked as a lumberjack in Hobarts Mill in the Mother Lode country.

Three years after their marriage, they moved to Marin County and repeated their vows in St. Anselm's Catholic Church in San Anselmo. Their 50th wedding anniversary was first celebrated by a renewing the vows at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Included in the ceremony was a special blessing from the Pope, an honor bestowed only on the 25th and 50th wedding anniversaries.

Living first in west San Rafael, the Franzinis moved to their present home on Clark Street in 1933. Today they spend much of their time tending a large flower and vegetable garden surrounding the while house.

Mr. Franzini, who will turn 81 next month, worked for a cement contractor when he and his wife first moved to Marin. He later worked for a lumber company and then for the Marin Municipal Water Company.

He has been retired for 15 years.

He served in the Italian Army during World War I and was honored in 1970 with the Gold Medal and Blue Cross for his service. Mr. Franzini was a sargeant, said his wife, and at one time during the war, spent 14 months in the hospital recuperating from a wound.

Mrs. Franzini worked in the home of Louise A. Boyd for 23 years; "a great person," she said. She was also a part-time caterer working at "beautiful parties," she said, with Emma Hanson, a Swedish cook.

She was also a corsetter for 25 years, traveling as far as Petaluma, Marshall and Point Reyes to fill orders for a Charis corset.

Both the Franzinis are members of the Natives of Italy Lodge in San Rafael and Mrs. Franzini is active in many church groups.

For their anniversary, her husband gave Mrs. Franzini a double-banded ring, which she hopes to wear "for the next 50 years."

A reception followed the Mass at the San Rafael Improvement Club. Among the special guests were the couple's children, Leno, Ernest and Henry Franzini and their wives, and 10 grandchildren, all from the Santa Venetia area.

Fright Of First School Day Can Be Eased By Gradual Introduction

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The first day of school can be a frightening experience for a young child, says a nationally-known child psychologist who adds that parents can do a lot to help their children adjust to new surroundings.

"Prepare your young children by taking them to school for a few hours before the first day," advises Dr. David Elkind, professor of psychology at the University of Rochester.

"Give them a chance to meet the teacher and to explore the classroom. Talk about going to school and explain what's going to happen so that your children get used to the idea."

HOW CHILDREN react to the first day of school depends on their individual backgrounds, according to Elkind, who has written two books on adolescent psychology. "If a youngster has been to nursery school or has had considerable experience with strangers, the separation will probably not be very traumatic," he explains. "Should the child begin to cry as the parent leaves the school, it's best to let the teacher handle the situation, as most teachers are trained to deal with such problems. The best thing for the parent to do is decide to leave — and then do it."

FORTUNATELY, Elkind notes, most children in the United States receive their first exposure to school in kindergarten, which he describes as "a buffer, or transition, between home and school" He adds, "There is not clear-cut data on when a child is ready for school," and favors a "try-it-you-might-like-it" approach.

If the child is old enough for admission to school, he says, "it's worth trying for a few weeks. The child who relates well to others and has a general use of social skills is probably ready; the one who clings to the parent and plays with toys more appropriate for a younger age level probably needs to be introduced more gradually, perhaps spending a little less time there initially."

FOR THESE youngsters, Elkind suggests that some preparatory experience, such as day care, nursery school, or even being left with a baby sitter, may help children to take separation from mother in stride.

Fathers play an important role in motivating children, Elkind notes. He says, "In the case of boys, in particular, it's helpful if the father can take the child to school or visit the classroom occasionally." The psychologist also believes that "the more fathers read to their children, the better."

Once the first day is past, parents may feel that the worst is over. "Not so," says Elkind.

"In fact, years later, the transition to junior high school can be almost as big a change as the first day of school."

THE FIRST CAREFUL STEPS — Making the wax model of a ring (left) Elaine Brockbank uses a modified dental tool to shape the wax. She heats the tool, scrapes wax (which she has stuck onto the side of the heating bottle) and adds it to her model. The wax model (right) is then placed in a flask held by Carmen Kline while Tori Hafer pours plaster of Paris mix around it. The flask is then placed in oven to make a mold.

It is during this last process that the prayers seem advisable. If the sprues were misplaced, if the correct amount of metal was not melted, if the mold has been allowed to cool — the piece of jewelry will be imperfect, if not ruined.

A FAILURE at this point means the artisan must begin all over.

If the piece passes muster, it must now be polished. When it emerges from the mold it is lusterless: considering the cost of the metals that went into it, it looks like a disaster.

After polishing, gems or semiprecious stones are added — either by delicate bending of the prongs which have been cast, or by gluing.

Finding the stones can be a fulltime pursuit in itself, says Mrs. Brockbank. "You find yourself dashing into rock shops, or eyeing old pieces of jewelry and thinking 'that could use a new setting.' "

Actual cost of the jewelry-making — in addition to purchase of equipment — depends on one's ability to scrounge, said Mrs. Hafer. Usually, gold is purchased in small blocks or pellets from a government-controlled supply house. "Once, when a tiny package was delivered to us with a $200 insurance tag on it, the delivery man said jokingly, 'it must be gold.' We laughed."

SILVER IS obtainable from any jewelry supply house, but these women are still making use of a silver "bonanza" — trimmings they obtained cheaply from a saddle shop.

"A friend of mine, whose uncle had died, asked if I could make use of his dental bridge because it was mostly gold," said Mrs. Wise. "I think she was a little startled when I said "certainly can!' Now it's a ring."

Half of any gold used must be new, or previously unworked, Mrs. Hafer said.

OF COURSE it's time-consuming. "But it's wonderful therapy. Every other problem drops away for the hours you're working on a ring," said Mrs. Brockbank.

Of course it's worth it. "Nothing can compare with the joy," said Mrs. Wise, "of seeing a piece of jewelry in a shop that's price-tagged at $125, and thinking 'I can make that myself.' So you do."

She laughed. "For about $150."

and her mother in September of 1972 was one of the most important issues taken up by the movement. Marie-Claire, 17, and her mother were arrested after the girl had had an abortion. A "very popular French lawyer," Gisele Halimi, defended the two women, said Claudine, using as her defense, the testimonies of Nobel-Prize winning scientists who admitted to performing abortions and the testimony of well-known personalities who had had abortions, including Marie-Clair's lawyer.

"It was a beautiful trial (and) Simone gave the most beautiful speech," said Miss Serre. Both women were found innocent.

Simone de Beauvoir has been an important voice in the movement, especially through her magazine, "Les Temps Modernes." Miss Serre, who is currently writing for the magazine, joined with others last year to prepare a special 400-page edition on women and French society. The issue came out this past May, was sold out in three days, and in two months of reprints distributed more than 37,000 copies.

For the future, Miss Serre envisions a worldwide organization of feminists; a filtering of their ideas and activities through a Womensland Bulletin which she hopes to organize on the European front.

Already, French feminists are joining with the movements of the Portuguese, Spanish and Greek women. "European issues are changing very fast," she concluded.

Jorie To Spotlight Three Special Fairs

"My Fair County" is the theme of next week's Jorie Talks, KTIM program featured at 8:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. Host Jorie Parr will interview participants in the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, the Marin County fair and the Sausalito Art Festival.

On Monday, craftsman Wayne Levie of San Rafael will discuss the pewter goblets he creates to be sold at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, which opens this weekend near Black Point. Actress Judy Kory of Novato, a Pleasure Faire regular, on Tuesday will contrast the status of women in Elizabethan times with those of today.

Gary Koehler of San Rafael, who will demonstrate hang gliding at the county fair, will paint clown faces on children at the county fair which will open Thursday, will be interviewed.

Peggy Hopkins, PG&E's home economists, has been giving a lift to the Easter Seals Summer Day camps for handicapped children this month, cooking meals every Thursday and lecturing to campers on Indian eating habits.

The youngsters, who have been studying Indians as part of their camp experience, have been treated to such yummies as steamed clams and corn on the cob, prepared as the Indians once did.

The four-week camps conclude this week. They have been held at St. Isabella's School in Terra Linda, and have been open to neurologically, physically and mentally handicapped Marin children.

Caramels Toffee Top Cavity Potentials

Kids eat snacks. It's a fact of life. The September Family Circle reports on the research of Dr. Patrick O. Barrett on the cavity-producing activity of several snack time goodies. Listed as top contenders for cavity potential are caramels, toffee, fudge and other sticy candy with high sugar content. "At the low end of the scale," asserts Family Circle, "are carbonated beverages that stay in the mouth only briefly.

Peanuts and potato chips are lesser offenders, as are graham crackers and other, similar snacks with less sugar and less stickiness." Chocolate lovers should note that the cavity-producing rate of dark chocolate is listed as higher than that of milk chocolate.

Suits Are Big

"It's been a long time since there's been such a big season for the suit, reports Women's Wear Daily from Paris. Fall suits will range from the man-tailored approach of Yves St. Laurent and Marc Boahn at Dior to the more feminine, longer skirted version by Pierre Cardin.

Bulgarian Men Help Their Wives

Ladies, get thee to Bulgaria. That's where husbands are most cooperative, according to the August Family Circle magazine.

Summarizing a study conducted at London University on domestic behavior patterns in 12 countries, the magazine reports that Englishmen devote an average of two hours and 42 minutes to helping their wives. American men don't give all that much more with their total at only three hours and two minutes. The Fench tallied three hours, 19 minutes and Western Germans, three hours, 21 minutes.

In the indisputable lead, are the Bulgarians, giving up nearly five hours of time on days off for helping with the housework.

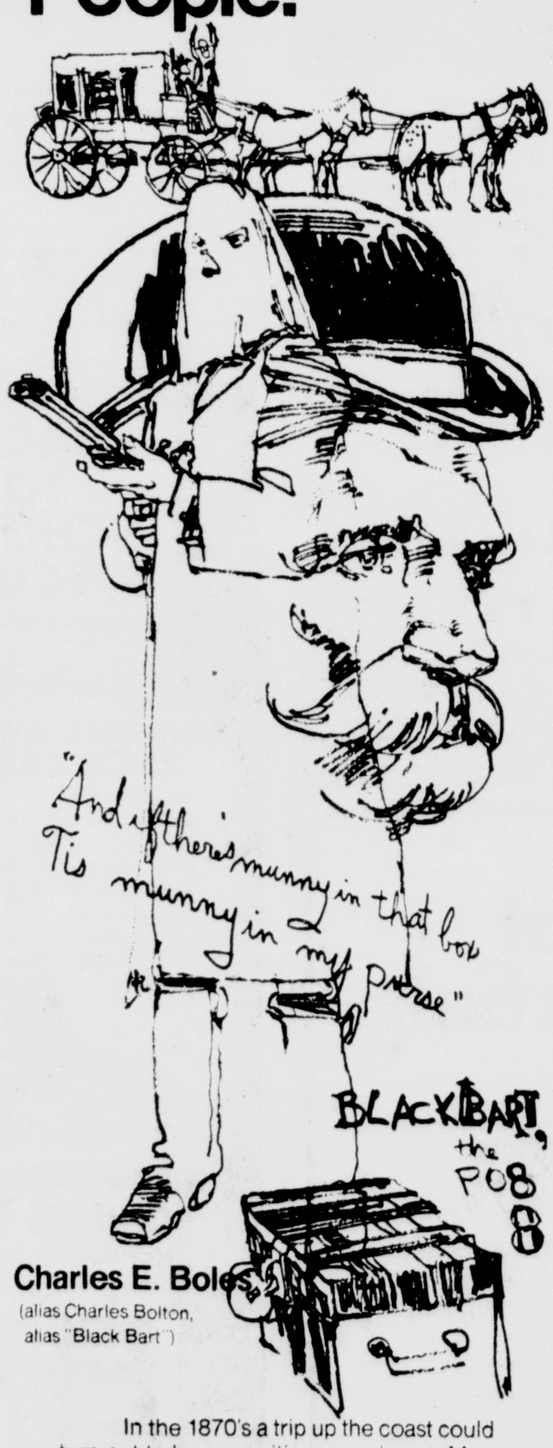
Sea Ranch People:



In the 1870's a trip up the coast could turn out to be an exciting experience. More than one traveler traded his money for an original poem by the infamous "Black Bart."

Today that kind of excitement has died down, but there's still plenty of poetry along The Sea Ranch coast. And if your taste runs to Robinson Jeffers rather than Black Bart it could be you're a Sea Ranch person too.

We now have many properties available, including forest and ocean view sites outside the permit zone, and new ocean view homes with several floor plans. Come join us—and meet some Sea Ranch people this weekend!

ART REVIEW

New Interests, New Talents AVT College Of Marin Exhibit

By ADA GARFINKEL

The College of Marin art faculty has grown increasingly within the past few years and now numbers 41 on its various campuses. Their opening fall art exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery in Kentfield reflects new interests and new talents.

Among the newcomers to the faculty is Robert Ellison whose 3000-pound welded steel sculpture "Bi," placed at the entrance to the Fine Arts Gallery, contrasts mightily with his miniature stoneware sculptures within the gallery.

Continuing his topical themes are Tron Bykle's "Sagittarian Osmosis," a large, free-hanging painting relating to astrological and ecological matters, and "Crazy Quilt," a mixed-media drawing. The latter pictures a topsy-turvey map of the United States overlaid with a penciled microphone and chord, and completely surrounded by minutely drawn ink coils around its contours.

"The Day Orville Flew" and "The Day Orville Didn't Fly" are the titles of Barrie McDowell's crisp acrylic paintings on unprimed, glazed canvas. His oblong shapes in primary and earth colors are massed to suggest the whirring motion of a propeller which works, and one which has malfunctioned.

There is a delicate atmospheric sensitivity, for example, in Alton Raible's time-sequence series of oil paintings which with less competent treatment could have deteriorated to postcard kitsch.

In David Grosten's softly-colored photos, the swelling overflow of water on land lends a strange beauty to the scene. And the dark landscape contours on Thano Johnson's glazed stoneware plates form a continuous mountain range.

"Copernicus At His Desk," a life-like, wood sculpture tableau by Alonso Gonzalez, and Richard Miller's small, soapstone sculpture which is monolithic in concept and brings to mind the colossal sculptures of Egyptian deities, contrast greatly with Ron Cooper's colorful pop-art, ceramic sculptures relating to aspects of the space age.

Other interesting works include Gilbert Wheat's acrylic paintings simulating leaded strips of stained glass, one in a circular format and another as an oval; Inez Storer's "Present" which incorporates tin, lace, seam binding, and black paint as a centered square on an ivory-painted canvas, and Agathe Bennich's erotic figure paintings.

Also included are prints by Ida Geary, Robert Moon, and Richard Wold; paintings by Bart Jones, Kendall King, Bruce Lauritzen, Martin Stoelzel, Tony Williams, and Betty Wilson; drawing by Eric Stoelting and weaving by Ida Grae and Carole Beadle; stained glass by David Arnold; jewelry by Glen Miller, and black-and-white photography by Thomas Johnson and Timo Pajunen.

This show will continue through Sept. 13, and may be seen weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Abrams May Have Developed A Clot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors suspect Army Chief of Staff Creighton W. Abrams may have developed a blood clot in his remaining lung, a hospital report said today.

They said his condition today at Walter Reed Medical Center was "serious but stable."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture & TV Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazine and Parents' Magazine, unless otherwise stated. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Herbie Rides Again" — Helen Hayes, an eccentric grandmother sees her old Volkswagon come to her aid. Walt Disney sequel to the "Love Bug." Lots of fund and wonderful special effects.

"The Optimists" — Peter Sellers gives a fine protrayal of a wise old vaudevillian in this touching family movie that includes a dog and two children. Might be depressing for the very young.

"Pippe in the South Seas" — German children's film with amusing plot but poor script and acting. Inferior English dubbing. Girls 5 to 20 may enjoy it.

"That's Entertainment" — Juicy compilation of excerpts from the best old MGM musicals gives a lift to the spirit and a true insight into what entertainment is. A bit sophisticated for children under 10.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Brother Sun, Sister Moon" — A picturesque and dramatic portrayal of St. Francis of Assisi and the founding of the Franciscan order in 1200 A.D.

"Play it Again Sam" — A one-joke comedy about a movie buff. Most of the comedy stems from Woody Allen's constant self-depreciation. Amusing take-offs on old movies. Mature teens.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining. Some sex and violence.

"Sometimes a Great Notion" — An exciting adventure story for those 13 and older. Magnificent scenery in this story of logging operations in the timber wilderness of Oregon.

"The Tamarind Seed" — Julie Andrews and Omar Sharif star in an engrossing but over-long mixture of romance and espionage.

"T.R. Baskin" — Candice Bergen as an unhappy girl whose cynical wit doesn't disguise her dread of ultimate disappointment. Some nudity. (Not for youth under 15)

"Uptown Saturday Night" — Delightful ghetto comedy with a distinguished cast, headed by Harry Belafonte, Bill Cosby, Flip Wilson and Sydney Poitier. Strong visual humor. Some coarse language.

BORDER LINE

"California Split" — A series of comic episodes showing two men who get their kicks from gambling. Foul language. (Over 17)

ADULTS ONLY

"Blazing Saddles" — A wildly inventive assault on every cliche in the Western movie business. A ribald, knowingly sly, bawdy comedy. Offensive language. Definitely not for children or adolescents.

"Buster & Billie" — A sordid story of a 1948 high school boy and girl. Should have been a love story but turns into a savage human drama, showing gang rape, violence, murder and nudity. (Box Office)

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Death Wish" — Western good guys and bad guys theme. Vigilantes, violence and gun culture explored. Charles Bronson gives it popular appeal.

"The Exorcist" — A non-sensical, stomach-turning, horror tale of a 12-year-old girl, possessed by the devil. For adults with strong stomachs, weak minds. All others no.

"New Centurians" — Based on the best-seller about the Los Angeles police force. Violence, nudity, crime and cursing.

Extradition Is Possible For Burglar

A Fairfax man sentenced to one year in Marin County Jail yesterday for burglary and possessing brass knuckles may be extradited to Connecticut to face charges there.

Dwight Pink, 24 who received the sentence and three years' probation from Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best, is wanted in his home state on five charges.

These include two counts of possessing drugs for sale, a failure to appear in court, an escape from the Connecticut State Police and a probation violation, according to the probation report.

Pink was sentenced yesterday for burglarizing a San Anselmo house last November and possessing brass knuckles in Larkspur when he was stopped there following a high-speed chase July 6. He pleaded guilty to both counts.

Pink had used at least six aliases in Marin, the probation reports said.

TV News Series For Lindsay Being Discussed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Politician-turned-media-star John V. Lindsay may be doing a series of television specials for ABC News, according to William Sheehan, senior vice president for ABC News.

Sheehan said he and the former New York mayor are negotiating a deal that would have Lindsay discussing contemporary problems in a series of news specials.

The first special, Sheehan said, would be on the city, incorporating Lindsay's experiences in New York with his recent European travels. Sheehan said he expected the details of the negotiations to be finalized shortly.

Lindsay has just returned to New York after an eight-month vacation in Europe where one of the highlights of his tour was a bit part in the forthcoming motion picture, "Rosebud." He played the part of a senator.

Railroad Loss

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's government-controlled railway system registered a record loss of $1.52 billion in the 1973 fiscal year ending March 31, the Ministry of Transportation said Wednesday. It said that Japan National Railways lost money on all but three of the 255 lines it operates.

Mrs. Hearst Is Endorsed As Regent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Catherine Hearst, mother of fugitive Patricia Hearst, was endorsed by the Senate Rules Committee yesterday for a 16-year term on the University of California Board of Regents.

Approval by the full Senate was considered virtually certain.

Mrs. Hearst, of Hillsborough, has served as a regent for 18 years and was nominated for another term by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The committee approved Mrs. Hearst's nomination and sent her name to the full Senate for on a 3-0 vote with little discussion.

She twice said "thank you" to committee members and pointed out the number of years she has served as a regent. Otherwise, she stood silently and smiling after waiting 1 ½ hours in the committee room.

The Rules Committee also approved without controversy two Reagan appointees to the Board of Trustees of the state University and Colleges.

Their names likewise were forwarded to the full Senate on 3-0 votes.

Family Fun Festival Scheduled In Cotati

The festival will include children's games such as cake walks, dances and trampoline-bouncing. Local artists and crafts makers will display and sell their wares and space will be available for family picnicking, according to a spokesman.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, August 22nd, the 234th day of 1974 with 131 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

French composer Claude Debussy was born August 22nd, 1862.

Also on this day in history:

In 1851, the U.S. yacht America beat the British craft Aurora off the coast of England to win the silver trophy known as the America Cup.

In 1911, the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris. It was recovered four months later.

In 1941, Nazi troops advanced to the outskirts of Leningrad, Russia, during World War II. In 1973, U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers resigned and presidential aide Henry Kissinger was named to replace him. Also that day, President Nixon assailed his Watergate critics and pledged to stay in office.

A thought for the day: American writer Bret Harte said: "One big vice in a man is apt to keep out a great many smaller ones."

WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Partner Should Be Given Chance To Show His Strength

A player usually has strength in the suit he has bid but sometimes he has a weak suit with compensating strength on the side. It may be wise to allow for both possibilities.

Opening lead — ♣ 9

West's jump to four spades may seem peculiar but was actually very shrewd. He expected to sacrifice at four spades if the opponents bid four hearts. He was less likely to get doubled if he jumped to four spades at once.

North was sure that four spades could be beaten. The trouble was that he hadn't yet shown his heart support. Hence he took the final, and fatal, push.

West opened his singleton nine of clubs, the most effective defense. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of clubs and led the queen of hearts.

West was tempted to take the ace of hearts and lead a spade. Surely, he thought, his partner had the ace of spades since he had raised spades.

Just in time, it occurred to West that his partner might have the ace of diamonds rather than the ace of spades. Which should he guess at, a spade or a diamond?

Fortunately, there was no need to guess. West simply refused the first trump trick. Declarer continued with another trump and East now had the chance to signal by discarding the ten of diamonds. (He would have thrown a high spade if he had held the ace of spades rather than the ace of diamonds.)

Now East took the ace of trumps and led a diamond. East got in and returned a club, defeating the contract.

Partner opens the bidding with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - J 8 7 5 3
♥ - 6
♦ - A 10 7 5
♣ - 7 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

This jump to game shows strong trump support, usually of five or more cards, a singleton or void suit and not more than nine points in high cards.

CHP Thinks About More Rural Traps

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol is considering stepped-up patrols along rural stretches of freeways to catch more speeders, it was disclosed yesterday.

The CHP said it was studying the results of two-days of intense coverage in late July of a 50-mile length of Interstate 5, near Coalinga in Fresno County.

Using an airplane and 10 cars, the CHP handed out 301 citations in the area usually patrolled by two cars.

The violations included speeding, reckless driving, illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages and drunken driving, the CHP said.

The experiment was "an attempt to determine whether it is worthwhile to sometimes concentrate unusual numbers of traffic officers and equipment in one sparsely populated area," said Deputy Commissioner Dam Lanza.

Sea Treaty Asked By Next Year

CARACAS (UPI) — The United States called on the 148 nations at the third United Nations sea law conference yesterday to make sure a sea treaty will be negotiated at a follow-up session next year.

"If we don't finish in 1975, we are weakening the chances of reaching a generally acceptable agreement," U.S. Ambassador John R. Stevenson said.

Stevenson said the United States would prefer one session of six weeks next year with provisions for another two-week extension if necessary.

Norway, supported by some Middle Eastern and East European delegations, asked for two longer sessions of six to eight weeks.

"Two sessions is completely unacceptable," Kenya's Francis Xavier Njenga said.

For psychological as much as financial reasons, the United States, Britain and others also oppose two long sessions. They feel a shorter conference will place more pressure on nations to reach decisions. A key issue to be decided is how much economic and political control nations are entitled to over coastal seas up to 200 miles off shore.

Most delegates, including those of the United States, seem to agree a new meeting should be held in Vienna, Austria or Geneva, Switzerland, in April or May.

Stevenson said a short, wrap-up and signing session might be held later in Caracas as recognition of the role the Venezuelan government has played in organizing this year's gathering.

TELEVISION REVIEW

New Network For Cable TV

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Next month, a new kind of television network plans to start transmitting sports and special-interest programs to an estimated 85 communities in five mid-American states.

What makes the network totally unlike ABC, NBC or CBS is that it'll serve only cable-tv subscribers, not the general viewing public.

It was created by Target Network Television, a Kansas City, Mo., firm which says it'll feed programs to 70 microwave-linked cable-TV systems in Missouri, Iow, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. TNT, which doesn't own the firms, refers to them as "affiliates."

If all goes well, says Tom Lemmons, general manager of TNT, a subsidiary of KMBA-TV in Kansas City, the company hopes to extend the network into Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

He says his firm will provide its affiliates with its own programming, not that of KMBA, seven days a week. Broadcast hours will be from 9 a.m. to 10:30 or 11 p.m., except on Sundays.

Right now, he added, Sunday programming hours are scheduled to run from 4 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., but may be increased.

They say they instead hope to draw "clearly defined special interest audiences and make them reachable to special interest advertisers."

Lemmons says it'll try to do this with shows on cooking, auto repair, boating and health care, to cite a few examples, in addition to its evening professional and collegiate sports offerings.

He says TNT also will have two news packages — the first a noon report consisting of brief news summaries, live reports from the Chicago and Kansas City boards of trade and farm-oriented weather reports.

In the evening, he said, there'll be updated boards of trade summaries, sports reports and hard news, the last provided by Television News, Inc., a New York-based TV news service created to service local stations.

According to Federal Communications Commission officials and cable-TV industry experts, the TNT interstate operation is only the second of its kind to operate in the United States so far.

The first, the New York-based Home Box Office company, a cable-TV subsidiary of Time-Life, Inc., began its operations in November 1972.

Butz Backtracks On Pet Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the summer's drought, there'll be enough grain on hand through the coming year to feed dogs and cats, says Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

Butz got a flood of irritated letters earlier this month when he said that if critics who wanted Americans to eat less meat in order to save grain were really serious, they could save large amounts of grain by eliminating half of the nation's 32 million dogs, 22 million cats and 8 million horses and mules.

Butz said emphatically at the time he was not personally advocating any mass slaughter of pets. But his mention of the subject was enough to stir up a rash of critical mail and calls.

Plea Entry Set Today In Murders

Barry Austin Brown, 21, and his girlfriend Carol Campbell, 27, were ordered Tuesday to enter pleas today before Superior Court Judge Gerald Ragan.

The pair is charged with the murders of ex-Navy sailor Stephen Russell, 22, and Hillsborough matron Lois Jean McNamara, 53.

Campbell and Brown were indicted last week for the June 26 murder of Richard Pipes, 29, a Santa Cruz grocery clerk. Although Brown received no bail on that charge, Mrs. Campbell's bail was set at $500,000.

The bodies of Russell and Mrs. McNamara were found about one mile apart in a ravine near Half Moon Bay. Authorities said Russell was killed July 17 while Mrs. McNamara was murdered July 12.

Brown's non-bailable, two-count indictment allaged either burglery or robbery was involved in the slayings, making him eligible for the death sentence if found guilty.

The special circumstances were not alleged in Mrs. Campbell's indictment, which also involved two counts of forgery. The judge set the unemployed secretary's bail at $100,000 and ordered both Brown and Campbell to enter pleas today.

NO COMMENT FROM FBI

Daly City Home Called SLA Site

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was taken to a small residential home in Daly City immediately after her kidnaping on Feb. 4, a television newswoman says authorities have learned.

Marilyn Baker, of KQED, a San Francisco educational station, said in a telecast last night that all hardcore members of the Symbionese Liberation lived in the modest frame house from early in the year until early in March.

PATRICIA HEARST
A house found

In March, several of the members moved to an apartment in downtown San Francisco. But William and Emily Harris and William Wolfe remained in the residence at 37 Northridge Drive until the radical group went to Los Angeles in May.

Six members of the SLA were slain in a gun battle with police on May 17. The Harris' and Miss Hearst, who in taped messages renounced her parents and said she had joined her abductors, remain at large.

FBI Special Agent Charles W. Bates was not immediately available for comment. Other agents said any statement concerning the house would have to come from Bates.

Residents at a nearby home said last night that they were visited by an FBI agent three or four weeks ago. "The agent asked about two stewardesses who he said lived at 37 Northridge. "I told him we didn't know anything," said the neighbor.

Mrs. Baker said neighbors reported seeing parked at the home a 1962 white Chevrolet with a luggage rack on top — a description matching that of the car used during Miss Hearst's kidnap on Feb. 4.

"One woman recalled that they always parked the car facing out toward the street," Mrs. Baker said. "They'd never drive it into the garage. They'd always back it in."

Neighbors in the area were reluctant to talk, Mrs. Baker said. But some recalled that the home was rented shortly after the beginning of the year to "several white women," she added.

Mrs. Baker said the home since has been sold. She said the previous owner found that he had rented it to a "fictitious name." The home was filthy after SLA members left but had been cleaned out by the time police arrived to investigate it, Mrs. Baker said.

Children in the neighborhood reported knowing two of the women, she said. Other neighbors said the occupants had no set pattern.

Mrs. Baker gave this account of one unidentified neighbor's encounter with one of the occupants:

"One time I was trimming my lawn and one of them pulled up in a station wagon. I waved in a neighborly fashion and said, 'Hi, what's happening?'

"The woman looked at me and said, 'You wouldn't believe me if I told you.' "

Drug Law Ruled Unconstitutional

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — A county judge has ruled unconstitutional the mandatory life sentence provision of New York State's new drug law, calling it "a statute without mercy" motivated by "vindictiveness, retribution."

"In the opinion of the court, no view of the dangerousness of narcotics to persons or society can justify such disproportionate punishment," said Judge Andrew Celli.

Celli said he would sentence Charles Mosely, who pleaded guilty to a drug sales law, under the state's old law, which carries a maximum 15-year prison sentence.

A SUMMER DAY, A SUMMER GAME

Water Connect Extension Eyed

The Marin Municipal Water District board may extend its Oct. 31 deadline for completion of new construction to qualify for water connections.

The board yesterday discussed a possible Dec. 31 deadline and set next Tuesday for a committee meeting to study the matter. A report and decision will be made at the next regular board meeting Sept. 11, board president Jack R. Felson said.

Factors in the board decision to reconsider the building completion deadline were the two-month carpenters' strike, cities' delays in granting building permits and an increasing number of inquiries about an extension by builders and prospective builders reported by Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh.

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. said the Oct. 31 deadline was unfair to those who were afraid to start construction.

"There is a certain amount of inequity" he said in the board's treatment of builders. "People are now hesitating on home construction because they are not sure it can be done by Oct. 31, while others are being advised to go ahead and start building," he said. MacPhail suggested the board extend its deadline to Dec. 31 rather than "to have to make the hard variance decisions" that would result under the present deadline.

"We have already denied 10 or 12 people's requests for variances on time," Felson pointed out. "We expected to have had a final decision by a court by now," he added.

The district moratorium on new water connections was struck down by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire and is under appeal.

Felson added that there were inequities to be worked out for those the board had turned down.

Marin Municipal Water district board also:

MUIR WOODS — Resolved to initiate proceedings to annex Muir Woods National Monument and a narrow portion of Mount Tamalpais State Park between it and the district boundary. The monument, now under surplus use service, must be shifted into the district or have district water service discontinued, according to water district attorneys. A public hearing was set Oct. 9.

SPILL — Requested a report on cause of the alum spill into Lagunitas Creek near Woodacre which killed steelhead trout and silver salmon. Heard a staff report that deposits were removed from the creek near the San Geronimo water treatment plant and that fish would be replanted when the organism-insect-food count was sufficient.

CONTRACT — Awarded $25,600 contract to Ghilotti Brothers for grading Elinor Avenue tank site in Mill Valley; hired Madrone Associates as environmental consultants at $954 or less.

GAUGE — Approved joint agreement for installation of a stream level gauging station on Lagunitas Creek, splitting $7,500 cost and $2,400 yearly maintenance cost with U.S. Geological Survey and North Marin County Water District. Cost to Marin Municipal for 1975 fiscal year is estimated at $2,975.

POSITION — Authorized promotion of Fred Piglowski, associate engineer, to new position of supervisor of water quality at a yearly salary of $19,740, senior engineer level.

PIPELINE — Approved expenditure of $8,100 for 720 feet of fireline pipe on Ross Avenue, sharing cost with San Anselmo.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 1 p.m. Sept. 11 at the district office.

Bunko Warning Given By Hub City Police

A San Anselmo police spokesman today warned local residents to be wary of so-called "pigeon drop" fraud schemes.

Capt. G. Albert Howenstein Jr. said the fraud involves a team of con artists who offer to split a large amount of cash with a victim in return for "good faith" or "tax" money.

Howenstein's warning comes in the wake of a pigeon drop attempt in San Anselmo last week.

He said two attractive women approached an 87-year-old resident last Wednesday, one saying she had just found $20,000 in an envelope, the other suggesting the three split the money on condition each put up $2,000 to pay for taxes on the find. The 87-year-old told the pair she wanted no part of the money, and the two left empty-handed, Howenstein said.

One woman was described as a very attractive 30-year-old with red hair. The other woman was described as being in her 20s and having straight, black hair.

'Toy' Kills Four School Children

MANILA (UPI) — A hand grenade exploded and killed four school children who mistook it for a toy and tossed it around like a ball, the official Philippine News Agency reported today.

Three other children were seriously injured in the explosion yesterday at a village in Zamboanga del Sur, 500 miles south of Manila, the agency said.

Squaw Valley Work Won't End

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Mainline Properties of America, whose parent firm in Australia went into receivership this week, resumed its multimillion-dollar renovation and expansion program today at the Squaw Valley ski resort.

The firm said the receiver had expressed "an intention to carry on the business until further notice."

A spokesman said the work would continue on a reduced basis until further instructions from the receiver in Australia. Mainline Corp., Ltd., of Sydney placed itself in receivership voluntarily, saying the step was necessary because of Australian inflation.

Homeowners To Fight Tennis Club Permit

Lucas Valley Homeowners Association members will do battle tonight against a permit sought for a swimming and tennis club on Upper Lucas Valley Road.

A special hearing on the plans for the controversial 15-acre parcel will be held at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers in the Marin County Civic Center. County deputy zoning administrator Warren E. Baker will be the hearing officer.

Ron Marinoff, chairman of the Homeowners' zoning and planning committee, is expected to present a long list of objections to the development.

Sought is a permit to build 14 tennis courts — four of them inside a large building — pools, a clubhouse, jogging paths and parking lot for 49 autos.

In a preliminary letter to Baker, Marinoff presented two and one-half pages of arguments against the club, citing noise, loss of privacy, lack of water and sewage and many other factors. The county public works department has also reported that the parking area is inadequate.

To hard boil an ostrich egg takes a big pot and a lot of patience. The egg tastes much like that of a chicken but weighs an average of three pounds. It needs two hours to hard boil, says Grzimek's "Animal Life" encyclopedia.

Workshop On Parenthood Set

How to be a parent will be the topic of a workshop Sept. 14 at Indian Valley Colleges in Novato. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Discussion groups will focus on the single parent, concerns of parents, the challenge of being a parent and the cultural aspects of mothering.

Cost of the workshop is $4. Further information can be obtained from Parenting Workshop, Indian Valley Colleges, Novato.

Petaluma Youth Hurt On Bike

A 7-year-old Petaluma youth suffered a broken arm yesterday afternoon when his bicycle collided with an auto on Weaverly Drive near Park Lane.

Police said Robert D. Stephenson of 1445 Weaverly Drive apparently lost control of his bike and swerved into the path of a car driven by Catherine L. Donnell, 18, of 701 Theresa Court.

The boy was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Insomniacs Get More Sleep Than Most Of Them Realize

According to conservative estimates, 60 million Americans have trouble sleeping. And considering the millions of sleeping pills that are consumed every night, this estimate could be low and the number of insomniacs growing.

Sleeping problems of all types are nearly universal. Some people have difficulty falling asleep; others awaken 10 times during the night. Even those who sleep soundly complain the next day of "not sleeping a wink." And all of us have restless and sleepless nights when we are in pain or physical discomfort.

ACTUALLY, INSONMIACS get more sleep than they realize. True or total insomnia simply does not exist, because no one could live for long without some rest.

Illnesses most likely to cause insomnia are heart trouble, hypertension, arteriocslerosis and overactive thyroid. Hunger pains, low blood sugar and indigestion are other possibilities. But emotional problems are to blame for repeated insomnia.

Certainly, barbiturates are not the answer. Often insomnia is caused by personal problems so insignificant that people do not relate them to their inability to sleep.

MUCH CAN be accomplished if we realize that sleep comes only with full relaxation. If medication is indicated, the physician may prescribe an hypnotic agent, a tranquilizer, or an antidepressant, but these drugs must be taken exactly as recommended.

Addiction is a danger with any sleep-inducing chemical, and even if the drug is effective, it solves the problem only temporarily. Besides, if the sedatives are suddenly stopped, the user may develop a phenomena that causes increased dreaming and nightmares.

HYPERTENSION

A reader writes: Can blood pressure have an adverse effect on the person's eyesight?

REPLY

Yes, via the retinal arteries. High blood pressure encourages arteriosclerosis, and the vessels in the retinal are frequently involved.

COLESLAW, ULCER

Mrs. B. writes: My bleeding ulcer has healed. Is it all right for me to eat coleslaw again?

REPLY

Not if your ulcer has just healed. You can do without roughage. Besides, there is always danger of recurrence.

CASUAL SHOES

R. E. writes: I wear summer shoes without arch supports. Am I going to ruin my feet?

REPLY

Not if your arches are strong and you do not "pound the pavement" all day long.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Some Foster Homes Fees Are Exempted

A controversial new license fee for smaller foster homes and day care centers has been eliminated, it was announced yesterday by Donald Sanford, acting director of Marin County Health and Human Services.

He reported that under a newer law signed in July by Gov. Ronald Reagan, facilities serving six or fewer residents are exempt from the $40 to $55 fees required under legislation enacted last year.

The fee had been intended to reimburse the State Department of Health for its costs in inspecting facilities, but it was strongly opposed by operators of small foster homes.

Escaped Wolf Shot By Police

IVER, England (UPI) — A police marksman shot and killed Walter the Werewolf yesterday to end the beast's 24-hour fling at freedom.

Walter, a Canadian timber wolf, escaped early Tuesday from a cage on the set of a movie "Legend of the the Werewolf" in which he was appearing.

Police, animal society officials and movie property men searched for Walter without success until residents spotted the big gray animal in a garden.

Walter fled before police arrived, but they caught up with him near a highway and Constable Stephen Vincent shot him with a .22-caliber rifle.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Election-Year Salary Hike Proposal Killed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has killed without a vote an election-year bill to increase the salaries of the governor and other top state officials by 20 per cent.

Although several members expressed belief that salaries of high-level state officers were too low, virtually all the reelection-conscious lawmakers agreed "the timing wasn't right" for an increase.

The bill by Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, died in the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee yesterday for lack of a second to a motion to approve it.

"At a time when nationally we are asking people to tighten their belts, we're really not setting a good example as legislators by voting for an increase," Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Northridge, told Carpenter.

The Carpenter bill was the last active measure this session to grant a salary increase for state officials or legislators. Previous bills have been killed or abandoned by their authors.

The bill was opposed by Democratic gubernatorial nominee Edmund Brown Jr. as "highly inappropriate" and supported by his Republican rival, Houston I. Flournoy.

Through a representative, Flournoy, the state controller, urged the committee at the last-minute to eliminate the governor from the proposed salary increases. The commmittee ignored the idea.

Effective next year, the governor's $49,100 salary would increase to $60,000 annually while that of the attorney general would rise from $42,500 to $51,155. The current $35,000 salaries of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction would jump to $42,500.

SPORTSMEN FEES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has reversed itself and approved legislation imposing a $5 million annual license and fee increase on California sportsmen.

The bill (SB1650) by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, cleared the natural resources committee yesterday on an 8-2 vote and went to the ways and means committee. The committee last week rejected the measure but it was brought back yesterday for reconsideration.

Designed to bail out the financially troubled Department of Fish and Game, the bill would increase the basic hunting license fee from $6 to $10. However, the present $2 pheasant stamp would be eliminated.

California's 2.3 million anglers would still pay $4 for a license, but the inland water fishing stamp would be increased to $2 from $1, and the trout stamp fee would go to $3 from $2.

The department is virtually financed by license fees.

'GIVEAWAYS'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill prohibiting oil companies from forcing gas station dealers to participate in "giveaways" of free merchandise was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (AB3104) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, provides that retail gas dealers cannot be influenced to participate in the giveaway schemes, which often are financed, in part, by gas station owners.

BILL DOOMED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has snuffed out chances for enactment this year of landmark farm labor legislation aimed at quieting violence and bloodshed in the agricultural fields.

Death for the Assembly-passed a bill came yesterday on a parliamentary point which denied it a committee hearing. There was no debate. The vote was 16-19.

Supported by Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers, AFL-CIO, the measure would have granted for the first time secret ballot elections for farm workers to select a union.

It would have tacitly condoned secondary farm boycotts and established a new state commission to oversee farm labor relations.

Strongly opposed were California growers and the Teamsters, a union which rivals Chavez for the representation of field hands.

Adjusted Income Tax Proposal Is Defeated

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to adjust personal income tax schedules to take into account inflation has been killed by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The bill, AB 2821 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, would increase tax brackets automatically along with annual increases in the cost of living. The result would be that taxpayers receiving cost-of-living pay hikes would not be bounced into a higher tax bracket.

Without such legislation, inflation threatens eventually to put everyone in the top income tax bracket. Canada already has a similar law.

The proposal was aimed at assuring that taxpayers pay a higher percentage of their income for taxes only when their income increases in excess of inflation.

Another bill carried by Bagley, one to limit the depletion allowance for oil and gas wells, died in the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee. The measure, AB 3030, would limit the allowance to five times the cost of the well. The present allowance of 22 per cent a year means many well owners get tax write-offs equal to 16 or 17 times their cost.

Bill Restricting Exotic Pet Imports Advances

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A controversial bill restricting importation and possession of exotic pets advanced yesterday in the Assembly.

The measure, SB 1766 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, already has cleared the Senate, despite heated opposition from the pet industry. Yesterday's 6-0 approval by the natural resources and conservation committee sent the legislation to the ways and means committee.

The bill prohibits possession of animals such as wallabies, monkeys, ocelots, jaguars, lions and tigers unless a permit is granted by the Fish and Game Commission. Persons seeking permits must show they they will use safeguards to protect the animals and the public.

Birds no longer are included in the measure, but bird fanciers nevertheless bitterly oppose it, apparently fearing they will be put back in it later.

Zoos are exempt from the measure.

How To Beat Inflation And Still Stay In Fashion

Buy only the latest fashions from famous makers at savings of 30 to 50%. And we've got them!

At first that sounds too good to be true, but it's a fact. The Pic-A-Dilly concept of shopping has been proven in the East for years, but it's new in the West. Here's what makes it possible:

We buy OVER-RUNS of current fashion apparel from famous national makers

When a manufacturer starts a production run he bases his estimate of the quantity he needs on two things—one is the number of orders he already has in the house, and the other is the number of orders he expects to receive by the time the production run is completed. Usually there's an over-run, and that's where we come in. We can purchase the extra quantities on the spot, for cash, at prices far below wholesale. The trick is to be in the right place at the right time, day after day.

You cannot buy bargains by long distance or with a few seasonal buying trips. Our buyer is a company vice president who has spent his life in the garment industry. He and his staff are in daily contact with dozens of fashion houses. He knows fashion, he knows values, and he knows who has the quality merchandise to sell. During the course of a year he buys for us from literally hundreds of the most highly respected fashion houses in the country . . . the same houses that supply the leading women's apparel shops and department stores right here.

Occasionally we buy "irregulars", but only from the most prestigious makers. Such irregulars are always clearly marked, usually represent less than 10% of our stock at any one time and, frankly, we challenge you to detect any "irregularity" in either appearance or fit.

All sales are "Cash & Carry"

All sales are cash and carry (we accept checks, of course). The savings in credit costs are passed on to our customers. There are no "sales clerks", as such and therefore no high pressure and no commission. Our staff stocks and assists but you choose what you do or do not buy.

All of our purchases are flown directly to the West Coast and in many instances appear in our stores before the same item is on display at full price in the major stores. If you have an eye for detail and can recognize famous makers' apparel you'll realize that the fashions being offered currently by leading stores are the same ones that are on our racks. The only difference is the price—and that's a lot.

Our stores are self service, simple and clean, but not in the highest rent districts.

Pic-A-Dilly stores are in neighborhood shopping areas with every square foot devoted to rack after rack of attractively displayed women's apparel . . . all of the best quality and all currently in fashion. The emphasis is on casualwear: pants, pant-suits, blouses, coats, sweaters, skirts, etc. . . . all at 30 to 50% savings below regular retail prices. There are no fancy fixtures but the stores are neat, and pleasant with a tremendous selection and a large number of clean, well-lighted dressing rooms.

We remove the labels to protect our sources and reduce the prices 30 to 50% under normal retail!

The many manufacturers who sell "over-runs" to us at reduced costs, sell the same garments to the major stores in this area at full price. Naturally, these manufacturers do not want to jeopardize their relations with their key accounts, so they ask us to remove their labels before we display their garments. So, you'll never find a label in a Pic-A-Dilly fashion, but if you have a sharp eye for detail you'll recognize the work of many of your favorite makers. Every item we offer for sale is current major branded merchandise and not an out-of-fashion reject! Only the labels have been removed.

At Pic-A-Dilly you'll find two prices on our tags. One shows the lowest regular price at which the garment would be sold at leading stores nearby. The other is our price, which you will find is always 30 to 50% lower. Because our success depends on high volume and rapid turn-over we frequently mark down our prices on garments that have been in stock more than a week or two, so be sure to shop Pic-A-Dilly often for new arrivals and for extra savings!

We feature both junior and misses sizes!

DeMont, Backhaus Head Marin Entries In Nationals

CONCORD (UPI) — With opponents from the United States staring them in the face and top competition from East Germany lurking in the background, some 31 swimmers from Marin stood ready today.

The National Amateur Athletic Union long course swimming championships will be held today through Sunday at the Concord Community Pool, with preliminaries at 11 a.m. and finals at 7 p.m. each day.

And if American swimmers do not show their readiness by coming up with a flock of world records, they will be in dire trouble for the dual meet against East Germany next weekend.

The Marin contingent will be led by 25 swimmers from the Marin Aquatic Club, including Rick DeMont, the meet's defending champion in the 400 meter and 1,500 meter freestyles, and Robin Backhaus, last year's winner in the 100 butterfly.

DeMont also is entered in the 200 free, while Backhaus also will appear in the 200 fly and 200 and 400 freestyles.

Other Marin A.C. men are Dick Pattengale, 200 free, 400 free; Rich Abbott, 100 free; Scott Dicker, 100 breast; Ken DeMont, 100 and 200 backstrokes; Spencer Eldred, 100 breast, 200 breast, 200 and 400 individual medleys; Art Morrill, 100 breast, 200 breast, 200 I.M., 400 I.M.; Charley Pearson, 100 fly, and Scott Hislop, 200 I.M.

Also Keith Strange, 100 breast, 200 breast; Terry Sutton, 200 fly; Rick Hofstedter, 100 breast, 200 breast; Mark List, 100 back, 200 back; Randy Sauro, 200 back, 100 fly, 200 I.M., 400 I.M.; Gene Jackson, 200 free; Ross Seymour, 100 and 200 butterflies and 200 I.M.

Marin A.C. will enter teams in the 400 medley relay and 400 free relay and two teams in the 800 free relay.

On the women's side, Marin A.C. enters Cary Backhaus, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free; Maura Campion, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free, 200 I.M.; Jo Hislop, 100 free, 200 free; Sue Kay, 100 free; Lyn Morrill, 100 back, 200 back, 200 I.M.; Tammy Segondo, 100 breast relay; Cyndi Salvisberg, 100 fly, 200 fly; and Julie Waters, 100 back, 200 back.

Relay teams will be entered in the 400 medley, 400 free and 800 free.

Five swimmers from the Novato Aquanauts will compete — Ann Haley, 100 fly, 100 free, 200 free, 200 I.M.; Jane Patocchi, 100 fly, 200 fly; Sue King, 100 fly, 200 fly; Lisa Patocchi, 400 free relay and 800 free relay, and Patty Callaway, 400 medley relay.

"We have a lot of fine women swimmers," says Santa Clara coach George Haines, "but we have a long way to go to catch up with the East Germans. Still, if we show well here this weekend and manage to keep our peak, we may surprise them next week."

Fifteen defending champions are back to see if they can make it two in-a-row. They include Shirley Babshoff (100 and 200 free), Jo Harshbarger (1,500 free), Marcia Morey (100 breast), Lynn Colella (200 breast and 200 butterfly), Deena Deardurff (100 fly), Kathy Heddy (200 individual medley) and Jenny Bartz (400 I.M.) from the women's side.

The men's defending champs are Jim Montgomery (100 and 200 free), John Naber (100 backstroke), John Hencken (100 and 200 breast), Steve Gregg (200 fly), Stan Carper (200 I.M.) and Rick Colella (400 I.M.) Besides Turrall, the world record holders here are Heather Greenwood (400 free), DeMont (400 free) and Hencken (100 breast). Gary Hall has the listed world mark in the 400 I.M. but Andras Hargitary of Hungary broke it earlier this week in the European championships.

Ray Fosse To Rejoin A's Today

OAKLAND (UPI) — Catcher Ray Fosse, sidelined since June with a disc injury in his upper back, returns to the Oakland A's' roster today as they head for Boston to start a nine-game road trip.

Rookie Pitcher Glenn Abbott (4-4) was returned to Tucson of the Pacific Coast League to make room for Fosse, who is expected to be in the lineup in about a week.

A slump-ridden homestand, in which Oakland was 5-7, ended last night as Milwaukee Brewer pitchers Kevin Kobel and Tom Murphy combined for a three-hit, 5-3 victory in the rubber game of the series. Kobel was a last-minute replacement for Jim Colborn, who aggravated a groin injury that had put him on the disabled list earlier this season.

Two of the three Oakland hits were home runs—Reggie Jackson's 24th, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, and Gene Tenace's 21st in the eighth. Tenace has now hit five homers in his last six games and says he is feeling "more relaxed at the plate now than I have all season. I wish I knew why."

The loss cost Oakland a chance to pick up a game on the Kansas City Royals, whom they lead by five in the AL West race. Earlier this month, the A's held a nine-game lead in the division.

Milwaukee has won seven of its last nine games to edge out of the AL East cellar and now heads for a four-game series at home against the Royals.

See A's box score on inside page.

Women Against Wind And Hills

By RON LENT
W.I.N.D.

Win Is the Natural Danger defending champion Tillie Gondak and her five challengers will confront tomorrow at 9 a.m. in the seventh annual Marin County Women's Tournament of Champions at Indian Valley Golf Club in Novato. Admission is free.

"We should have a windy day," predicted Chuck Meyer, assistant pro. He added: "The wind plays havoc on (holes) one and 16 primarily. You're hitting into the teeth of the wind there. There's no protection from it."

This is the primary challenge for Mrs. Gondak of Marin Country Club, Laura Cann of Meadow Club, Liz Cole of Peacock Gap, Terry Nichols of Mill Valley Municipal, Peg Williams of Indian Valley and Nancy Gapinski of San Geronimo.

But it's not only the wind that affects play on the par 71 course (36 front nine, 35 back). "It's the hills, too. We have narrow fairways, water, out of bounds and heavy roughs plus trees. Accuracy will be the key.

"It will take about a 76 or 77 to win," said Meyer. It will also take a good putting touch. Indian Valley has fast greens. "The greens hold well. They are trim, cut and ready to go. The course is in good shape," Meyer said.

Now it's up to the golfers. It appears that Mesdames Gondak, Gapinski and Cann will battle for the title. Yet, challenges could come from Mmes. Cole, Nichols and Williams.

There is sentiment favoring Mrs. Williams, because Indian Valley is her home course. Said one observer: "It is her course, so she should know all the tricks in dealing with the problems."

Mrs. Nichols is noted for her determination. This is her second appearance in the champs tournament, and she may now have the experience to challenge.

This is Mrs. Cole's first appearance. She has no illusions of victory. However, underdog Cookie Baer (representing Peacock Gap) stunned a field that included Gondak, Capinski and Cann Aug. 24, 1972 at Mill Valley.

Gondak and Cann are noted for their long drives; Mrs. Gapinski may not match her rivals in distance, but she is accurate. She hits a straight ball.

Yet, Mrs. Gondak has the incenive. She hopes to become the second to retain the title. Cann won in 1969 and 1970.

Heads-Up Play Gives Italian Club A Win

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — There are many ways to win a ballgame, and Gary LaTorre discovered one of the oddest yesterday. He helped the Italian Athletic Club to victory just by standing around.

A bizarre, heads-up play by LaTorre helped the Marin team rally for four runs in the sixth inning and a 4-3 triumph over the San Francisco Kiwanis in the opening game of the state Joe DiMaggio youth baseball tournament.

By planting his 6-foot-3 frame on second base and standing tall, LaTorre prevented the Kiwanis second baseman from throwing home from short center field as Jeff Knotts scampered across with the winning run.

The play capped an odd rally. With two out and the bases loaded via two walks and a Mark Endriss single, Kiwanis made two errors on a grounder by Knotts to let in two runs.

On the next play, Phil Bacigalupi's grounder hit the Kiwanis shortstop in the Adam's apple. As the ball bounced over behind second base, one run scored, Knotts rounded third and LaTorre advanced to second and stood.

49ers' Washington Warns Of New Split

If Strike Is Renewed On Tuesday

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Receiver Gene Washington of the San Francisco 49ers predicts that if the majority of National Football League players vote next Tuesday to renew their strike, "It'll provide a split worse than the San Francisco earthquake."

Washington, a player representative, and Dan Abramowicz, also a receiver and assistant player representative, took time from their rest period between yesterday practice session to talk with newsmen about the strike.

"Some will come out and some won't, and that's where we'd have trouble," Washington said. "There've already been fist fights in some places, but this time it will be worse."

Washington and Abramocicz declined to predict the outcome of a meeting of player representatives they said would be held in Chicago Tuesday when each representative would list the votes from his team.

"The owners want us to be nice guys, all wear ties and drink milk," said Washington. "But the other side has its bad guys. We need a bad guy, too, and that's Ed Garvey."

Abramowicz, who said he had been in steel mill strikes, agreed. "We should be tough. When someone negotiates for me, I want him to be a steelie-eyed SOB."

Meanwhile, the NFLMC's executive committee, meeting in New York, agreed that no member of the union's negotiating team trying to settle the dispute could be cut until at least 14 days after he reported to camp.

AMERICA'S CUP

'Cross' Favored To Beat France

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Southern Cross, a new aluminum-hulled 12-meter, was favored to continue Australian domination over France today as the two yachts began the best-of-seven America's Cup foreign challengers series.

In the last previous such series in 1970, Gretel II of Australia beat Baron Marcel Bich's France four straight races. Gretel II now is Southern Cross's trial boat.

The two remaining U.S. yachts contending for the right to defend, Intrepid and Courageous, had the day off today after Courageous beat Intrepid by one minute 31 seconds yesterday to tie the standing in the final trials. Each has won five and lost two, with the standings including races against Mariner and Valiant, now dismissed from the trials.

WORLD FOOTBALL

Disputed Calls Aid Sun's Drive

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Birmingham and New York may be the hottest clubs in the World Football League on the field but the Philadelphia Bell is definitely very hot in the clubhouse.

Americans 15, Sharks 14

Charlie Harraway plunged two yards for a touchdown with 19 seconds left to lead the unbeaten Americans past the Sharks before 27,140 in Jacksonville. Grant Guthrie had field goals of 31 and 51 yards to give the Sharks a 6-0 lead before Matthew Reed threw 27 yards to Alfred Jenkins for a Birmingham TD.

Stars 43, Texans 10

Bob Gladieux ran for three TDs and caught a pass for another as the Stars ran their winning streak to five games by routing Houston before 12,042 in New York. Gladieux scored on runs on one, one and four yards and caught a five-yard TD pass from Tom Sherman.

Southmen 60, Hawaiians 8

John Huarte threw for four TDs in the first half and then took the rest of the night off as the Southmen set a WFL single game scoring record against the Hawaiians before 23,123 in Memphis. Ed Marshall and J.J. Jennings each scored two TDS for Memphis.

Blazers 11, Storm 7

Bob Davis threw 20 yards to Greg Latta for a TD and then passed to Latta for the action point as Florida beat the Storm before 15,451 in Orlando.

Black Point Launching Ramp Voted

Marin water sportsman can look forward to another boat-launching ramp "by next boating season" as a result of action taken Tuesday by the state Wildlife Conservation Board.

The board allocated $105,000 to expand the facilities at Black Point east of Novato, where the Petaluma River meets state Highway 37.

The money will be used to add a second lane to the boat-launching ramp, install convenience floats, and build more parking spaces and a permanent restroom.

"We hope to begin construction before the rains and have it ready by next boating season," said Brian Wittenkeller, chief park and open space planner for the county Parks and Recreation Department, which will oversee construction.

Residents of San Rafael, Novato and Petaluma make heavy use of the boat launching site. The only other public facilities nearby are in Sausalito, Vallejo, Petaluma and Tomales Bay.

The Black Point area now has 10 parking spaces, and 18 more will be added, Wittenkeller said.

The area provides access to the lower river and the north end of San Pablo Bay for striped bass fishing, waterfowl hunting and other recreational uses.

SHARK ATTACK — Tommy Durrance (20) of the Jacksonville Sharks broke through a hole in the Birmingham line for a short gain during last night's 15-14 World Football League loss in Jacksonville. American linebacker Warren Capone (55) wrapped his arms around Durrance's knees to make the tackle.

Miller Begins Comeback In Westchester Classic

What?

"I'm gonna be playing a lot from now until the end of the year," Miller says. "You'll hear from me again."

Miller, the 27-year-old 1973 U.S. Open champion who won five tournaments in the first four months of this year and then said he was "drained" from winning so much so fast, has set up a busy schedule for himself the rest of the year.

His appearance here marks only the third tournament for Miller on the U.S. tour in more than two months, in keeping with the plans he made in the spring to wind down his activity after passing $200,000 in 1974 money winnings.

But now Miller wants to start playing again.

People already are beginning to forget about him, even though he's still the year's hottest golfer, and some even are going so far as to day—get this, now—Miller is in a slump.

That brings a snap reaction.

"Anybody who would say I'm in a slump has to have rocks in their head," Miller protests. "I don't consider this a slump. I'm not missing cuts. The tournaments I'm playing in, I'm finishing. I'm not doing bad. I just haven't been playing much, that's all.

"All I need is just having enough enthusiasm to play good."

Does he have that enthusiasm now?

Miller isn't the only big name player overcome with ennui on the eve of what was once the tour's richest event but now is one of only a half-dozen tournaments offering a halfmillion dollars or more in prize money.

Jack Nicklaus flew in here early Wednesday after a quick trip late last week to Tokyo, where he's designing a course, and stops earlier this week in Pensacola, Fla., on Monday and Nashville and Cincinnati on Tuesday.

"I'm a little more interested now because I had a good tournament in the PGA," said Nicklaus, who finished second there to Lee Trevino. "I think that was probably the best tournament I played all year. I didn't win simply because a guy just played a little bit better than I did, but it brought a little of my interest back for the remainder of the year."

Ellis Beats Giants For Seventh Straight Win

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Ellis posted records of 19-9 and 15-7 in 1971 and 1972, respectively, when he led Pittsburgh to consecutive division titles. However, he dropped off to 12-14 last season as the Pirates finished third and was saddled with a less-than-spectacular 3-8 record through July 14 of this year when the Bucs were seven games out of first place.

At that point, the 29-year-old right-hander, who set a club record for starting pitchers in 1971 by winning 13 straight, regained his winning form and last night ran off his seventh consecutive victory when he tossed a seven-hitter and contributed a run-scoring single in the Pirates' 4-2 triumph over the San Francisco Giants. The win, the Pirates' 24th in 36 games since July 14, moved Pittsburgh to within 1 ½ games of first place St. Louis in the National League East Division.

"Statistics don't mean anything to me. I don't care if I win 100 in a row as long as we keep winning."

Phils 10, Reds 3

Mike Schmidt slammed his 31st and 32nd homers and drove in three runs to lead Philadelphia over Cincinnati as the Phils remained tied with Pittsburgh for second in the East and the Reds dropped 3 ½ games behind first place Los Angeles in the West. Schmidt's two homers tied him with Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox for the major league lead.

Braves 5, Cardinals 4

Mike Lum and Darrell Evans hit home runs to help Atlanta beat St. Louis and give the Braves a sweep of the three-game series. Evans' homer was his 16th and his third in three nights.

Dodgers 7, Cubs 5

Mike Marshall, appearing in his 82nd game this season, preserved Andy Messersmith's 14th victory in Los Angeles' triumph over Chicago. Marshall, notching his 18th save, stopped the Cubs without a hit over the final 1 2-3 innings. Willie Crawford homered for the Dodgers who completed a sweep of the three game series.

Mets 10, Astros 2

Rusty Staub drove in four runs with a double and sacrifice fly and Wayne Garrett collected three singles and two RBIs for New York in its victory over Houston. Jerry Koosman fired a six-hitter to earn his 12th win. Lee May homered for the Astros.

Expos 8, Padres 7

Barry Foote and Ron Hunt contributed RBI singles as Montreal rallied for two runs in the ninth to edge San Diego. Gene Locklear had given the Padres a 7-6 lead in the eighth with a pinch-hit home run. Bob Bailey smacked his 16th homer for the Expos.

Allen's Single Ruins No-Hitter

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The 24-year old Puerto Rican left-hander yielded only a seventh inning infield single to Dick Allen Wednesday when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox. It was the second time in two weeks that he carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning and this time he claimed credit for a feat for which he is not officially credited.

Moret, who had a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings against Milwaukee on Aug. 7, wasn't quarreling with the official scorer. He blamed himself for failing to field the slow roller Allen hit and which glanced off his glove to second baseman Doug Griffin, who had no play.

"For me, that's a no-hitter," he said.

Rangers 5 Orioles 1

Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer, his 25th, enabled Jim Bibby to win his 18th game for the Rangers with the late inning relief help of Jim Merritt and Steve Foucault. Ross Grimsley suffered his 11th loss for the Orioles.

Yankees 4 Twins 1

Graig Nettles had a runscoring double and a two-run single for the Yankees as George Medich raised his record to 15-11 with a six-hitter. Nettles' single capped a threerun third-inning rally which helped to hand Bill Butler his sixth setback. Rod Carew went 2-for-3 and raised his average to .365.

Indians 7 Royals 6

Charlies Spikes hit a two-run homer in the first inning and capped a two-run ninth inning rally with a run-scoring single to give Tom Buskey his first victory in his 36th relief appearance for Cleveland. The Royals had taken a 6-5 lead with a five-run seventh-inning rally capped by Vada Pinson's eighth major league grand slam. Fran Healy also homered for the Royals.

Angels 2 Tigers 0

Denny Doyle went 3-for-3 and drove in a run helping Andy Hassler win his third game against eight losses for the Angels. Lerrin LaGrow was tagged for only five hits but saw his record dip to 7-14 for Detroit.

Walton Looking Forward

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bill Walton came off the bicycle paths long enough this week to say he's looking forward to the coming National Basketball Association season.

"It'll be fun and I am looking forward to it. But then," he said, "I look forward to everything I do."

"I've spent the summer mostly moving around," he says of the time since undergoing knee surgery after signing with the Portland Trail Blazers for upwards of $2 million.

The former three-time UCLA All-America center added, "I've just been hanging around my friends mostly this summer."

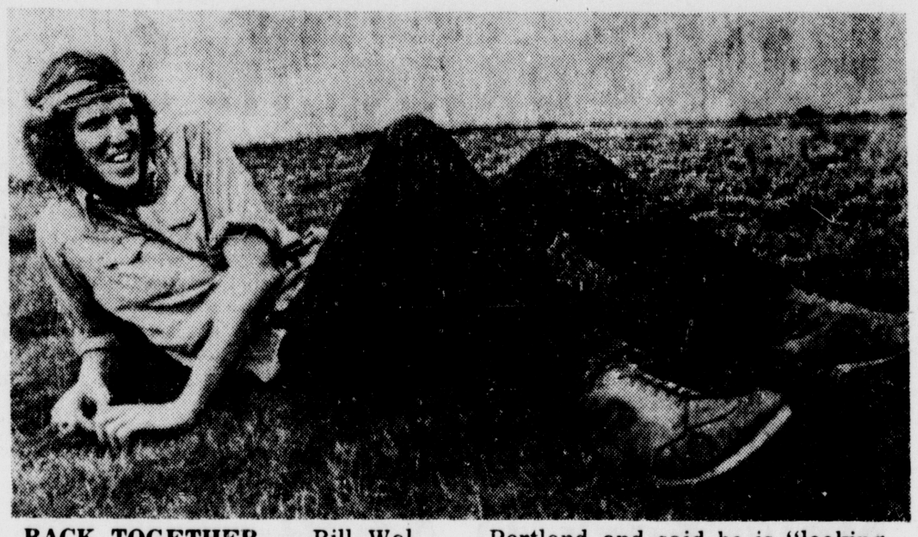
Earlier, he had planned to take a job working in the woods to get into physical sharpness for the start of rookie camp, but he decided not to do it. "It wouldn't have worked out too well," he said.

Rookie camp opens Sept. 12.

And he has done some backpacking and some bicycling this summer.

"I don't make plans," he said. "I do what I have to do on a given day and see what comes out. I try to stay relaxed. I don't have a lot of hangups that tend to bog me down."

Although the ABA offered Walton more money, he signed with Portland because he likes Oregon and the basketball is better in the NBA, he believes.



BACK TOGETHER — Bill Walton, looking fit and happy after recovering from minor knee surgery, relaxed on the grass in Portland and said he is "looking forward" to playing for the Trail Blazers in the upcoming National Basketball Association season.

Oklahoma Running Star Is Dropped From Roster

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

NORMAN, Okla. — Senior fullback Waymon Clark, who gained 1,014 yards last season for the University of Oklahoma, has been dropped from the 1974 roster for disciplinary reasons, coach Barry Switzer said Wednesday.

Clark, the Sooners' second leading rusher last year, is free on $1,000 bond on a misdemeanor charge of aggravated assault involving an incident in Greenville, Tex., this summer, but a spokesman said the dismissal was not necessarily prompted by the assault charges.

Tennis

BROOKLINE, Mass. — David Fells Goliath. Small ousts large. Obscurity is better than fame.

In other words, unseeded 26-year-old Jun Kamiwazumi of Japan swarmed all over the court Wednesday to pull off the upset of the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships, ousting top-seeded Stan Smith in a fierce, nerve-wracking second round match, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Baseball

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — The pitchers were the difference on the mound and at bat Wednesday as Maracaibo, Venezuela and Red Bluff, Calif. advanced to a semifinal showdown today in the Little League World Series.

Mark Keluche, a 5-foot-11, 250-pound full-blooded Indian, was too much for Equismalt, British Columbia. The 12-year-old struck out 11, fired a two-hitter and singled to ignite a three-run rally in Red Bluff's 3-0 quarterfinal victory.

He May Be World's Best

By DAVID EINSTEIN

There's no sense in being modest about it. Marin County has perhaps the best young archer in the world in Mike Gerard of Terra Linda.

The 13-year-old Terra Linda High School freshman firmly established himself as the best junior in America last week as he set nine records enroute to victory in the junior division of the U.S. National Outdoor Target archery championships at Oxford, Ohio.

The win was the most recent in a string that started early this year and has carried him across the country. He won the young adults class at the U.S. Field Archery championships in Golden, Colo., in July, and was second in the indoor nationals at Harrisburg, Pa., in May.

He also left no doubt of his superiority in California when he shattered 15 of 19 records in winning the state championships at Long Beach in May.

Having run out of targets as a junior (excuse the pun), Gerard has decided to become an adult — at least for archery purposes. Starting soon he will shoot against men instead of boys.

The decision to move up now is based on a long range plan to make the U.S. Olympic team in 1976.

"I'm going to start working out for it right now," the handsome, blond Gerard says. "I just have to shoot a lot and keep my health up and I think I'll make it."

Gerard began shooting two and one-half years ago. A Junior Olympics development program held by the Bow Rack club in San Pablo got him started competitively. Three months later, he won his first club meet.

His first open tournament was at Lake Tahoe the following year, where as a 12 year old, he won the junior class. Since then it has been one gigantic success after another, and along the way he has smashed national junior records established by such greats as Olympic gold medal winner John Williams of Texas and National Archery Association champion Darrell Pace of Ohio.

To ease his transition to adult shooting, Gerard has increased the poundage of the "limbs" of his bow from 32 to 41. The additional weight is necessary to reach the longer distances used by adults. Gerard does no special exercises, but he practices shooting for up to two hours each day.

In addition to immense talent, Gerard has the kind of confidence it takes to be an Olympian. He says of his upcoming debut as an adult shooter, in a state meet at Sacramento on Labor Day, "If I shoot like I did at the nationals, I can win it."

Wilson Extends Lead In Mallory

I-J Special Report

SEATTLE — About the only thing which can keep the Marin crew from winning the Mallory Cup today would be postponement of the races, which is possible.

The Marinites won both races yesterday to take a commanding lead in the North American championship competition for San Juan 24 yacht crews. Vann Wilson of San Anselmo is the skipper, aided by Frank Thomson of Mill Valley and Nathan Russell of Tiburon.

Yesterday's other race was called off due to lack of wind, the same problem which may force postponement of today's races, according to a spokesman for the host Corinthian Yacht Club of Seattle.

The Marinites have won four of the five races held so far in the eight-race series and have 40 points, far ahead of the 29½ posted by the Dick Wright team of New Jersey.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

In The Clover

By LEE TREVINO

Until the hot summer sun kills it, a lot of courses are "in clover." That doesn't mean the guy who's in it is having all the fun.

When clover gets between the ball and the clubface, the ball flies out of it without any backspin. This is called a flier, and neither the golfer nor the ball know where that baby's gonna land. All you know is that it's gonna hit the ground running.

The ball jumps out in a high trajectory because it contacts the club toward the top of the club face, making it nearly impossible to control. With no spin, it's floating free, subject to the whims of wind and low-flying airplanes.

To remedy this, and allow for the additional run that a flier gets, use one less club that you normally would.

Regardless of what that little Irish dude, John Mahaffey, says about four-leaf clovers, there just ain't anything lucky about being buried in 'em.

Contact the ball firmly. Hit is a sharply descending blow to reduce the amount of clover between it and the club.

A Long History Of Boxing In San Rafael

By RON LENT

Boxing champions, contenders and pretenders — their names are a litany of San Rafael's pugilistic history.

Boxing Hall of Fame members Gans and Ritchie, along with standouts Britt and Clabby, were products of Shannon's Villa, a training camp located at the west end of Fourth Street.

Boxing enjoyed great popularity in the Bay Area at the time (even though it was illegal for certain periods), and Shannon's Villa was a mecca for North Bay fight fans.

San Rafael heavyweight rivals Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski often sparred there, according to veteran San Francisco Examiner boxing writer Eddie Muller.

The first time was on May 30, 1889, near Fairfax, during a time when the authorities frowned on the art of fisticuffs. They fought four rounds before police stopped the bout.

The two combatants renewed hostilities five days later — and apparently in a more secluded place. Corbett won a $1,000 side bet with a 27th round knockout.

They prepared for 20-45-round bouts; so the fighters practically lived on training camp sites, Mueller pointed out. For this reason, facilities like San Rafael's Shannon were in great demand.

Such "stickouts" as Gans, Ritchie, Clabby and Britt would work out there under the watchful eyes of trainers and fans. Corbett and Choynski also appeared at various times.

The audience would arrive by horse and buggy from Sausalito after crossing the San Francisco Bay by ferry.

But the fight mob dispersed when Shannon closed his facilities in 1914. An era ended, but another was on the horizon. During the lull, San Rafael presented fights called "smokers." Such four-round bouts matched small-time or unknown combatants between 1915 and 1925. During the 20s, San Rafael had fights conducted in selected garages using local talent.

San Rafael's second major pugilistic period occurred in the 1950s with the advent of national championships sponsored by the International Boxing Club under President Jim Norris.

Irving (Whitey) Litchfield, the sportsman who owns San Rafael's Bermuda Palms Motel, ventured into cauliflower canyon in the mid 1950s when boxing flourished in San Francisco. Promoters, seeking out-of-town training sites for big-name pugs, chose the Bermuda Palms for its facilities and location.

In this brief period, four "name" fighters trained there — all for losing bouts. Slick Cleveland boxer Rocky Castellani was first. Castellani's manager, Jack Kearns, had his former middleweight king Mickey Walker help out, but it wasn't enough. On Aug. 20, 1954, middleweight champ Carl (Bobo) Olson outpointed Castellani in 15 rounds at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Former Light-heavyweight king Joey Maxim, a jaded boxer from Cleveland, prepared there for his April 13, 1954 joust with Olson in the Cow Palace. Maxim, a light puncher with splendid ring savvy, could not ward off the whirlwind body attack of decision-winner Olson.

Next came lightweight ruler Paddy DeMarco, a rugged, nonstop New York crowd-pleaser. He frequented San Rafael in preparation for his title defense against ex-champ Jimmy Carter. On Nov. 17, 1954, at the Cow Palace, Carter knocked out his rival in the 15th.

This short span ended with Don Cockell, a fleshy Great Britain heavyweight who trained at Litchfield's domain for his championship match with the late Rocky Marciano on May 16, 1955.

The game but talentless Cockell was decked by his own sparring partner, Bob Albrecht, prior to his Kezar Stadium engagement with the hard-hitting, undefeated champion. Marciano stopped his outclassed foe in the ninth round.

The Cockell episode marked the end of San Rafael's second major boxing era. Promoters still wanted to bring fighers to train at what was considered one of the finest training facilities in the Country. But Litchfield had had enough.

He had his motel and horse racing interests, and other could provide training grounds.

After that, proboxing endeavors in San Rafael were minimal. It seemed that modern San Rafael had no interest in legalized beak bashing.

NBA To Ponder Pistons, Playoffs

DETROIT (UPI) — Official approval of the sale of the Detroit Pistons and a possible expansion of the playoffs to 10 teams are the main topics today at a special meeting of the National Basketball Association board of governors.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the NBA has scheduled an afternoon news conference to announce the board's actions following the special session.

The NBA board of governors is expected to give its approval to the sale of the Pistons earlier this month.

New York D.A.: Pisani Didn't Take Any Bribes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manhattan district attorney Richard Kuh said yesterday that there was no evidence that Dr. Anthony Pisani, a former surgeon for the New York Giants football team, had received any compensation for giving information on players' injuries to two indicted Mafia bookmakers.

Speaking at the request of Pisani's attorney, who was concerned about a newspaper account of the case, Kuh also said there was no evidence that Pisani's involvement resulted from his gambling debts.

A Manhattan supreme court indictment announced yesterday said Pisani, the Giants' orthopedic surgeon until he resigned last month, conferred "on a regular basis" with Michael Astarita, 47, of Hillsdale, N.J., and Thomas Musto, 64, of New York, during the 1973 football season.

Musto and Astarita, who reportedly have connections to the crime family of the late Vito Genovese, allegedly ran a $26 million a year gambling operation which handled over $1 million in football bets.

Pisani, however, testified under a grant of immunity and was not named as either a co-defendant or a co-conspirator.

In announcing the indictment, Kuh said only that the information from Pisani allowed the defendants to "better gauge the performance of the team."

Sources said such information was of high value to a gambler in arranging the odds for an upcoming game.

Kuh said Pisani's attorney, Gregory Perrin, called his office today and "asked that we comment on his role, particularly because of one newspaper report that the doctor was heavily in debt to gamblers."

"We learned of Dr. Pisani's involvement and asked him to come into a grand jury and testify and he refused to waive immunity," Kuh's statement said.

"Because our search satisfied us that his involvement was not the result of his gambling debts, we granted him immunity."

Kuh added that "there is nothing in our investigation that showed that Dr. Pisani was paid for his information — either paid with 'X' dollars or excused from a debt."

King Meets Goolagong

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two of the most glamorous players in the emerging world of women's tennis, Billie Jean King and Evonne Goolagong — will meet head-on tonight.

The other semi sends the Denver Racquets to Bloomington, Minn., to face the Minnesota Buckskins tonight.

King ignored her sore thumb to win women's singles and women's doubles last night as Philadelphia eliminated Cleveland. She defeated Nancy Gunter, 6-4, and teamed with Julie Anthony to stop Winnie Wooldridge and Laura Dupont.

Goolagong, meanwhile, whipped Sausalito's Rosemary Casals in singles, 6-2, and joined Peggy Michel to defeat Casals and Kerry Harris.

Knievel Talks About Death

Thoughts Of Failure Worsen As Jump Nears

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Evel Knievel feels the same as everybody else.

He doesn't want to die.

The possibility he may, however, in two more weeks never is entirely lost on him.

He has the date, Sept. 8 stamped in his mind. For Evel Knievel, that could turn out to be either Super Sunday or Judgement Day.

That's the day all systems will have to be go for him and he must do everything precisely right or they'll find him and his motorcycle in eternal embrace at the bottom of Snake River Canyon, which is only a spit and a holler outside Twin Falls, Idaho.

Evel Knievel, a friendly, easy-to-like young man, thinks positively. He's 34 and believes he'll make 35. The gnawing thought he may not, though, always keeps coming up in the back of his mind.

He talked about it yesterday in a helicopter taking him to a news conference at the foot of Manhattan.

"How much do you think about whether you'll make it or not?" I asked him.

"Enough," he said.

"Even when you lie in bed at night?"

"Sure. It's all I can think about when I'm by myself like that. Whether everything is gonna be okay or not. It gets worse as it gets closer."

Sometimes you get a certain feeling about a person. My own personal feeling, listening to Evel Knievel talk above the noisy whirring blades of the helicopter, was that he was being perfectly honest and truthful. He didn't give me the feeling he was talking merely to build up the "gate." He doesn't have to, anyway.

Knievel's attractive wife, Linda, also was in the helicopter looking after the couple's three children.

"Does your wife ever say to you, you're crazy, you ought to stop doing this?" I asked the Montana-born one-time rodeo rider.

"She never says I'm crazy," he said, "but she does want me to stop doing this."

"What does she say to you?"

"I wish you wouldn't jump the canyon.'"

"What do you say to her?"

"Why?"

"Because I gave my word. You're looking at a man who is going to do what he said he would. I know some people are saying I'm only doing it for the money, for the six million. They're wrong. I've already got three-four million. I don't need six more. You know there are three mysteries to life. Where do we come from? Why do we do what we do? And where are we gonna go? I don't pretend to have the answers. I hope to go to heaven, but I'm in no hurry to get there."

"What if you should lose your nerve up there on the takeoff ramp?" I asked him.

"I won't," he said, dismissing the possibility immediately.

Millions are going to see Evel Knievel make the jump—or miss. Some will be right there at Snake River; others will watch on television. There will be 300 closed circuit outlets in this country and Canada showing the jump, which also will be seen on live or delayed TV in Japan, Australia, England, Germany, France and South America. I asked Evel Knievel if he thinks people generally want to see him make it or does he think some watch thinking he'll be killed?

"I think five per cent come to see me get killed," he said, without much emotion. "Forty-five per cent don't want to miss it, no matter what happens, and fifty per cent are my fans. They're with me all the way."

When Evel Knievel talked about his fans, I asked him how he handles all those invitations he gets from young girls and women. He thought that one over a moment or so.

"I've known women.... when I was younger, but my wife is my girl," he said. "We've been married 15 years now and I've never had a better girl than the one I married."

By this time the helicopter was coming down.

Evel Knievel got out of the chopper while his wife and three kids remained inside as it took off again so they could see some of the sights of Manhattan.

"Are you satisfied with your machine?" someone asked.

"If I'm not, it's too late," said Knievel.

"One Congressman has been quoted as saying little children should be forbidden to watch your jump," offered someone else. "How do you feel about that?"

The expression on Evel Knievel's face suddenly changed. He looked angry.

"I've traveled this country eight years speaking on automobile safety," he said. "I've also traveled this country eight years speaking to young people against narcotics. I wear a white suit when I ride my motorcycle, not a black one. Little kids don't run away from me, they identify with me...."

Evel Knievel wasn't quite finished yet.

"You tell that Congressman to go straight to hell," he said.

Wonderful Unanimity In State Legislature

Unanimity, as we all know, is difficult to achieve. Even a five-member board is likely to split 3-2 or 4-1 on many issues.

It would seem too much to expect that all 40 senators or all 80 assemblymen in the California Legislature would often be found in agreement. Among so many, differences of opinion appear almost inevitable.

SURPRISINGLY, though, California's legislators — who, of course, study each bill brought before them thoroughly before casting their votes — quite often vote unanimously.

On some measures, this should not astonish us. It probably should be expectable that Assembly and Senate would both pass by unanimous votes such a bill as SB 1610 by Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, making the last week of April and first week of September "High School Voter Weeks." Setting up special days and weeks, with the schools supposed to take time off from teaching to observe them with "appropriate exercises," is a favorite hobby of legislators.

But unanimity among the dedicated lawmakers in Sacramento does not stop there.

It might seem that at least one of the 40 senators would find some objection to SB 1575 by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, lowering the age for education of mentally retarded children from five years to three years. Since the bill carried no appropriation, some senator, it would seem, might object to the added cost imposed on counties and school districts. But no! The Senate vote for SB 1575 was unanimous.

The same was true of SB 1782 by Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, and others, mandating establishment od development centers for handicapped children — also without appropriation.

IT MIGHT appear that leaving out appropriations made such bills unanimously acceptable. But votes on other measures prove our lawmakers can be equally unanimous when appropriating our money.

Over in the Assembly, AB 490 by Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-Rialto, appropriating $2 million to promote use of educational television, passed unanimously. So did AB 585 by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell, appropriating $150,000 for dental care education for migrant children. So did AB 3854 by then-Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and our own Assemblyman William T. Bagley, making an appropriation for special classes for autistic children — and requiring that school districts provide them. So did many other appropriation bills.

The acme (or, perhaps, the nadir) of unanimity, however, may have been reached on AB 3418 by Assemblyman Howard L. Berman, D-Sherman Oaks. It eliminates unprofessional conduct as a cause for teacher dismissal. It passed the Assembly without a dissenting vote.

COULD IT BE possible that those we elect to the Legislature vote for bills without bothering to even find out what they are?

Perish the thought! Of course they study each bill thoroughly, as they assure us they do. They are just all of like mind on such important (though obviously non-controversial) matters.

Ja!

Welcome, Strangers

People who move to Marin from the East or Midwest in the summer may be caught off-guard by the coolness of our nights, as the heat in the Sacramento Valley causes an influx of air to rush from the cold Pacific across our county.

We well remember how we shivered on army cots in an empty, heatless house on our arrival more than a quarter of a century ago. We were unaware then of Mark Twain's remark, "The coldest winter I ever spent was summer in San Francisco."

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Well-Paid Legislators Eat High On The Hog — For Free

By K.W. LEE
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — If lobbyists are telling the truth under penalty of perjury, California legisltors may be feeding off the biggest and fanciest welfare program in the contry.

These well-endowed lawmakers are wined and dined in plush restaurants and resort clubs to an average tab of $6.875 a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year.

All this feasting is tax free.

OVER A 15-MONTH period, a survey of the monthly "wining and dining" reports filed by more than 600 registered lobbyists shows, a total of $919,483 was spent for free food, free booze, and other entertainment for legislative purposes.

Another $2.1 million was spent during the same period from January, 1973, to March, 1974, for "other expenses," including gifts and junkets for state lawmakers.

Even if these high-spending lobbyists have padded their expense accounts more than 100 per cent, the average "wining and dining;; costs would amount to $3,000 a day.

That would mean an extra $18,200 tax-free fringe benefit a year for each legislative member, in addition to their $19,200 yearly salary to be raised to $21,120 in December, plus the $30-a-day, seven-day-a-week "living expense" while in session, plus other expenses for interim committee work, plus free luxury cars, plus free gasoline and oil, plus unlimited telephone calls, plus first-class travel arrangements, plus a fabulous pension plan.

Jesse Unruh, former Assembly speaker, didn't even include this "wining and dining" bonanza in his list of fringe benefits when he gave a $150,000 price tag to the life-style of a California legislator not long ago.

AS THE LOBBYISTS' own reports filed with the Joint Rules Committee indicate, feeding and entertaining legislators has grown to be a multimillion-dollar industry in the state capital.

But these volumes — annually published by the legislative committee — are a meaningless body of information since, by a design or accident, the lobbyists are not required to identify the legislators they have wined and dined and for what purposes.

A constitutional amendment, approved by voters in June, will limit lobbyists to spending $10 a month on ach legislator. The amendment, adopted by the voters as Proposition 9, will take effect Jan. 6.

Taxpayers sometimes have to pay double to support and entertain their legislators. Not only do they have to pay for the salaries and other fringe benefits of the lawmakers, but also have to finance the wining and dining activities of lobbyists representing their city, or county or special districts. For instance, the City of Los Angeles, through its lobbyists in Sacramento, spent $6,657 feeding legislators over a 13-month span.

"Legislators can hardly go hungry," one legislative worker remarks. "If he wants to, he can go through the whole week without buying a single meal."

San Anselmo Sets Example For County

The San Anselmo City Council and mayor showed Marin County a good example at their last meeting when they chose Alan Bruce, city manager. Marin County has plenty of talented and dedicated natives so why do the various cities always come up with an outsider that has to cope with local problems? I don't know Alan Bruce personally, but I do know he lived in San Anselmo 14 years and was a county administrator 1960-1971.

Adult Reader Wants 'Tumbleweeds' Back

I realize this may be a somewhat frivolous letter for an adult to write, but I wish to protest your deletion of "Tumbleweeds" from your comic strip page.

I am admittedly a comic strip fan, and very much enjoyed the excellent cartoon work and wit of "Tumbleweeds." I applaud your adding the very funny "Dr. Smock" to the I-J, but why did "Tumbleweeds" have to go?

. . .If another strip has to be deleted to make room for "Tumbleweeds," I can recommend "Funky Winkerbean" as a prime candidate — certainly one of the dullest, most witless pieces of comic strip work to come along in many years (surpassed only by the absolutely idiotic "Nancy," which you had the foresight to delete some while ago). . .

Record Of Nixon Likened To Lincoln's

Re: "Reporter's Notebook," Aug. 14.

Black Republican was the name given to Abraham Lincoln when he ran for president . . . For two decades an alliance between the planters in the South and the farmers of the Northwest had kept the Democrats in power; that alliance Lincoln had broken, and with it, at least for the time being, went the power of the Democrats in the national government.

President Nixon handled the Democrats in the same way. He was the first president since Taylor in 1848 to be elected to office without his party in control of Congress. In the past 20 years the Democratic Party has controlled the Congress during Nixon's vice presidency and presidency.

Lincoln was a minority president in votes. His total vote of 1,866,452 was but 40 per cent of the total votes cast.

President Nixon was a majority president in popular votes and a minority president in receiving cooperation and action from the Congress. If President Nixon had only done one-fourth of what he did do during his terms in office, he still would have performed "miracles."

The reporter's respondent was said to be speaking "facetiously but sadly." A good trick, if it can be done. . .

President Nixon's money isn't in Swiss banks. Besides being an astute politician, he is also a knowledgeable investor. What's better than owning real estate in Florida and California?

(Nixon was not the first president since 1848 elected without his party in control of Congress. When Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected to his second term in 1956, Democrats won control of both houses. Republican Rutherford B. Hayes was elected in 1876 with Democrats in control of the House of Representatives. Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected in 1884 with Republicans in control of the Senate. Nixon was a minority president in popular vote for his first term, receiving 43.4 per cent of the total vote. — Editor)

San Rafael Redevelopment 'Rips Off' Taxpayers

Your Aug. 16 editorial position that the proposed expansion of the San Rafael redevelopment area is a misuse of redevelopment is well taken and your concern that the diversion of tax revenues would result in higher taxes for all San Rafael property owners is commendable.

What is not commendable is your total lack of concern for all the taxpayers outside the city limits of San Rafael who are being ripped off for the present redevelopment scheme, the prime beneficiaries of which are downtown San Rafael property owners such as the owners of the I-J.

The so-called "redevelopment area" increased in value 13.5 per cent last year and cost the taxpayers outside of that area over $1 million, according to the figures furnished by Michael Mitchell, county auditor, which information was inconspicuously located at the bottom of page 23 of the same issue of your paper.

Millions upon millions of dollars of private funds have been spent in new construction in your so-called "redevelopment area," and the investors have done very well, which is as it should be. This action by the private sector has made San Rafael anything but a blighted area. The few remaining areas on the side streets that need redevelopment will likewise be rebuilt by private funds as the need arises. It is no place for public money, especially when the money is being paid against their will by taxpayers in Fairfax, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Tomales, Novato, Belvedere, etc., etc. . .

School Neighbors Suffer From Vandalism

I have resided on Fern Lane in San Anselmo for nine years. For the past three years, extensive property damage has occurred to almost every neighbor by a few misguided Sir Francis Drake High School students.

Letters have been sent to Mr. Miller, the principal, the resident of this street have beseeched their city councilmen to effect a solution to the problem. One person from the Tamalpais School District has bothered to return my call to that office, but with no solution to be put into effect.

The solution is a simple one. Erect a wall that would in effect not allow any student to come onto Fern Lane during their school hours. It boils down to the discomfort of a few, or the costly expense of repairs that have to be done to our property as a result of the destruction caused by the students.

My feeling is either the Tam School District and the city council adopt my solution to the problem, or whatever they feel should be done to stem the tide of destruction, or these officials should be voted out of office and new candidates sought who can make themselves responsible to the citizenry of San Anselmo and their problems.

The city council in June decided to wait until October for further discussion relating to this problem. Meanwhile, the students return in September and the destruction begins as it has been for the past three years. Why a solution could not have been sought prior to the opening of school is beyond my powers of comprehension.

World Capitals Watch Closely For Test Of New President

American and allied foreign offices and intelligence services are on the watch for any unfriendly effort to exploit the changeover in authority in Washington.

Not that the U. S. State Department and intelligence quarters in Washington and elsewhere expect the Russians to repeat their behavior when John F. Kennedy took over from Dwight D. Eisenhower. Times were very different then and Nikita Khrushchev was an adventurer inclined to take long chances. He thought he could bully the new young president out of Berlin and Cuba. He precipitated a serious double crisis and gave the world an anxious two years.

Leonid I. Brezhnev is a far more cautious man than was Mr. Khrushchev. Moscow remembers all the trouble the Cuban missile crisis caused. Moscow wants and needs detente. And there is now an answer to a dangerous Soviet demarche that did not exist in the Kennedy era.

At that time Washington considered mainland China to be its most dangerous enemy. Today China is the counterpoint to the Soviet Union. If the Russians were to make some threatening move in the West, Washington could counter by reaching for a closer relationship with China. Demarche could be met by demarche.

THE DANGER TODAY is probably from lesser capitals that might think Mr. Ford will be too busy learning his way around his command post in Washington to have time for small things.

For example, the Turks apparently determined to capture more territory on Cyprus regardless of anything Washington said to them behind the scenes. They went ahead in defiance of just about every responsible voice in the world, except for the Russians, who, obviously find this situation promising. For them, it has nothing to do with the Ford takeover. It is merely the first real breach in NATO ranks. It is a marvelous opening for them, which they are bound to enjoy, even if they avoid any overt involvement.

Washington eyes are also watching Vietnam. The situation there is soft. Congress is cutting back American funds for South Vietnam. Hanoi has raised its deployment in the South from the normal level of 145,000 of its regular army forces to 180,000. And the level of military activity is above normal.

This is not a general offensive, and none is expected before December, if then. But the snapping and the nagging is a higher-than-normal level. It is a matter of keeping up a degree of pressure on the South Vietnamese forces that keeps them always on duty and under strain. The purpose is probably just to deny South Vietnam a chance to rest and recuperate, and to be ready to pounce if American aid to Saigon should dwindle below the danger line.

Moscow might encourage Hanoi to raise the level of pressure ever higher. This is to be watched, although it is not expected.

ISRAEL IS WORRIED about what may happen during this transition period. Might Moscow encourage Syria or Egypt, or both, to launch another offensive against Israel? Probably not. But it is worth watching.

There are other sensitive places in the world. One is the Indian Ocean, where Russian naval activity has been rising steadily for years. Another is West Berlin, where renewed pressure would cause danger and anxiety and where pressure can be switched on or off on a moment's notice.

At this writing the East Germans have not been interfering with road and rail traffic through the corridor from West Germany. But they did interfere for a while, and there were threats even to air traffic. The original reason was local and parochial. But it should be watched.

Mr. Ford's toughness could be tested quicker and more sharply at Berlin than at any one other point on the globe. And there are experts in western foreign offices who think that the Kremlin is bound to make at least one test of the new American president. After all, how better to find out how he will behave in a crisis situation than to provoke one?

Congress Flexing Its Muscles Over Power Of The Purse

By GEORGE J. MARDER

That could be a sign of trouble for President Ford who is easily getting Congress to give him a toothless Cost of Living Council to monitor wage and price increases.

The muscle-flexing came when Kenneth Rush, chief economic spokesman for former President Nixon, appeared as leadoff witness at the first meeting of a newly-created Senate Committee on the budget.

THE COMMITTEE was set up under a new law Congress passed this session to try to recapture some of its constitutional power of the purse. It is made up of heavyweights who have powerful influence on the appropriation process in Congress.

At the outset, the committee chairman, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, wanted to establish Rush's credentials. After all, Rush was a carryover from a discredited administration.

Rush assured him that his testimony represented the "consensus" of the new administration and President Ford "approved" it.

Rush, speaking for the new administration, told the senators some tough decisions were being made to slow down government spending. The target was at least a $5 billion cut from the $305 billion budget sent to Congress in January.

He said that to do this — or to get to a lower figure if possible — would require cooperation from Congress in two ways: discarding some old spending programs and backing away from some new perhaps popular ones. Rush said pending legislation, if passed, would send the budget way out of whack.

THE TONE OF RUSH'S testimony was that the new Ford administration was seeking cooperation from Congress on its budget.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., one of the real heavyweights in Congress on spending programs, listened patiently until it was his turn to question Rush. Instead of questioning, he gave Rush a lecture.

Go back to the White House, Magnuson told Rush, and tell them that we are not cooperating with their budget, but we're asking for cooperation with our budget. By "our" budget he meant the congressional budget.

And you tell them, Magnuson continued, that we are going to cut the budget a lot more than you or they think. And we don't want you to come back with a $3 billion or $4 billion supplemental request for extra funds.

(Last year, the administration submitted a supplemental budget of $7 billion.)

MAGNUSON'S ATTITUDE indicated a new sensitivity in Congress regarding the power over the purse. But it reflected an old controversy over who is responsible for big spending — Congress or the White House.

And the cutting Congress already has done in the first few days of the Ford administration isn't quite what the new President had in mind. Congress took steps to cut defense and foreign aid spending by almost $6 billion — this just after the President cautioned against cuts in the defense budget.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By THERON NEWELL

Bypass Changes Traffic Patterns; Street Names Still Confusing

When the freeway bypass is opened in Novato in a few months, it will dramatically change the traffic patterns in the east end of the business district.

DeLong Avenue will be the main off-ramp to the city. This will tend to funnel the main flow of traffic down it and across the present highway to Diablo Avenue, the Novato Fair Shopping Center, and other shopping centers on South Novato Boulevard.

Grant Avenue, which has always had a struggle to become the main shopping area of the city, may be hard hit, or it may prosper because of the better flow of local traffic.

WHICH BRINGS UP the subject of street name changes. Actually Grant Avenue, or the street with main flow of traffic, takes a slight bend at Novato Creek. It then becomes Virginia Avenue, which dead-ends in Simmons Lane. Officially Grant Avenue makes a sudden turn for a very short block past the Catholic Church and then dead-ends in Novato boulevard.

DeLong Avenue leaves the freeway bypass and in a few blocks reaches the present highway. On crossing the highway, it becomes Diablo Avenue.

South Novato Boulevard actually is an extension of Highway 37 (but not officially). It goes westward for several blocks and then heads north, still bearing the same name.

After going north for approximately a mile and a half, it makes a slight bend to the west, where it becomes Novato Boulevard.

The worst example of all is Seventh Street. It is Seventh Street through what is sometimes called the Northwest Quadrant, and on to the north where it ends short of San Marin Drive.

Where it crosses Grant Avenue, it becomes a wide curving street that narrowd down to an alley-like street called Tamalpais Avenue which dead-ends in a hill.

THE CITY OF NOVATO is not very good at business.

It has just bought a new street sweeper, and if it had tried, could have had it partially paid for by the time it arrived in the city.

The city could have contracted with Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and California to sweep the westbound lane of Highway 80.

The city sent two men to Chicago and they drove the street sweeper the 2,200 miles to Novato. They might have swept their way west.

Interest Found Short In Equivalency Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Fewer persons than anticipated are taking advantage of the new opportunity to obtain high school equivalency certificates in California.

Under a state law which took effect in January, California began awarding equivalency certificates to persons who were not high school graduates but who pass a battery of tests in high school subjects.

Noel Glasgow, a state Department of Education field representative in charge of the new program, said "fewer persons than expected" were applying for the certificates— which can help a person qualify for a job or promotion.

"The program has started slowly but we think it will build when more people know about it," Glasgow said. "An awful lot of people don't know that it's available."

In addition to lack of publicity, Glasgow said other major reasons for the slow start were closure of many adult education testing centers during the summer and department budget restrictions which prevent hiring of more personnel to help with the program.

During Sacramento ceremonies in May when the first certificates were awarded to eight Northern Californians, state Schools Superintendent Wilson C. Riles told the group: "You'll be, I believe, the first of many, many thousands who'll take advantage of this."

Several of the recipients told why they wanted the equivalency certificate.

Ada Harris, a 33-year-old Sacramento mother of seven school-age children, said when her children were small, she had no time to attend adult school classes.

Once the younger children reached an age where they could be left with their grandmother, Mrs. Harris said, she decided to seek a clerical job and, as a first step, applied for the certificate.

"I thought it might do the trick for me. I thought it would open the door," said Mrs. Harris, who also has been taking adult education courses in typing and math.

Another recipient was Sophie Albright, 29, a native of Vietnam who became a U.S. citizen last fall. She applied for a certificate although she had completed high school in Vietnam.

"But I had no paper to prove I had that education," she said. "I thought I better have something here, and then people will not argue about it."

Glasgow said many of the certificate recipients so far are persons who enlisted in the armed services before completing high school. He said some servicemen apply for the equivalency diploma because they need it to qualify for service promotions.

Until Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, authored the bill which set up the equivalency program this year, California was the only state not offering such certificates.

Glasgow said California education officials had felt "we had an excellent adult school setup" in the state which permitted anyone who wanted a regular high school diploma to get one. But he said officials have realized that many persons, especially the poor, don't have the time or opportunity to attend adult courses.

To apply for the certificates, a person must be a resident of California or a serviceman stationed here and be 18 years of age or older.

Equivalency applicants must pass five two-hour tests in science, social studies, composition and grammar, mathematics and literature before they are awarded the certificate. There is an $8 fee for the certificates.

Applications are made at 235 adult education testing centers throughout the state. Glasgow said the centers since 1946 have been testing adults who are seeking regular high school diplomas after completing required adult education courses.

Sonoma Slates Indian Course

An extension course on titled "Culture of the Coast Miwok Peoples of Marin" will be offered by Sonoma State College beginning Sept. 12 at the Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael.

Instructed by Don Theiler and Marilyn Ginn Licklider, the course will allow school teachers to familiarize themselves with what is known of the social and material culture of the Indians who occupied Marin County before the white man's arrival.

The same teachers will offer a course titled "Advanced Culture of the Coast Miwok Peoples of Marin" at the same time, date and location.

4-H Club Display At Center's Library

An exhibit of the activities of the 22 4-H Clubs in Marin County is on display in the California Room of the Marin County Public Library's Civic Center branch through the end of August during regular library hours.

The display shows crafts, home economics, livestock and other projects of the clubs' 1,000 members. Leslie Hinerman, an award-winning 4-H member and summer intern in the county farm adviser's office, assembled the display.

Kennedy Criticizes Vets For Stand On Amnesty

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy yesterday told the Veterans of Foreign Wars he thinks they were "narrow" in rejecting President Ford's plea for leniency for men who refused to serve in Vietnam.

Angry veterans jumped to their feet and shouted, "No, no, no" when the Massachusetts Democrat asked if they had "faith enough to be generous and the strength to be, as the (Ford) said, lenient."

Kennedy, departing from the text of a speech prepared for the VFW convention, scolded the veterans for passing a resolution Tuesday restating their total opposition to any form of amnesty. On Monday, Ford asked the group to join him in considering leniency for the thousands of young draft dodgers and deserters who face criminal prosecution if they return to America.

"It was wrong to turn him down without even hearing his proposal in full," Kennedy said. "I believe it was wrong for this great gathering to be the first to turn against him.

"In the action you took, I believe that you were narrow."

Kennedy said Ford had gone to the VFW "as a commander in chief would to his men" with "a proposal that had mercy and leniency built into it."

"It was these basic virtues that he placed before you," Kennedy said.

"I call on you to be large enough, courageous enough to heed the call of a man who sought your support. On this issue, he deserves it."

Despite the angry outburst during Kennedy's speech, the veterans applauded politely as he finished, and VFW Commander Ray Soden told him, "We can disagree, Senator, but we will never be disagreeable."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Bond Investing Fund Is Sought

and DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I will soon have some cash available for investment and am interested in convertible bonds. Is there a no-load which invests exclusively or almost in convertible bonds? It seems to me there is sizable leverage in this area. E. D.

A. I agree that this looks like a good time to buy convertibles and convertible bond funds. Most are selling at bargain levels reflecting soaring interest rates and falling stock prices. However, interest rates should begin to ease causing bond prices to go up and as part of the same scenario, stock prices should rise. Thus, the convertible bond funds have two strings in their bows. In the interim, as a shareholder you will be accruing a generous return from your investment.

To my knowledge the only no-load with a sizeable commitment in this type of security is Steadman Associated Fund with 29 per cent of assets in convertible bonds. Two closed-end and one load convertible fund are worth considering, however. Closed-end American General Convertible Securities is selling on the NYSE at a 2 per cent discount from net asset value. The annual $1.32 dividend yields about 8.8 per cent. The portfolio, around 90 per cent convertible securities, has a number of CCC-rated speculations and unrated securities. However, the major holdings are largely in the BB sector. This fund is a buy for superior income and moderate appreciation.

Bancroft Convertible (ASE), a heavily discounted (24 per cent) closed end, carries a number of high-risk issues, two of which are in default. Nonetheless, NAV is down only 5 per cent this year, partly because it has avoided investments convertible into high multiple stocks. This fund may be bought for its comparatively high income yield (9 per cent) and speculative potential, if you are able to assume some risk. Putnam Convertible, a load fund, holds convertibles with strong growth potential (ARCO, Xerox). The portfolio is about 77 per cent in convertible issues and 12 per cent in straight bonds to improve yield. This high-quality fund is an excellent choice for moderate current income (5.9 per cent) and long-term appreciation.

Selling Wave On Market Continues

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investor wariness over inflation and interest rates pushed stock prices still lower on the New York Stock Exchange today. Trading was moderate.

Even favorable economic news has failed to stem the selling wave. Investors apparently need some concrete measures to combat the inflationary pressures plaguing the economy before their confidence in the market is restored.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon today supported Federal Reserve chairman Arthur F. Burns testimony before the new Senate Budget Committee urging a $10 billion cut in the federal budget. Burns also told the committee he favored a reduction in the capital gains tax to encourage the small investor to return to the marketplace.

Among the glamors taking point-size losses, Burroughs fell 2 ⅛, and IBM and Walt Disney 1 ½ each.

He succeeds Jack Eddy, district manager for the past six years, who has accepted a post as district manager of the Business Service Center in San Francisco.

As manager of the Marin district, Goodmanson is responsible for more than 77,000 Pacific Telephone customers in Marin. The district covers an area from South Novato to the Golden Gate Bridge and has some 142,000 telephones.

A native of Portland, he graduated from Seattle Pacific College in Seattle in 1961 and attended Wharton Graduate School of Business where he received his master of business administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania two years later.

Goodmanson began his Bell System career as an assistant manager in Sacramento in 1963 and served in both Sacramento and Reno. In 1968, he was promoted to college relations supervisor and later served as district commercial manager in Sacramento. His most recent assignment was in a personnel post in the Santa Rosa area headquarters. He lives in Santa Rosa with his wife and three children.
